MONROE TO SEEK $1,588,000 FROM U. S. WORK FUND

18 PROJECTS PLANNED

New City Hall Is Biggest Item On List; Would Cost $300,000

The city of Monroe will ask for the allocation of $1,588,000 for municipal improvements under the new federal work-relief bill, it was announced Saturday morning by Mayor Arnold Bernstein after a conference with his fellow-commissioners and other city officials.

Prior to the conference Mayor Bernstein held a long-distance conversation with officials of the state office of the ERA at New Orleans, who expressed satisfaction that Monroe was moving promptly to present its list of projects in harmony with the government's design to set the wheels of industry and labor in motion through its huge work relief program.

The ERA officials assured Mayor Bernstein that every facility would be offered to aid this city in getting the projects approved and work started as soon as possible. A conference between local officials and ERA executives will be arranged as soon as the method of operation under the work relief program has been fixed. Mayor Bernstein stated that City Engineer W. I. Neel had been instructed to immediately prepare engineering data and approximate costs to present before the conference as soon as it is called.

A list of the local projects for which the city will ask government appropriations was given out by the mayor as follows:

Auxiliary sanitary sewer system, $200,000; storm sewer pumping stations, etc., $60,000; extension of sanitary sewer mains, $36,000; storm sewer extensions, $67,000; drainage canals, $50,000; school building improvements and extensions, $100,000; water main extensions, $155,000; fire stations, $30,000; garbage incinerator, $20,000; extension to fire alarm system, $30,000; city hall and police station, $300,000; swimming pool and facilities, $60,000; athletic field and stadium, $45,000; recreation buildings and center, $25,000; park improvement, $25,000; gymnasium and facilities, $125,000; abattoir, $135,000; river terminal, $125,000; total, $1,588,000.

"These estimates cover what is regarded as the most important of the municipal projects," the mayor said.

IL DUCE TO SEEK ARMS DISCUSSION

Will Ask To Talk About More Guns For Three More Nations

(By Associated Press)

Premier Mussolini will ask Foreign Secretary Simon of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Laval of France at the Stresa conference beginning next Thursday, to discuss an accord to allow Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria to rearm, it was reported in high Italian sources yesterday.

France continued mindful of her eastern border, announcing plans to man its steel and concrete fortifications with 60,000 troops ordered held under arms three months beyond the normal conscript period.

ROME—Official quarters said Italy's viewpoint concerning the Stresa conversations may be summed up thus: "Do something strong and concrete—with or without Germany."

PARIS—The ministerial council approved plans to keep 60,000 conscripts under arms in order to maintain the army's strength at the 350,000 considered the minimum for safety.

LONDON—With the cabinet scheduled to meet Monday to draft Britain's proposals at Stresa, high quarters said Austrian, Hungarian and Bulgarian rearmament would be one of the topics discussed.

GENEVA—League of Nations circles heard Germany, which resigned from the league in October, 1933,

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6.—Washington is misty and cloudy today, appropriate weather, with everybody wondering what is going to happen.

The four thousand eight hundred and eighty million dollars "prosperity bill' has finally fought its way through the house and the senate.

That sum, almost five billion dollars, seems like a great deal of money, enough to bring back prosperity and make everybody happy, until you remember that five billions are less than fifty dollars for every inhabitant of the United States. You cannot do much with fifty dollars, at the present cost of living.

Imagine how much it would take of public money to keep this country going, if everybody decided to go on "relief."

WITNESS ASSERTS FISHER WAS HIGH 'LIVER, GAMBLER'

Statement Used In Effort To Show Solon Is Broke, Insolvent

NEW ORLEANS, Apri 6.—(AP)—State Representative Joseph Fisher, on trial in federal district court here for alleged income tax evasions, was described as a "gambler and high liver" by Roland A. Thomas, secretary-treasurer of the Gulf Shell company, from which concern the government charges the Jefferson parish political leader earned $87,422 in 1929, 1930 and 1931 on which he made no income tax return.

The testimony was drawn from Thomas by Defense Counsel Hugh M. Wilkinson after the government had released the witness for cross examination, and marked the defense's first effort to support its contention that Fisher is broke and insolvent and has been since 1929.

The description of the defendant's "gay" living came as the defense questioned Thomas concerning an $8,808.10 advance made the lawmaker in 1929 by the Gulf Shell company, which the witness said had been charged off the books of his company as a "bad debt."

"Why did you charge that item off as a bad debt," Wilkinson asked Thomas.

"Because at the end of 1929 there were no contracts between Fisher and the Gulf Shell company in the course of execution—there were no orders for the delivery of shells. That was one reason. We also knew Fisher had no other assets," the witness replied.

The government is seeking to prove its charge that Fisher earned approximately $122,000 during the four years from 1929 through 1932 upon which he paid no income tax. His alleged earnings, according to the prosecution's contention, were derived from sales of clam shells to the Louisiana highway department through the Gulf Shell company and the Gulf Crushing company, and a fur business he operated himself.

The defense contends that Fisher suffered heavy losses in his fur business and another "business" described as "gambling;" 'that he incurred extensive expense in obtaining the clam shell contracts, and that he failed to make income tax returns because at the end of each year he knew he had no net income by the relatively simple process of discovering him-

Manslaughter Is Charged To Barringer In Death Of Toombs

Thirty-two true bills and 22 "no bills," involving two indictments against defendants charged with murder and two against defendants charged with manslaughter, were listed in the report of the grand jury of hte Ouachita parish district court, it was revealed Saturday following the completion of the jury's investigations Friday night.

Trials of the cases in which true bills were found are scheduled for the regular spring jury term of the court which begins Monday, May 6.

All but three of the defendants against whom true bills were found had been arrested and were held in jail or had been released under bond. The names of these three defendants were expected to be available Monday, pending their arrest and incarceration or release under bond.

Among the cases of special interest in which true bills were found were the cases of Ellis Wimberly, young negro, and Howard Wesley Gossett, white youth. The negro is charged in connection with the striking of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harrell in their home, 100 Texas avenue, as they lay in bed before daylight. The white youth is charged with striking Miss Mildred Smith, theater cashier, in her automobile, after concealing himself

THREE MEN DENY KILLING DOCTOR; TRIAL DATE SET

Trio Plead Not Guilty When They Are Arraigned In LaSalle

JENA, La., April 6.—(Special)—Louis Hamilton, 29, Buck Sheppard, 25, and Floyd Miller, 31, arraigned in eighth judicial court here this morning on a charge of murdering Hamilton's father, Dr. Fred Hamilton, physician and former coroner of LaSalle parish, pleaded not guilty, and April 22 was set as the date for the beginning of their trial.

The three men were arrested last Saturday following a grand jury indictment which connected them with the burning to death of Dr. Hamilton when his home, which was combined with his office here, was destroyed by fire on June 10, 1933.

Young Hamilton, a dental student at Tulane university, was arrested at New Orleans, while Sheppard, whose mother is a rural mail carrier here, was arrested at Wichita Falls, Texas, and Miller, a printer formerly employed by the Jena Times, was taken into custody on the farm of his father near Eagletown, Okla. The arrests all took place on the same day at the request of Sheriff L. M. Davis of Jena.

The three accused men deny having anything to do with the doctor's death and are expected to use as their defense their claim that Dr. Hamilton was in the habit of "making a coal oil fire in a bucket to keep mosquitoes away" when he retired at night and that in some way his "mosquito smoker" set the house afire while he was sleeping and trapped him before he discovered his plight.

At first Dr. Hamilton's death was considered an accident and no suspicion of murder was aroused until some alleged facts concerning life insurance taken out on the physician started an investigation. Dr. Hamilton had been separated from his wife for 15 years when his death occurred.

The City's Works Program

Mayor Bernstein and the city officials moved swiftly yesterday to set in motion plans for an elaborate program of civic improvement through funds anticipated from the government's financial set-up under the huge work-relief bill, adopted by the congress Friday.

The mayor's action is in harmony with the suggestions made by this newspaper in an editorial Friday urging that immediate measures be taken to insure ample consideration of Monroe's needs in the construction of adequate facilities to promote the public health, as well as contribute to the industrial, municipal, educational and recreational life of the community.

The mayor lists 18 projects of vital importance to the well-being of the city, for which federal funds will be asked. The approximate cost is $1,588,000, a rather modest sum in comparison with demands of other communities of less importance than Monroe. The mayor's list, however, makes a good starter, particularly in view of the assurance given by ERA officials that promptness in submitting such projects will insure preference in winning federal approval.

The program is invested with qualities of the highest importance to Monroe and its immediate area. The value of the government's work-relief plan lies in the fact that it is not only designed to provide work for the unemployed but that the work must be devoted to projects which will inure to the permanent advantage of the communities affected. The purpose is to eliminate waste through squandering public funds on impractical and non-constructive projects, and instead to give the people a substantial return for the money expended.

The mayor's list conforms to these requirements. This newspaper, which has consistently led and advocated every movement that would contribute to the well-being of the people it serves, heartily endorses the plans, which should likewise have the whole-hearted approval of the citizenry at large.

The anticipated results are so important to the people of this city that unqualified cooperation, intelligently and efficiently manifested, must be accorded in order to gain the measure of progress which is implied in the government's monumental scheme of national rehabilitation.

The pleasement of the public in knowing that the city officials have acted promptly to obtain consideration of Monroe's needs will not be sufficient evidence of public interest in the program. There must be unified support in the endeavors made to impress on the federal officials the necessity of the projects to the community, and every effort exerted to strengthen the hands of the municipal leaders in carrying the plans to successful conclusion.

The prospect of widespread activity under the works program gives new emphasis to the assurance of business prosperity for northeast Louisiana that has already been indicated in government and state construction projects now under way or shortly to be inaugurated.

With these assurances the immediate future holds forth the most encouraging and satisfying promise. It is the privilege of every citizen to do his part by ordering his activities in conformity with the bright outlook.

CONVENTION PLANS ABOUT COMPLETED

500 Police Jurors Expected To Gather In Monroe Next Week

Officers and committees in charge of the 1935 convention of the Police Jury association of Louisiana have announced that arrangements are about completed for the big session to be held in Monroe on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, when more than 500 police jurors and their wives will assemble at Hotel Frances to take part in the interesting program. The resolutions committee will be in session here Sunday and Monday of next week, prior to the opening of the convention proper.

On the opening day of the convention registration and distribution of badges will take place from 8 a.m. until noon. At 9 a.m. the convention will be called to order by John M. Breard, president of the Ouachita parish police jury and of the state organization.

The morning program on the opening day will be as follows: invocation, Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, Monroe; address of welcome on behalf of Ouachita parish, Frank W. Hawthorne, district attorney; address of welcome on behalf of the city of Monroe, Arnold Bernstein, mayor; response to addresses of

SEA WALL PLANS EXPECTED SOON

Levee Project On Ouachita River Will Cost $2,000,000

Several contractors in this vicinity have received notice from the war department that plans for constructing several sections of levee wall, commonly known as sea wall, are about ready for issuance. A total of about five miles of levee wall will be built on the Monroe and West Monroe banks of the river at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

It was stated Saturday that the exact date on which bids will be received had not yet been announced, but was expected to be made known within the next few days.

Levee walls will consist of steel and concrete and will be built along portions of the riverfront where there is not enough unobstructed bank to permit construction of a dirt levee.

Bids will be received on April 16, by the United States engineers' office at Vicksburg, Miss., for two earth levee construction jobs, which probably will cost about $75,000. One is known as the West Monroe north levee and calls for moving about 53,000 cubic yards of earth and the other is known as the West Monroe South Riverfront levee and calls for moving about 108,000 cubic yards of dirt.

Riveting work on the steel construction on the bridge across the Ouachita river here was delayed slightly by a wage disagreement during the week just ended, but the work was in progress again Saturday and was said to

BONES ARE FOUND IN SEARCH FOR WOMAN

LANCASTER, Pa., April 6.—(AP)—In ash heaps around the squalid, rural home of Dr. Harry E. Zimmerly, bones apparently from a human body were found today in the search for Mrs. Gladys Lawson, one of two women the physician is charged with ministering to illegally.

The country physician is in jail in default of $6,000 bail on charges of performing two unlawful operations. He maintains when he last saw Mrs. Lawson she was alive.

State police and county authorities went to Lancaster after the discovery, again questioned Richard Parker, the doctor's "hired man," and then returned to Mechanics Grove to renew their search of the Zimmerly house, garage and barn. A hole in the ground under the barn is the object of the renewed search which started just before dusk tonight.

SHERIFF TO PROBE LIQUOR LICENSES

Beginning Monday, the Ouachita parish sheriff's department will conduct a thorough investigation throughout the parish to ascertain whether all dealers in whisky and beer have obtained their 1935 licenses to sell those commodities, it was announced yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Milton Coverdale.

In cases where persons are found selling liquor and beer without the licenses, their delinquency will be placed immediately before the district attorney's office for the instituting of legal procedure, the sheriff said.

The parish license for selling beer is $25. The license levied by the parish for selling whisky in unbroken packages is $100, and the license for selling whiskey in broken packages or by the drink is $250.

Amount Of Pay For Flood Land Causes Controversy

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—The amount of compensation the government should pay for lands used in proposed floodways has become the controversial snag in considering legislation for flod control in the lower Mississippi valley.

After a week's hearing on the Markham plan, which provides for the Eudora floodway in Arkansas and Louisiana, and the Morganza floodway in south Louisiana, the concensus was that all interests favored the proposed floodways, but some were opposed to the maximum allowanace of compensation at one and one-half times the assessed value.

Engineers, in the majority, have declined to commit themselves on the economic features of the plan, considering determination of the amount to be paid for confiscated lands should be left to the discretion of congress. The Markham report suggested the government would be agreeable to a payment of one and one-half times the assessed value.

John Klorer, chief of Louisiana state engineers, endorsed the program today before the house flood control committee which has been conducting hearings preparatory to drafting legislation.

He urged against any move to narrow the Eudora floodway from the proposed ten-mile width, stating that this would jeopardize the program by reducing too much the carrying capacity of the diversion.

Questioned by Representative McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, Klorer said the state engineers of Louisiana endorsed the Markham plan.

"Do you mean both the engineering and economic features?" McClellan asked.

"I mean the engineering features," Klorer said. "We have been very careful to dodge the economic angle. We think it is up to this committee of which you are a member to decide the manner of payment for lands used. We do not take any stand on whether the government should pay

SOCIAL SECURITY BILL IS OBJECT OF WARM DISPUTE

Fisticuffs Almost Occur As Solons Argue Points Of Measure

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—The acrimonious house dispute over the social security bill and its value as an anti-depression remedy turned today into a battle royal.

No actual physical blows have been struck, but the situation was so tense and such strong words were used that fisticuffs were considered not improbable in some quarters. And the talk was stimulated by submission of a formal report on the bill today by the ways and means committee.

The 17 Democratic members of that committee insisted the new bill was the complementary and essential second half of an attack on social insecurity, naming the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill as the other half. They definitely placed the social security bill on the president's "must" legislative lists.

But the seven committee Republicans, in a minority report bristling with criticism, termed the measure not only "unconstitutional" and "inadequate" but argued "it might in fact retard economic recovery."

At the same time the intra-party disputes continued. The 103 house Republicans were unable to agree on a unified attitude. The 319 Democrats were definitely divided into two groups, one favoring and the other opposing a suggestion that the bill be brought up next week under procedure forbidding amendments from the floor.

Ways and means committee Democrats wanted the gag rule to forestall liberalization of the bill. House leaders opposed it. There was a pos-

HUGE ARMY DAY PARADE IS HELD AT WASHINGTON

Crowd Watches In Tight-Lipped Silence As Troops March By

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Silently and with grim soberness, the capital today watched marching thousands demonstrate in an annual army day parade the implements of war the nation might muster.

Drums rolled. Bands played. Soldiers marched with precision. Banners fluttered limply in a dripping rain. Caissons clattered across car tracks, then settled into a steady rumble.

But the crowd watched in an unusual tight-lipped, hand-clenched silence as the soldiery—and long lines of patriotic group members stepped briskly out in their annual observance of the entry of the United States into the World war—the 18th anniversary.

Even before the march started the day had brought flowers for three of the men who were openly derided for their votes in congress for peace eighteen years ago. A crowd assembled in the dim light of Statuary hall at the capitol under direction of the National Council for Prevention of War to place floral wreaths at the foot of statues of the late Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri and Representative Claude Kitchin of North Carolina.

There were no ceremonies. Sons of the three peace advocates—Senators LaFollette and Clark, and Mills Kitchin—stood quietly near the statues of their fathers. The crowd, swelled by hundreds of tourists and excursionsits, watched with solemn faces as the wreaths were placed by Representative Withrow, Progressive, Wisconsin, Representative Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, and Miss Jeannette Rankin, a former representative from Montana. Miss Rankin was among the 50 representatives who voted against war.

Senator Norris, Republican, and Representative Knutson, Republican, Minnesota, others who voted against war, were present to receive honor—in sharp contrast to the epithets hurled at them in 1917.

Lake Providence In Path Of Devastating Winds Last Night

DAMAGE WIDESPREAD

Harrisonburg, Wisner And Sicily Island Areas Are Victims

At least nine persons suffered more or less serious injuries and serious property losses were entailed in a violent tornadic storm which swept through two areas of northeast Louisiana shortly after 6:30 o'clock Saturday night. The storm passed over Monroe about 5 o'clock, marked by heavy black clouds and a slight rainfall.

Sicily Island reported three persons injured; Lake Providence three; Wisner two, and Harrisonburg one. No fatalities occurred, though an unverified report said that three white men and two negroes had been killed in Lake Providence.

Two devastating storm cones fell from the skies almost simultaneously in northeast Louisiana, one at Lake Providence and the other near Sicily Island, about 75 miles south of Lake Providence. Residents in both sections reported the storms hit at 6:30 p.m. High winds prevailed throughout northern Louisiana along the Mississippi border.

Several houses were blown down at Lake Providence and two members of the family of L. S. Cook, living three miles south of there, were reported injured when their home was demolished. Wind, rain and hail raged in a destructive medley. Many small buildings were blown down and the grandstand at the ball park was blown into a bordering highway.

The tornado that struck in the Sicily Island vicinity centered its fury on the Bondurant community, four miles east of Sicily Island, where three members of a family named Flowers were reported injured when the twister crumpled a number of residences and other buildings there. The Frank Girault family and several visitors escaped death or serious injury by ducking into a potato "pump" house just before their home was splintered by the winds.

A freak of the storm was reported by Dr. R. U. Fairbanks of Sicily Island who said a huge waterspout shot into the air out of the Ouachita river as the storm was forming just before it tore onto the land, carving a strip 50 yards wide and a half mile long. The storm traveled northeastward from Sicily Island, he said.

Roofs of a number of houses at Oak Grove were reported badly damaged by a hail and wind storm that struck there early last night. No one was reported injured.

LAKE PROVIDENCE HIT BY VIOLENT STORM

LAKE PROVIDENCE, April 6.—(Special)—A violent electrical storm, accompanied by torrential rain and hail and winds of tornadic force swept the area about Lake Providence between 6:30 and 8:45 o'clock tonight. Two persons suffered secondary injuries. L. S. Cook, hit by debris when his home was partially demolished, sustained injuries to his scalp, face and leg. His three-year-old granddaughter was also hurt but not seriously. Reports that several persons had been killed south of the town were discounted. Wreckage across the roads made travel by automobile impossible, so that reliable information was unobtainable. Telephone lines were

Valuable Prizes Offered In Big Marble Tournament

It's going to mean that some boy or girl will spend nearly a week on the Gulf coast at Gulfport, Miss.

It will mean that boy or girl will have a vacation trip that just can't be beat.

It means, in fact, that the News-Star—World is going to sponsor a Northeast Louisiana Marble tournament.

And when the smoke of battle has cleared away, the winner will be entered in the southern finals of the national marble tournament at Gulfport, Miss., on June 23-28.

All expenses of this marvelous vacation trip will be paid by the News-Star—World.

The plan is simple.

The News-Star—World wants to find the best marble shooter in northeast Louisiana. To find this player, a marble tournament for boys and girls of this section will be conducted.

It doesn't cost a penny to enter and there will be plenty of other prizes, besides the grand prize of a trip to Gulfport for the champion.

Every boy and girl of 14 years and under will be eligible to enter. There will be elimination contests conducted at the various schools and playgrounds, with prizes consisting of medals, sporting goods, pocket knives and many, many other things that every boy and girl wants. And remember, it won't cost you a cent.

Boys and girls living in other towns of northeast Louisiana will have elimination tournaments of their own and when the town champions are determined, they will come to Monroe

Mayor Bernstein Makes Announcement Following Conferences

New City Hall Is Biggest Item On List; Would Cost $300,000

The city of Monroe will ask for the allocation of $1,588,000 for municipal improvements under the new federal work-relief bill, it was announced Saturday morning by Mayor Arnold Bernstein after a conference with his fellow-commissioners and other city officials.

Prior to the conference Mayor Bernstein held a long-distance conversation with officials of the state office of the ERA at New Orleans, who expressed satisfaction that Monroe was moving promptly to present its list of projects in harmony with the government's design to set the wheels of industry and labor in motion through its huge work relief program.

The ERA officials assured Mayor Bernstein that every facility would be offered to aid this city in getting the projects approved and work started as soon as possible. A conference between local officials and ERA executives will be arranged as soon as the method of operation under the work relief program has been fixed. Mayor Bernstein stated that City Engineer W. I. Neel had been instructed to immediately prepare engineering data and approximate costs to present before the conference as soon as it is called.

A list of the local projects for which the city will ask government appropriations was given out by the mayor as follows:

Auxiliary sanitary sewer system, $200,000; storm sewer pumping stations, etc., $60,000; extension of sanitary sewer mains, $36,000; storm sewer extensions, $67,000; drainage canals, $50,000; school building improvements and extensions, $100,000; water main extensions, $155,000; fire stations, $30,000; garbage incinerator, $20,000; extension to fire alarm system, $30,000; city hall and police station, $300,000; swimming pool and facilities, $60,000; athletic field and stadium, $45,000; recreation buildings and center, $25,000; park improvement, $25,000; gymnasium and facilities, $125,000; abattoir, $135,000; river terminal, $125,000; total, $1,588,000.

"These estimates cover what is regarded as the most important of the municipal projects," the mayor said.

Premier Mussolini will ask Foreign Secretary Simon of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Laval of France at the Stresa conference beginning next Thursday, to discuss an accord to allow Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria to rearm, it was reported in high Italian sources yesterday.

France continued mindful of her eastern border, announcing plans to man its steel and concrete fortifications with 60,000 troops ordered held under arms three months beyond the normal conscript period.

ROME—Official quarters said Italy's viewpoint concerning the Stresa conversations may be summed up thus: "Do something strong and concrete—with or without Germany."

PARIS—The ministerial council approved plans to keep 60,000 conscripts under arms in order to maintain the army's strength at the 350,000 considered the minimum for safety.

LONDON—With the cabinet scheduled to meet Monday to draft Britain's proposals at Stresa, high quarters said Austrian, Hungarian and Bulgarian rearmament would be one of the topics discussed.

WITNESS ASSERTS FISHER WAS HIGH 'LIVER, GAMBLER'

Statement Used In Effort To Show Solon Is Broke, Insolvent

NEW ORLEANS, Apri 6.—(AP)—State Representative Joseph Fisher, on trial in federal district court here for alleged income tax evasions, was described as a "gambler and high liver" by Roland A. Thomas, secretary-treasurer of the Gulf Shell company, from which concern the government charges the Jefferson parish political leader earned $87,422 in 1929, 1930 and 1931 on which he made no income tax return.

The testimony was drawn from Thomas by Defense Counsel Hugh M. Wilkinson after the government had released the witness for cross examination, and marked the defense's first effort to support its contention that Fisher is broke and insolvent and has been since 1929.

The description of the defendant's "gay" living came as the defense questioned Thomas concerning an $8,808.10 advance made the lawmaker in 1929 by the Gulf Shell company, which the witness said had been charged off the books of his company as a "bad debt."

"Why did you charge that item off as a bad debt," Wilkinson asked Thomas.

"Because at the end of 1929 there were no contracts between Fisher and the Gulf Shell company in the course of execution—there were no orders for the delivery of shells. That was one reason. We also knew Fisher had no other assets," the witness replied.

The government is seeking to prove its charge that Fisher earned approximately $122,000 during the four years from 1929 through 1932 upon which he paid no income tax. His alleged earnings, according to the prosecution's contention, were derived from sales of clam shells to the Louisiana highway department through the Gulf Shell company and the Gulf Crushing company, and a fur business he operated himself.

The defense contends that Fisher suffered heavy losses in his fur business and another "business" described as "gambling;" "that he incurred extensive expense in obtaining the clam shell contracts, and that he failed to make income tax returns because at the end of each year he knew he had no net income by the relatively simple process of discovering him-

BENSON IS NO-BILLED

Manslaughter Is Charged To Barringer In Death Of Toombs

Thirty-two true bills and 22 "no bills," involving two indictments against defendants charged with murder and two against defendants charged with manslaughter, were listed in the report of the grand jury of hte Ouachita parish district court, it was revealed Saturday following the completion of the jury's investigations Friday night.

Trials of the cases in which true bills were found are scheduled for the regular spring jury term of the court which begins Monday, May 6.

All but three of the defendants against whom true bills were found had been arrested and were held in jail or had been released under bond. The names of these three defendants were expected to be available Monday, pending their arrest and incarceration or release under bond.

Among the cases of special interest in which true bills were found were the cases of Ellis Wimberly, young negro, and Howard Wesley Gossett, white youth. The negro is charged in connection with the striking of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harrell in their home, 100 Texas avenue, as they lay in bed before daylight. The white youth is charged with striking Miss Mildred Smith, theater cashier, in her automobile, after concealing himself

Trio Plead Not Guilty When They Are Arraigned In LaSalle

JENA, La., April 6.—(Special)—Louis Hamilton, 29, Buck Sheppard, 25, and Floyd Miller, 31, arraigned in eighth judicial court here this morning on a charge of murdering Hamilton's father, Dr. Fred Hamilton, physician and former coroner of LaSalle parish, pleaded not guilty, and April 22 was set as the date for the beginning of their trial.

The three men were arrested last Saturday following a grand jury indictment which connected them with the burning to death of Dr. Hamilton when his home, which was combined with his office here, was destroyed by fire on June 10, 1933.

Young Hamilton, a dental student at Tulane university, was arrested at New Orleans, while Sheppard, whose mother is a rural mail carrier here, was arrested at Wichita Falls, Texas, and Miller, a printer formerly employed by the Jena Times, was taken into custody on the farm of his father near Eagletown, Okla. The arrests all took place on the same day at the request of Sheriff L. M. Davis of Jena.

The three accused men deny having anything to do with the doctor's death and are expected to use as their defense their claim that Dr. Hamilton was in the habit of "making a coal oil fire in a bucket to keep mosquitoes away" when he retired at night and that in some way his "mosquito smoker" set the house afire while he was sleeping and trapped him before he discovered his plight.

At first Dr. Hamilton's death was considered an accident and no suspicion of murder was aroused until some alleged facts concerning life insurance taken out on the physician started an investigation. Dr. Hamilton had been separated from his wife for 15 years when his death occurred.

The City's Works Program

Mayor Bernstein and the city officials moved swiftly yesterday to set in motion plans for an elaborate program of civic improvement through funds anticipated from the government's financial set-up under the huge work-relief bill, adopted by the congress Friday.

The mayor's action is in harmony with the suggestions made by this newspaper in an editorial Friday urging that immediate measures be taken to insure ample consideration of Monroe's needs in the construction of adequate facilities to promote the public health, as well as contribute to the industrial, municipal, educational and recreational life of the community.

The mayor lists 18 projects of vital importance to the well-being of the city, for which federal funds will be asked. The approximate cost is $1,588,000, a rather modest sum in comparison with demands of other communities of less importance than Monroe. The mayor's list, however, makes a good starter, particularly in view of the assurance given by ERA officials that promptness in submitting such projects will insure preference in winning federal approval.

The program is invested with qualities of the highest importance to Monroe and its immediate area. The value of the government's work-relief plan lies in the fact that it is not only designed to provide work for the unemployed but that the work must be devoted to projects which will inure to the permanent advantage of the communities affected. The purpose is to eliminate waste through squandering public funds on impractical and non-constructive projects, and instead to give the people a substantial return for the money expended.

The mayor's list conforms to these requirements. This newspaper, which has consistently led and advocated every movement that would contribute to the well-being of the people it serves, heartily endorses the plans, which should likewise have the whole-hearted approval of the citizenry at large.

The anticipated results are so important to the people of this city that unqualified cooperation, intelligently and efficiently manifested, must be accorded in order to gain the measure of progress which is implied in the government's monumental scheme of national rehabilitation.

The pleasement of the public in knowing that the city officials have acted promptly to obtain consideration of Monroe's needs will not be sufficient evidence of public interest in the program. There must be unified support in the endeavors made to impress on the federal officials the necessity of the projects to the community, and every effort exerted to strengthen the hands of the municipal leaders in carrying the plans to successful conclusion.

The prospect of widespread activity under the works program gives new emphasis to the assurance of business prosperity for northeast Louisiana that has already been indicated in government and state construction projects now under way or shortly to be inaugurated.

With these assurances the immediate future holds forth the most encouraging and satisfying promise. It is the privilege of every citizen to do his part by ordering his activities in conformity with the bright outlook.

CONVENTION PLANS ABOUT COMPLETED

500 Police Jurors Expected To Gather In Monroe Next Week

Officers and committees in charge of the 1935 convention of the Police Jury association of Louisiana have announced that arrangements are about completed for the big session to be held in Monroe on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, when more than 500 police jurors and their wives will assemble at Hotel Frances to take part in the interesting program. The resolutions committee will be in session here Sunday and Monday of next week, prior to the opening of the convention proper.

On the opening day of the convention registration and distribution of badges will take place from 8 a.m. until noon. At 9 a.m. the convention will be called to order by John M. Breard, president of the Ouachita parish police jury and of the state organization.

The morning program on the opening day will be as follows: invocation, Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, Monroe; address of welcome on behalf of Ouachita parish, Frank W. Hawthorne, district attorney; address of welcome on behalf of the city of Monroe, Arnold Bernstein, mayor; response to addresses of

Levee Project On Ouachita River Will Cost $2,000,000

Several contractors in this vicinity have received notice from the war department that plans for constructing several sections of levee wall, commonly known as sea wall, are about ready for issuance. A total of about five miles of levee wall will be built on the Monroe and West Monroe banks of the river at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

It was stated Saturday that the exact date on which bids will be received had not yet been announced, but was expected to be made known within the next few days.

Levee walls will consist of steel and concrete and will be built along portions of the riverfront where there is not enough unobstructed bank to permit construction of a dirt levee.

Bids will be received on April 16, by the United States engineers' office at Vicksburg, Miss., for two earth levee construction jobs, which probably will cost about $75,000. One is known as the West Monroe north levee and calls for moving about 53,000 cubic yards of earth and the other is known as the West Monroe South Riverfront levee and calls for moving about 108,000 cubic yards of dirt.

Riveting work on the steel construction on the bridge across the Ouachita river here was delayed slightly by a wage disagreement during the week just ended, but the work was in progress again Saturday and was said to

BONES ARE FOUND IN SEARCH FOR WOMAN

LANCASTER, Pa., April 6.—(AP)—In ash heaps around the squalid, rural home of Dr. Harry E. Zimmerly, bones apparently from a human body were found today in the search for Mrs. Gladys Lawson, one of two women the physician is charged with ministering to illegally.

The country physician is in jail in default of $6,000 bail on charges of performing two unlawful operations. He maintains when he last saw Mrs. Lawson she was alive.

State police and county authorities went to Lancaster after the discovery, again questioned Richard Parker, the doctor's "hired man," and then returned to Mechanics Grove to renew their search of the Zimmerly house, garage and barn. A hole in the ground under the barn is the object of the renewed search which started just before dusk tonight.

SHERIFF TO PROBE LIQUOR LICENSES

Beginning Monday, the Ouachita parish sheriff's department will conduct a thorough investigation throughout the parish to ascertain whether all dealers in whisky and beer have obtained their 1935 licenses to sell those commodities, it was announced yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Milton Coverdale.

In cases where persons are found selling liquor and beer without the licenses, their delinquency will be placed immediately before the district attorney's office for the instituting of legal procedure, the sheriff said.

The parish license for selling beer is $25. The license levied by the parish for selling whisky in unbroken packages is $100, and the license for selling whiskey in broken packages or by the drink is $250.

Amount Of Pay For Flood Land Causes Controversy

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—The amount of compensation the government should pay for lands used in proposed floodways has become the controversial snag in considering legislation for flod control in the lower Mississippi valley.

After a week's hearing on the Markham plan, which provides for the Eudora floodway in Arkansas and Louisiana, and the Morganza floodway in south Louisiana, the concensus was that all interests favored the proposed floodways, but some were opposed to the maximum allowanace of compensation at one and one-half times the assessed value.

Engineers, in the majority, have declined to commit themselves on the economic features of the plan, considering determination of the amount to be paid for confiscated lands should be left to the discretion of congress. The Markham report suggested the government would be agreeable to a payment of one and one-half times the assessed value.

John Klorer, chief of Louisiana state engineers, endorsed the program today before the house flood control committee which has been conducting hearings preparatory to drafting legislation.

He urged against any move to narrow the Eudora floodway from the proposed ten-mile width, stating that this would jeopardize the program by reducing too much the carrying capacity of the diversion.

Questioned by Representative McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, Klorer said the state engineers of Louisiana endorsed the Markham plan.

"Do you mean both the engineering and economic features?" McClellan asked.

"I mean the engineering features," Klorer said. "We have been very careful to dodge the economic angle. We think it is up to this committee of which you are a member to decide the manner of payment for lands used. We do not take any stand on whether the government should pay

SOCIAL SECURITY BILL IS OBJECT OF WARM DISPUTE

Fisticuffs Almost Occur As Solons Argue Points Of Measure

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—The acrimonious house dispute over the social security bill and its value as an anti-depression remedy turned today into a battle royal.

No actual physical blows have been struck, but the situation was so tense and such strong words were used that fisticuffs were considered not improbable in some quarters. And the talk was stimulated by submission of a formal report on the bill today by the ways and means committee.

The 17 Democratic members of that committee insisted the new bill was the complementary and essential second half of an attack on social insecurity, naming the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill as the other half. They definitely placed the social security bill on the president's "must" legislative lists.

But the seven committee Republicans, in a minority report bristling with criticism, termed the measure not only "unconstitutional" and "inadequate" but argued "it might in fact retard economic recovery."

At the same time the intra-party disputes continued. The 103 house Republicans were unable to agree on a unified attitude. The 319 Democrats were definitely divided into two groups, one favoring and the other opposing a suggestion that the bill be brought up next week under procedure forbidding amendments from the floor.

Ways and means committee Democrats wanted the gag rule to forestall liberalization of the bill. House leaders opposed it. There was a pos-

HUGE ARMY DAY PARADE IS HELD AT WASHINGTON

Crowd Watches In Tight-Lipped Silence As Troops March By

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Silently and with grim soberness, the capital today watched marching thousands demonstrate in an annual army day parade the implements of war the nation might muster.

Drums rolled. Bands played. Soldiers marched with precision. Banners fluttered limply in a dripping rain. Caissons clattered across car tracks, then settled into a steady rumble.

But the crowd watched in an unusual tight-lipped, hand-clenched silence as the soldiery—and long lines of patriotic group members stepped briskly out in their annual observance of the entry of the United States into the World war—the 18th anniversary.

Even before the march started the day had brought flowers for three of the men who were openly derided for their votes in congress for peace eighteen years ago. A crowd assembled in the dim light of Statuary hall at the capitol under direction of the National Council for Prevention of War to place floral wreaths at the foot of statues of the late Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri and Representative Claude Kitchin of North Carolina.

There were no ceremonies. Sons of the three peace advocates—Senators LaFollette and Clark, and Mills Kitchin—stood quietly near the statues of their fathers. The crowd, swelled by hundreds of tourists and excursionsits, watched with solemn faces as the wreaths were placed by Representative Withrow, Progressive, Wisconsin, Representative Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, and Miss Jeannette Rankin, a former representative from Montana. Miss Rankin was among the 50 representatives who voted against war.

Senator Norris, Republican, and Representative Knutson, Republican, Minnesota, others who voted against war, were present to receive honor—in sharp contrast to the epithets hurled at them in 1917.

Lake Providence In Path Of Devastating Winds Last Night

DAMAGE WIDESPREAD

Harrisonburg, Wisner And Sicily Island Areas Are Victims

At least nine persons suffered more or less serious injuries and serious property losses were entailed in a violent tornadic storm which swept through two areas of northeast Louisiana shortly after 6:30 o'clock Saturday night. The storm passed over Monroe about 5 o'clock, marked by heavy black clouds and a slight rainfall.

Sicily Island reported three persons injured; Lake Providence three; Wisner two, and Harrisonburg one. No fatalities occurred, though an unverified report said that three white men and two negroes had been killed in Lake Providence.

Two devastating storm cones fell from the skies almost simultaneously in northeast Louisiana, one at Lake Providenee and the other near Sicily Island, about 75 miles south of Lake Providence. Residents in both sections reported the storms hit at 6:30 p.m. High winds prevailed throughout northern Louisiana along the Mississippi border.

Several houses were blown down at Lake Providence and two members of the family of L. S. Cook, living three miles south of there, were reported injured when their home was demolished. Wind, rain and hail raged in a destructive medley. Many small buildings were blown down and the grandstand at the ball park was blown into a bordering highway.

The tornado that struck in the Sicily Island vicinity centered its fury on the Bondurant community, four miles east of Sicily Island, where three members of a family named Flowers were reported injured where the twister crumpled a number of residences and other buildings there. The Frank Girault family and several visitors escaped death or serious injury by ducking into a potato "pump" house just before their home was splintered by the winds.

A freak of the storm was reported by Dr. R. U. Fairbanks of Sicily Island who said a huge waterspout shot into the air out of the Ouachita river as the storm was forming just before it tore onto the land, carving a strip 50 yards wide and a half mile long. The storm traveled northeastward from Sicily Island, he said.

Roofs of a number of houses at Oak Grove were reported badly damaged by a hail and wind storm that struck there early last night. No one was reported injured.

LAKE PROVIDENCE HIT BY VIOLENT STORM

LAKE PROVIDENCE, April 6.—(Special)—A violent electrical storm, accompanied by torrential rain and hail and winds of tornadic force swept the area about Lake Providence between 6:30 and 8:45 o'clock tonight. Two persons suffered secondary injuries. L. S. Cook, hit by debris when his home was partially demolished, sustained injuries to his scalp, face and leg. His three-year-old granddaughter was also hurt but not seriously. Reports that several persons had been killed south of the town were discounted. Wreckage across the roads made travel by automobile impossible, so that reliable information was unobtainable. Telephone lines were

Valuable Prizes Offered In Big Marble Tournament

It's going to mean that some boy or girl will spend nearly a week on the Gulf coast at Gulfport, Miss.

It will mean that that boy or girl will have a vacation trip that just can't be beat.

It means, in fact, that the News-Star—World is going to sponsor a Northeast Louisiana Marble tournament.

And when the smoke of battle has cleared away, the winner will be entered in the southern finals of the national marble tournament at Gulfport, Miss., on June 23-28.

All expenses of this marvelous vacation trip will be paid by the News-Star—World.

The plan is simple.

The News-Star—World wants to find the best marble shooter in northeast Louisiana. To find this player, a marble tournament for boys and girls of this section will be conducted.

It doesn't cost a penny to enter and there will be plenty of other prizes, besides the grand prize of a trip to Gulfport for the champion.

Every boy and girl of 14 years and under will be eligible to enter. There will be elimination contests conducted at the various schools and playgrounds, with prizes consisting of medals, sporting goods, pocket knives and many, many other things that every boy and girl wants. And remember, it won't cost you a cent.

Boys and girls living in other towns of northeast Louisiana will have elimination tournaments of their own and when the town champions are determined, they will come to Monroe

ARE HURT IN ACCIDENTS HERE

[illegible] persons were injured, none fatally, and about 1,100 Baby Chicks were reported killed or injured Friday in three traffic accidents in Monroe and West Monroe yesterday afternoon.

The injured were:

Mrs. A. W. Meredith, 63, of Columbia, cut on leg, cut on right hand and [illegible] forehead.

Mrs. A. W. Woodhead, of Sterlington, leg injury and bruises.

Officer Poimboeuf was injured when he was thrown to the pavement as his motorcycle skidded on a street wet with rain. The accident happened at the intersection of South Second street and Filhoil avenue, West Monroe. The officer was carried in an ambulance to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic. His physician said his condition was not serious.

At the time of the accident, the officer was driving south on South Second street and an automobile driven by J. B. Peck, 1009 South Second street, Monroe, was being driven in an easterly direction on Filhoil avenue, approaching the intersection, according to a report made by Peck. He said that he supposed the officer thought the automobile would not be brought to a stop at the intersection, and swerved his motorcycle, resulting in the officer being thrown to the pavement from his motorcycle.

Mrs. Meredith, at the time she was injured, was walking across Washington street at the Fourth street intersection in company with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. [illegible] Darden, 2018 Dick Taylor street.

Mrs. Meredith was hit by a truck traveling on Washington street and driven by Brunard Bolden, negro, who was reported to have stopped the truck after the accident. He was arrested by police and held in jail.

Mrs. Meredith was carried in an ambulance to the Riverside sanitarium.

The injured Sterlington resident, Mrs. Woodhead, apparently suffered only minor injuries to her leg and ankle. She accompanied her husband to police headquarters when he called there to make a report of an accident in which a heavy truck with a trailer reported attached to it struck two automobiles at the intersection of Fourteenth and DeSiard streets, and crashed into the front of the Royal Feed and Seed store, smashing three plate glass show windows and killing and injuring baby chickens in a brooder.

According to reports of the accident filed by drivers of the three motor vehicles involved, a truck driven by Will Davis, negro, employe of the Monroe Transfer and Warehouse company, went out of control because its left rear wheel was loosened, placing the hydraulic brakes out of service. The truck was headed west on DeSiard at the intersection, and struck a car driven by R. L. Moore, of Sterlington, as it entered DeSiard from Fourteenth. The truck then hit the Woodhead automobile, which was headed west on DeSiard, waiting against a red light, and then crashed into the feed and seed store.

John H. Birdsong, manager of the store, who gave the estimate of the baby chickens killed and fatally injured, said it was possible that about 35,000 eggs which were in an incubator may be affected by damage to the incubator thermostat.

there for the purpose of robbing her when she entered the car to drive to her work in Monroe from her home in West Monroe.

Fred Barringer, against whom a true bill was found in a manslaughter case, was the driver of the automobile in a collision in which Keith Toombs, state highway officer, was fatally injured.

Aubrey Womack, against whom a true bill was found for manslaughter, is the white youth who fatally wounded John Howard, negro, on McEnery street. At the time, Womack was allegedly on a drunken rampage.

The two negroes against whom true bills in murder cases were returned, Joe Scott and Ollie Brandon, are each charged with slaying a member of their own race.

Other cases in which no bills were found were the cases of defendants charged as follows: Henry Hayes, negro, charged with the slaying of Edward D. Vaughan, furniture salesman; R. P. "Bob" Benson, manslaughter in the death of Grady P. Wilhite; Ivy Johnson, manslaughter in the death of two negro girls, Lucinda Henderson and Christine Chappell, on DeSiard street in a traffic accident in the night time; R. E. Henry, manslaughter in the death of Thomas J. Hinton in a traffic accident on the Jonesboro road; Ezekiel Hampton, negro, manslaughter in the slaying of Hartford Davis, negro; Louis Thomas, Sr., negro, murder of Cornelia Pierce Harris, negro woman; George Collins, negro, breaking and entering the dwelling of Joe Pascal, of Sterlington.

True bills were found against defendants held in jail as follows:

Aubrey Womack, manslaughter.

Joe Scott, negro, murder.

Ellis Wimberly, negro, striking with a dangerous weapon, a stick, with intent to commit murder, after breaking and entering in the night time.

Roland Siegle, breaking and entering in the night time.

T. P. Simpson, four charges of obtaining money and property by means or use of a confidence game.

Fred Barringer, manslaughter.

Joe Silo, negro, wounding less than mayhem.

A. P. Castleberry, larceny of property valued at $180.20.

Donald King, robbery.

Everett Elkin, robbery.

True bills were found against defendants who had been released under bond as follows:

Fred Roberts, larceny of a cow.

Willie Trimble, negro, larceny of a cow.

Herman Jordan, cutting with intent to kill.

Herbert Williams, robbery.

Percy Dunn, robbery.

Derrick Dunning, negro, robbery.

V. O. Williams, giving bad check.

Welcome, P. O. Benjamin, secretary of the Madison parish police jury; roll call of parishes and delegates present; annual address of president, John M. Breard; address by O. K. Allen, governor of Louisiana; address, "Beautiful and Romantic Louisiana," by Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, Louisiana college, Pineville; address by W. C. Vetsch, parish gasoline tax coordinator, New Orleans; address by W. G. Taggart, assistant director of experiment stations at Louisiana State university.

A statement regarding the convention has been issued as follows:

"Much state-wide interest centers in the annual conventions of the Police Jury association of Louisiana, which is composed of the police juries of 53 parishes and the commission council of the parish of Orleans, due to the fact that this annual gathering brings together representatives from the smallest subdivisions of our state, that is from each ward in each parish of the state, thereby presenting a state-wide picture of Louisiana from year to year, this association having been organized in 1924. The association has for its objects, the promotion and protection of the interests of the several police juries of the state and of the city council of New Orleans; the promotion of the welfare of the taxpayers; the improvement of the administration of parish affairs; and by mutual cooperation, the endeavoring to secure, if possible, proper legislation for the general good off the state of Louisiana, particularly as it pertains to parochial affairs.

"J. J. Fournet of Lafayette, who has been selected as chairman of the resolution committee, has issued official announcement that the resolution committee will hold its first session in Hotel Frances in Monroe on Sunday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. to consider all resolutions to be presented to the 1935 convention, which resolutions must be in the hands of Secretary Henry C. Maurin at LaPlace, before Sunday, April 14, as per official announcement forwarded to all secretaries of all police juries.

"W. T. Smith of Bastrop who has been placed in charge of the program for the business sessions of the convention has announced the completion of a most interesting program, with necessary time set aside for open discussions of the many problems now facing our police juries, and all jurors are invited to take active part in these discussions.

"A. B. Myatt, W. J. Vinson, J. E. Rutledge, D. Y. Smith, A. E. Montgomery and C. R. Tidwell of Monroe, in charge of the general entertainments for the convention announce that, among the entertainment features will be an old-fashioned barbecue to be served at the Monroe airport at 12:30 on April 16 while in the evening, the delegates and their guests will be entertained at a banquet to be served at Hotel Virginia at 7:30 p.m., to be followed by a dance in the auditorium of Hotel Frances.

"Miss Henrietta Koepp, secretary of the secretary-treasurers' auxillary, is anxious that all secretaries and treasurers of all police juries attend the business meeting and banquet to be held in Hotel Frances on April 15 at 7:30 p.m.

"The association is at present mailing out an interesting annual number of its official organ, 'The Louisiana Digest,' which, besides containing the complete official proceedings of the 1934 convention held in Baton Rouge, contains also the names and addresses of the state and parish officials, police jurors, secretaries and treasurers of police juries, school superintendents, thereby making this issue a valuable book to be filed for future references.

"Advance list of delegates indicate that the 1935 attendance will surpass all previous records, and that more parishes will be represented than ever before, while advance resolutions indicate that constructive measures will come up for discussion and adoption.

"All roads will lead to Monroe, April 16 and 17, Police jurors have been requested to take the lady folks along, and special committees have been appointed to entertain the ladies during the convention; therefore all may look forward to a grand time, and a great convention."

Officers of the police jury association are John M. Breard, Monroe, president; T. W. Serpas, St. Bernard, vice president; Henry C. Maurin, LaPlace, secretary, and L. F. Clawson, Shreveport, treasurer.

HAMILTON TO GO TO DEATH CHAIR WITHIN 30 DAYS

his cigar-puffing gun moll, Bonnie Parker—both now dead of police bullets—probably will die within 30 days, authorities said.

U. S. District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus announced that at least 40 persons will be indicted for conspiring to harbor the fugitive killer while he was at large.

Max Rogers, Walker county district attorney who gained the death sentence against Hamilton for the slaying of Major Crowson, a Texas prison farm guard, during a break in January, 1934, said he would seek execution of Hamilton and Joe Palmer on the same date.

Palmer, one of Hamilton's companions in the death row escape, was recaptured in Kentucky. He also once roved in crime with Barrow and the Parker woman.

At least one more appeal will be made for Hamilton's life. His mother, Mrs. Steve Davis of Dallas, told her son in his Dallas jail cell at dawn today she would go to Governor James V. Allred with a plea for his life.

Hamilton, visibly shaken when he first saw his mother, ran and embraced her. He kissed tears from her cheeks and for a half hour held her in his arms.

"She is going to Austin and talk to the governor," Hamilton said. "I have told her some things to tell that I do not care to reveal now. Maybe she can prevail on the governor to spare my life."

His mother departed—thankful that "I didn't see him all shot up."

Hamilton previously had said he returned to the Dallas area and laid himself open to capture because he wanted to see his mother.

"I had no idea they would meet me at the railroad tracks," he said.

District Attorney Eastus authorized filing of charges today against Noland Allred and Glenn Allen, associates of Hamilton.

Eastus said he had information to substantiate Allred's story that Hamilton had buried a dead companion in Mississippi recently. Officers believe the companion to be Ralph Fults, ex-convict, who was known to have been traveling with Hamilton.

The desparado merely said he left "Ralph in bad shape from buckshot wounds."

Senator Tarver McIntosh, a member of the Mississippi legislature, was en route here to attempt to identify Hamilton as the man who disarmed and captured a posse, of which he was a member, after a Mississippi bank robbery last week.

Hamilton admitted that "was me involved in all that kidnaping and bank robbery in Mississippi" but declined to say more.

Hamilton refused to describe his escape from the death house. He still had some hope of escaping the chair. He asked to see his lawyer, Albert S. Baskett.

"Tell him I have some cash with me and I want him to come down at once."

be expected to proceed without delay. H. W. Batchellor, superintendent in charge of the work, said that good progress was being made and was expected to continue.

Two spans of steel have been placed on the west side of the river and the placing of the third will get started early this week, Mr. Batchellor said. Completion of this span will bring the steel to the bascule span in the center of the river.

The second set of forms for concrete for the overpass at Sicard, over the Missouri Pacific railroad, has been built and workmen are going ahead with work on the footings. An A-form pile driver has been placed and the false work is expected to go forward immediately. Good progress is being made on the east approach and footings are being put into shape.

3 ARE HURT IN ACCIDENTS HERE

Three persons were injured, none seriously, and about 1,100 baby chickens were reported killed or injured fatally, in three traffic accidents in Monroe and West Monroe yesterday afternoon.

The injured were:

Mrs. A. W. Meredith, 63, of Columbia, cut on leg, cut on right hand and cut on forehead.

Mrs. A. W. Woodhead, of Sterlington, leg injury and bruises.

Officer Poimboeuf was injured when he was thrown to the pavement as his motorcycle skidded on a street wet with rain. The accident happened at the intersection of South Second street and Filhoil avenue, West Monroe. The officer was carried in an ambulance to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic. His physician said his condition was not serious.

At the time of the accident, the officer was driving south on South Second street and an automobile driven by J. B. Peck, 1009 South Second street, Monroe, was being driven in an easterly direction on Filhoil avenue, approaching the intersection, according to a report made by Peck. He said that he supposed the officer thought the automobile would not be brought to a stop at the intersection, and swerved his motorcycle, resulting in the officer being thrown to the pavement from his motorcycle.

Mrs. Meredith, at the time she was injured, was walking across Washington street at the Fourth street intersection in company with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Darden, 2918 Dick Taylor street. Mrs. Meredith was hit by a truck traveling on Washington street and driven by Brunard Bolden, negro, who was reported to have stopped the truck after the accident. He was arrested by police and held in jail.

Mrs. Meredith was carried in an ambulance to the Riverside sanitarium.

The injured Sterlington resident, Mrs. Woodhead, apparently suffered only minor injuries to her leg and ankle. She accompanied her husband to police headquarters when he called there to make a report of an accident in which a heavy truck with a trailer reported attached to it struck two automobiles at the intersection of Fourteenth and DeSiard streets, and crashed into the front of the Royal Feed and Seed store, smashing three plate glass show windows and killing and injuring baby chickens in a brooder.

According to reports of the accident filed by drivers of the three motor vehicles involved, a truck driven by Will Davis, negro, employe of the Monroe Transfer and Warehouse company, went out of control because its left rear wheel was loosened, placing the hydraulic brakes out of service. The truck was headed west on DeSiard at the intersection, and struck a car driven by R. L. Moore, of Sterlington, as it entered DeSiard from Fourteenth. The truck then hit the Woodhead automobile, which was headed west on DeSiard, waiting against a red light, and then crashed into the feed and seed store.

John H. Birdsong, manager of the store, who gave the estimate of the baby chickens killed and fatally injured, said it was possible that about 35,000 eggs which were in an incubator may be affected by damage to the incubator thermostat.

Sheep dogs, or police dogs, are often crossed with wolves to keep the strain fierce in Germany.

32 PERSONS ARE INDICTED HERE BY GRAND JURY

there for the purpose of robbing her when she entered the car to drive to her work in Monroe from her home in West Monroe.

Fred Barringer, against whom a true bill was found in a manslaughter case, was the driver of the automobile in a collision in which Keith Toombs, state highway officer, was fatally injured.

Aubrey Womack, against whom a true bill was found for manslaughter, is the white youth who fatally wounded John Howard, negro, on McEnery street. At the time, Womack was allegedly on a drunken rampage.

The two negroes against whom true bills in murder cases were returned, Joe Scott and Ollie Brandon, are each charged with slaying a member of their own race.

Other cases in which no bills were found were the cases of defendants charged as follows: Henry Hayes, negro, charged with the slaying of Edward D. Vaughan, furniture salesman; R. P. "Bob" Benson, manslaughter in the death of Grady P. Wilhite; Ivy Johnson, manslaughter in the death of two negro girls, Lucinda Henderson and Christine Chappell, on DeSiard street in a traffic accident in the night time; R. E. Henry, manslaughter in the death of Thomas J. Hinton in a traffic accident on the Jonesboro road; Ezekiel Hampton, negro, manslaughter in the slaying of Hartford Davis, negro; Louis Thomas, Sr., negro, murder of Cornelia Pierce Harris, negro woman; George Collins, negro, breaking and entering the dwelling of Joe Pascal, of Sterlington.

True bills were found against defendants held in jail as follows:

Aubrey Womack, manslaughter.

Joe Scott, negro, murder.

Ellis Wimberly, negro, striking with a dangerous weapon, a stick, with intent to commit murder, after breaking and entering in the night time.

Roland Siegle, breaking and entering in the night time.

T. P. Simpson, four charges of obtaining money and property by means or use of a confidence game.

Fred Barringer, manslaughter.

Joe Silo, negro, wounding less than mayhem.

A. P. Castleberry, larceny of property valued at $180.20.

Donald King, robbery.

Everett Elkin, robbery.

True bills were found against defendants who had been released under bond as follows:

Fred Roberts, larceny of a cow.

Willie Trimble, negro, larceny of a cow.

Herman Jordan, cutting with intent to kill.

Herbert Williams, robbery.

Percy Dunn, robbery.

Derrick Dunning, negro, robbery.

V. O. Williams, giving bad check.

The prosecution, through Thomas, had developed that the Gulf Shell company had paid Fisher approximately $34,000 in 1929 in profits, commissions and royalties, $8,808.10 of which was an advance against profits which had not been realized.

"You say you paid Fisher more than $34,000 in 1929, and yet by the end of the year Fisher had no assets," Wilkinson asked Thomas.

"Yes," Thomas replied. "Fisher spent it as fast as he made it."

Q.—"How do you know he spent it?"

A.—"I saw him and he told me about it."

Q.—"How, if you know, did he spend it?"

A.—"I would call it a lot of foolishness. Fisher spent it on gambling and drink—he lived too high."

Q.—"Did he live in Baton Rouge and New Orleans?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"You saw him get the shell order contracts?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"You saw him gambling?"

A.—"Yes."

Q. —"Did you see him buying any diamonds or houses on St. Charles avenue (New Orleans)?"

A.—"No."

Welcome, P. O. Benjamin, secretary of the Madison parish police jury; roll call of parishes and delegates present; annual address of president, John M. Breard; address by O. K. Allen, governor of Louisiana; address, "Beautiful and Romantic Louisiana," by Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, Louisiana college, Pineville; address by W. C. Vetsch, parish gasoline tax coordinator, New Orleans; address by W. G. Taggart, assistant director of experiment stations at Louisiana State university.

A statement regarding the convention has been issued as follows;

"Much state-wide interest centers in the annual conventions of the Police Jury association of Louisiana, which is composed of the police juries of 63 parishes and the commission council of the parish of Orleans, due to the fact that this annual gathering brings together representatives from the smallest subdivisions of our state, that is from each ward in each parish of the state, thereby presenting a statewide picture of Louisiana from year to year, this association having been organized in 1924. The association has for its objects, the promotion and protection of the interests of the several police juries of the state and of the city council of New Orleans; the promotion of the welfare of the taxpayers; the improvement of the administration of parish affairs; and by mutual cooperation, the endeavoring to secure, if possible, proper legislation for the general good off the state of Louisiana, particularly as it pertains to parochial affairs.

"J. J. Fournet of Lafayette, who has been selected as chairman of the resolution committee, has issued official announcement that the resolution committee will hold its first session in Hotel Frances in Monroe on Sunday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. to consider all resolutions to be presented to the 1935 convention, which resolutions must be in the hands of Secretary Henry C. Maurin at LaPlace, before Sunday, April 14, as per official announcement forwarded to all secretaries of all police juries.

"W. T. Smith of Bastrop who has been placed in charge of the program for the business sessions of the convention has announced the completion of a most interesting program, with necessary time set aside for open discussions of the many problems now facing our police juries, and all jurors are invited to take active part in these discussions.

"A. B. Myatt, W. J. Vinson, J. E. Rutledge, D. Y. Smith, A. E. Montgomery and C. R. Tidwell of Monroe, in charge of the general entertainments for the convention announce that, among the entertainment features will be an old-fashioned barbecue to be served at the Monroe airport at 12:30 on April 16 while in the evening, the delegates and their guests will be entertained at a banquet to be served at Hotel Virginia at 7:30 p.m., to be followed by a dance in the auditorium of Hotel Frances.

"Miss Henrietta Koepp, secretary of the secretary-treasurers' auxiliary, is anxious that all secretaries and treasurers of all police juries attend the business meeting and banquet to be held in Hotel Frances on April 15 at 7:30 p.m.

"The association is at present mailing out an interesting annual number of its official organ, "The Louisiana Digest," which, besides containing the complete official proceedings of the 1934 convention held in Baton Rouge, contains also the names and addresses of the state and parish officials, police jurors, secretaries and treasurers of police juries, school superintendents, thereby making this issue a valuable book to be filed for future references.

"Advance list of delegates indicate that the 1935 attendance will surpass all previous records, and that more parishes will be represented than ever before, while advance resolutions indicate that constructive measures will come up for discussion and adoption.

"All roads will lead to Monroe, April 16 and 17. Police jurors have been requested to take the lady folks along, and special committees have been appointed to entertain the ladies during the convention; therefore all may look forward to a grand time, and a great convention."

Officers of the police jury association are John M. Breard, Monroe, president; T. W. Serpas, St. Bernard, vice president; Henry C. Maurin, LaPlace, secretary, and L. F. Clawson, Shreveport, treasurer.

LEWMAN TO TALK AT SCOUT MEET

15 Parishes To Be Represented At Session This Afternoon

A meeting of special importance to the Ouachita Valley council of the Boy Scouts of America will be held by scout officials of the 15 parishes represented in the council this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the civil district courtroom of the Ouachita parish courthouse. Plans looking to the stimulation of activities in the council, which has been without an executive for several months until the recent selection of Olan H. Black as executive, will be formulated, and officers to serve during the coming year will be elected.

Harold W. Lewman, of Memphis, Tenn., regional scout executive, will attend the meeting, it was announced by Judge W. M. Harper, president of the council.

Business of the meeting will include annual reports from district council committeemen, a discussion of plans for the annual Boy Scout summer encampment at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, a discussion of plans in connection with the national scout jamboree to be held at Washington, D. C., in August, in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of scouting in the United States, and plans for a field program on May day.

Officers to be elected are the president, four vice-presidents, a commissioner and a treasurer.

The annual meeting customarily is held in December, but was not held last December because the council at that time was without an executive, due to the resignation of G. W. Simpson, who held the position.

Weekly Meeting Of Hi-Y Club Is Held

The weekly meeting of the Ouachita parish high school Junior Hi-Y club was opened with a prayer, led by Dick Eason. Philip Embanato, president, presided.

Billy Wright gave a talk on football and this was followed by a discussion of the devotional by J. F. Craig.

The club voted to accept Lee Milton as a new member. Initiation of new members will be held in the Ouachita parish grammar school Wednesday night.

Tommie Downes, student of Neville high school, was a visitor.

Fruit punch and cookies were served after the meeting.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's note: The following article is the third of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Form P-4 is used by the widow of a veteran who died either in the service, or after discharge of a disability that originated in the service or was aggravated by war service. This form is also used by the child of a veteran, under eighteen years of age, to apply for death benefits.

Where the death of the veteran occurred while in the service from causes brought about by military training or actual war service, the widow need not furnish any evidence other than her marriage certificate to the veteran, and how previous marriages were dissolved in the event there were previous marriages. The marriage record should be certified to as being correct by the clerk of court for the parish where the marriage was performed. Where the widow was previously married, she must furnish a certified copy of the death certificate of the former husband, or a certified copy of court order or decree of divorce. If the deceased veteran was previously married, similar proof of dissolution of such marriage must also be furnished.

Where the veteran died after his discharge from the service and was in receipt of compensation because of a service connected disability, the only evidence that will have to be furnished, in addition to proof of widowhood mentioned above, is a certified copy of the public record of death, showing that he died of the disability for which he was receiving compensation. Where the veteran died of a disability other than the one for which he was receiving compensation it must be shown that the disability which was service connected contributed in some way to his death.

Where the veteran died of a disability which at time of death was not service connected, the regulations permit the widow or child to submit evidence to show that the disability which caused his death was due to war service. Disabilities may be connected with war service after death in the same manner as veterans connect disabilities while living. I refer you to the first article in this series with reference to filing Form P-1, in order that you may determine how different disabilities are connected with war service.

'Chochahoula' Staff Has Formal Banquet

Members of the staff of the "Chochahoula," annual off Northeast Center of L. S. U., attended a formal banquet Saturday night in the Cameo room of Hotel Virginia. In addition to the staff members there were present a number of invited guests. Arrangements for the banquet were completed by Prof. W. R. Hammond.

Each of the thirteen staff members responded to a toast and brief talks were made by guests. The latter comprised among others, Dean and Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Superintendent and Mrs. T. O. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Abernathy and Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. James A. Noe.

RUSTON TO CONDUCT RELIGIOUS CENSUS

RUSTON, La., April 6.—(Special)—Through the cooperation of six Protestant churches of Ruston, the Presbyterian, First Baptist, Temple Baptist, Trinity Methodist, Episcopal and Church of God, a complete religious census of the entire white population of Ruston will be taken between the hours of 1:30 and 4:00 p. m. Sunday.

More than 80 persons will engage in the undertaking. A general committee, headed by T. W. Shields, and with Mrs. W. E. Colvin and Mrs. Joe Perry as co-workers, has the task in charge. This general committee is assisted by the following members: First Baptist, S. A. Martin; Presbyterian, E. A. Epps; Trinity Methodist, H. H. Smith; Temple Baptist, Louis Huey; Episcopal, Mrs. L. J. Fox; Church of God, Rev. C. W. Smith.

City Briefs

The Parent-Teacher association of the Barkdull Faulk school wishes to express thanks to all merchants who contributed to the success of the recent "Night in Spain" cabaret and entertainment. Financial results were even greater than those in charge had dared hope and much credit is accorded to the merchants as well as to all who contributed their time and effort.

Dr. E. Powell has just been named city physician for West Monroe by the city council of that municipality with salary placed at $25 a month. It is stated that it was found necessary to appoint a city physician to meet demands for medical treatment of prisoners in the city jail and indigent residents.

The Burnett-Downs post No. 201, American Legion, located in West Monroe, has just received two flags which comprise the colors of the post. While the post has been in existence for several years, the colors were not ordered until recently, due to the fact that the name of the post was not decided upon until several weeks ago. The colors comprise a large American flag and another flag on which is inscribed, "Burnett-Downs Post No. 201, American Legion."

Miss Mildred Dollar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dollar, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, has just been removed to her parents' home. Miss Dollar is supervisor of ERA in Lincoln parish with headquarters at Ruston. She hopes to be able to resume her duties shortly.

Sidney Schmalinski, secretary of the Y. M. H. A., returned Saturday from Rochester, Minn., where he went to take his wife for medical treatment. Mrs. Schmalinski is said to be doing as well as can be expected and as yet no operation has been deemed necessary. A daughter, Miss Sadie Schmalinski, is with her mother and a week later another daughter, Mrs. Abie Marks, plans to join her parent in Minnesota.

A weiner roast, to which the public is invited, will be given by the Junior St. Joseph society tonight on the banks of Bayou DeSiard, near Edgewater Gardens. The party to attend will assemble at St. Matthew's parochial school and leave there at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Dodd and several students of the Monroe Beauty school will leave today for New Orleans to attend the National Cosmeticians convention which will be held in New Orleans, La.

E. L. Wright Speaks At W. C. T. U. Meeting

E. L. Wright, Ouachita parish probation officer, was chief speaker at the monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union, held in the First Methodist church in West Monroe. His theme was "Youth and Repeal," and he pointed out some of the effects of prohibition and of the open saloon.

He stated that traffic accidents had greatly multiplied since prohibition was repealed, until a "really alarming situation exists." Liquor violations are on the gain as shown, he stated, by the large number of cases that came up in federal court here the past week.

Linville High School To Give Farce Comedy

LINVILLE, La., April 6.—(Special)—The senior class of Linville high school will present its annual play, "Laughing," a farce comedy, here next Saturday night, it was announced yesterday.

All members of the graduating class this year will take part in the comedy. The seniors making up the cast are Emmette Turner, Mary Parks, Mildred Nolan, Grace Nolan, Irene Lankford, Ruth Nale, Fannie Reppond and Doris Meeks.

Emmette Turner recently won the public speaking contest of the school which made him eligible for the district contest at Spearsville tonight. Those competing against him here were Murphy Johnston, Eugene Love and Durell Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes entertained the card club for their last meeting. Purple iris and verbena were used to decorate the living room where the games were played. A buffet supper was served during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes' guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Levy and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitney.

The Episcopal Auxiliary met for their meeting for the month of April at the home of Mrs. Marable Harper. The meeting was opened by all repeating the creed in unison. Mrs. John Hughes, the president, presided. Important business matters were discussed. When all business was concluded, the meeting closed with a brief prayer service. Besides the hostess, Mrs. Harper, those members attending the meeting included Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. George Clinton, Mrs. Joseph Whitaker, Mrs. Laura Beaubren, Mrs. Albert G. Bondurant and Mrs. Fred Cassil.

A several course dinner, cooked and served by Miss Bessie Muir and the pupils of her cooking class was enjoyed at the Joseph M. Davidson high school. Red verbena formed the center piece of the table and was used to decorate the room.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Curry MacPherson, Mr. and Mrs. George Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. William Brewer, Mrs. Katie Osborne, Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. William Hollingsworth, Dr. and Mrs. J. Claude Earnest, Miss Frances Osborne, Captain James Keith, Mr. Denton Brewer and Miss Bessie Muir.

The Cosmopolitan club presented a very interesting program at its meeting. Mrs. Blanton Evans and Mrs. Philip Watson were the hostesses. Mrs. Claude Earnest, the leader, "Conservation" was the subject of the program. An interesting talk on "Protecting Our Wild Life" by Mr. Elliott Coleman, was the first number, the second number was an instructive talk about "Forestry." The program was concluded by a reading, "An Animal Story" by Mrs. Clarence Johnston. Refreshments were enjoyed at the close of the program. The meeting was well attended.

The marriage of Miss Norma Bird and Mr. James Bowman was celebrated at St. Joseph on Monday night, April the first. Justice of Peace Steve W. Smith, officiated. Both bride and groom are residents of Tensas parish. The bride has made her home with her brother, Mr. Norman A. Bird, on Loamland plantation and the groom's home is Alphenia, on Tensas river. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mattie C. Bird of Loamland plantation.

LEWMAN TO TALK AT SCOUT MEET

15 Parishes To Be Represented At Session This Afternoon

A meeting of special importance to the Ouachita Valley council of the Boy Scouts of America will be held by scout officials of the 15 parishes represented in the council this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the civil district courtroom of the Ouachita parish courthouse. Plans looking to the stimulation of activities in the council, which has been without an executive for several months until the recent selection of Olan H. Black as executive, will be formulated, and officers to serve during the coming year will be elected.

Harold W. Lewman, of Memphis, Tenn., regional scout executive, will attend the meeting, it was announced by Judge W. M. Harper, president of the council.

Business of the meeting will include annual reports from district council committeemen, a discussion of plans for the annual Boy Scout summer encampment at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, a discussion of plans in connection with the national scout jamboree to be held at Washington, D. C., in August, in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of scouting in the United States, and plans for a field program on May day.

Officers to be elected are the president, four vice-presidents, a commissioner and a treasurer.

The annual meeting customarily is held in December, but was not held last December because the council at that time was without an executive, due to the resignation of G. W. Simpson, who held the position.

Weekly Meeting Of Hi-Y Club Is Held

The weekly meeting of the Ouachita parish high school Junior Hi-Y club was opened with a prayer, led by Dick Eason. Philip Embanato, president, presided.

Billy Wright gave a talk on football and this was followed by a discussion of the devotional by J. F. Craig.

The club voted to accept Lee Milton as a new member. Initiation of new members will be held in the Ouachita parish grammar school Wednesday night.

Tommie Downes, student of Neville high school, was a visitor.

Fruit punch and cookies were served after the meeting.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's note: The following article is the third of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Form P-4 is used by the widow of a veteran who died either in the service, or after discharge of a disability that originated in the service or was aggravated by war service. This form is also used by the child of a veteran, under eighteen years of age, to apply for death benefits.

Where the death of the veteran occurred while in the service from causes brought about by military training or actual war service, the widow need not furnish any evidence other than her marriage certificate to the veteran, and how previous marriages were dissolved in the event there were previous marriages. The marriage record should be certified to as being correct by the clerk of court for the parish where the marriage was performed. Where the widow was previously married, she must furnish a certified copy of the death certificate of the former husband, or a certified copy of court order or decree of divorce. If the deceased veteran was previously married, similar proof of dissolution of such marriage must also be furnished.

Where the veteran died after his discharge from the service and was in receipt of compensation because of a service connected disability, the only evidence that will have to be furnished, in addition to proof of widowhood mentioned above, is a certified copy of the public record of death, showing that he died of the disability for which he was receiving compensation. Where the veteran died of a disability other than the one for which he was receiving compensation it must be shown that the disability which was service connected contributed in some way to his death.

Where the veteran died of a disability which at time of death was not service connected, the regulations permit the widow or child to submit evidence to show that the disability which caused his death was due to war service. Disabilities may be connected with war service after death in the same manner as veterans connect disabilities while living. I refer you to the first article in this series with reference to filing Form P-1, in order that you may determine how different disabilities are connected with war service.

A Good Sign To Be Dissatisfied

A very estimable woman observed the other day, "At times I grow completely discouraged with myself. Sometimes it seems to me that, regardless of the length of time I have lived in this world and the experiences I have had, they have taught me nothing. Again and again, I find myself wondering if when I leave this world I shall know any more than when I entered it."

The state of mind expressed by this woman is not peculiar to her. Almost any thinker who is not an egotist or a Pharisee feels the same way about it. It is a mighty healthful way to feel, too.

Which type of individual do you admire the more—the one who feels that he is not all he should be and is striving to improve in goodness, or the one who thinks he is just about right and is merely waiting for the summons to sit on the right hand of the Almighty to judge the world? Lord deliver us from the latter class. They keep more people out of church than all the other adverse influences put together.

A prominent man once quit the church, because, he said, "I couldn't stand it Sunday after Sunday to see old Joe Marrigan sitting up there in the amen corner with that holier-than-thou expression on his face." Of course this man was wrong about that. He should not have let his personal prejudices keep him away from what was good for him. He had there a weakness to overcome. He probably wouldn't have let old Joe Marrigan keep him away from the dinner table.

Yes, people who have not stopped growing are always taking stock of themselves and finding plenty of room for improvement—and the fact that they find things, should encourage rather than discourage them. It is a sure sign they have not atrophied mentally and spiritually.

Usually people who are getting ready for any great test, doubt that they are ready for it. Probably no actor ever approached a first night performance without this question tormenting him. Up to the dress rehearsal, in the preparation for presenting a play, one might wonder what the result would be. To the uninitiated there would seem to be plenty of grounds for doubting that the various players know their parts. Yet when the performance is put on, if the training has been adequate, the result is a smooth and competent presentation. Often the most dubious of the players are the most successful.

And so it will probably be with all of us when we pass from this life into the next. We shall find that we have learned a great deal more than we think we have learned and have our lines better than we imagined.

But keep up the good work of taking stock of ourselves. And remember that no man is a failure until he is satisfied with himself.

MERRIWELL ON THE SCREEN

The eagle, according to a more or less reliable tradition, renews its youth by means of a prolonged sleep in a nest on an inaccessible mountain crag, a means to an important end which is hardly practicable for the humans down in the valley.

But, thanks to Hollywood, from which both bad and good comes, the pages of time are to be turned back a few years and the oldsters are to be given an opportunity to recapture some of the delights of youth—delights provided at a cost of five cents and contained between lurid paper covers.

Announcement has been made that the films will present a series of the exploits of Frank Merriwell, the peerless hero of three decades ago, invincible with his fists, with baseball bat and rifle, whose prowess was ever employed against the forces of evil, at whose hands virtue always triumphed regardless of the odds.

The generation that grew up on this surreptitious literature, which was read chiefly in barns, woodsheds and the open fields, far from the critical gaze of parents and teachers, will welcome the return of the idol of youthful years. He should produce a rejuvenating effect.

The young Indiana farmer and his fiancee who swooned while applying for a marriage license should abandon the idea forthwith. The adventure is one which should be undertaken only by the strong and the brave.

Being a "best dressed man" isn't such a big achievement but it's better, of course, than no publicity at all.

Mr. Hoover, his friends say, would do better in 1936 than he did in 1932. It could hardly be otherwise.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

DEBUNKING THE EARLY ROBIN

I'm sick of early robins;
When they began to sing
I've said: "At last
The winter's past
And this is glorious spring.
No more the hail will patter
Upon the cold damp ground
In dale and dell,
All will be well;
The robins are around."

I shed my winter flannels
And confidently say:
"These birds are wise,
They know the skies
Will soon be garbed like May.
Delightful little prophets,
They cheep about my door;
The skies are bright
The world's all right,
For spring is here once more."

And then the chill cold blizzard
Comes roaring from the north
The wood and wold
And bleak and cold;
No robin issues forth.
Don't trust the little rascals,
But stoke your cheery fires,
Too soon you'll find
All robin kind
Are monumental liars.

It's 150 In The Shade

By BRUCE CATTON

If Signor Mussolini really plans to tangle with the emperor of Abyssinia, he might very profitably read "Hell-Hole of Creation," by L. M. Nesbitt, before he starts.

Here is a book in which an English mining engineer tells how he and two other Europeans hiked some 500 miles across the terrible Danakil country that lies between Abyssinia and the Italian colony of Eritrea. Judging from his record, this country is impossible to fight in and not worth fighting for.

Surprisingly enough, this trip constituted genuine exploration. No white men had ever crossed this stretch before. A few had tried, but all had lost their lives in the attempt.

Mr. Nesbitt and his friends covered much ground that was utterly unknown to the geographers, and did it at the cost of much physical suffering and tremendous peril.

Most of the land is barren desert. Temperatures are almost unbelievable —150 in the shade is common, and there is precious little shade. Water holes are few and far between. Trails are non-existent.

The few inhabitants are savage tribesmen whose sole occupation is the murder of unwary visitors—or, of course, failing that, of one another.

This book, then, is an amazing record of endurance and perseverance. It is also a fascinating account of a wild, savage, and fiercely beautiful land—one of the few spots on earth where exploration in the old sense is still possible.

New Deal In Washington

WASHINGTON.—The factors behind the expected appropriation of a billion dollars to maintain the army and the navy through the next fiscal year are never discussed here—publicly.

Privately, of course, one hears plenty.

As far as the navy goes, all the whispers about its expansion are concerned with Japan. But while congress was debating approval of an increase of the army by 47,000 men, the word went around that this a measure of preparation against possible domestic trouble, meaning riots and strikes.

Even the most wistful army officer hardly hopes ever to land his troops on Japanese soil. But for years the war department has harbored a quaint notion that the country is on the verge of some violent uprising such as is invisible to most civilians.

Naval officers, on the other hand, usually talk as if they were sure to bombard Japanese shores sooner or later. They really know better, since no navy now within the range of contemplation can cross the Pacific and mop up. The distance is too great.

A Game of Bluff

You have to have friends in the state department to really get the point. Then realization begins to dawn that a large hunk of our foreign policy is just a game of bluff with Japan.

This year's navy maneuvers in the direction of Japan will be part of the game. The idea is to scare Japan into a less obstreperous Asiatic policy. Of course that requires that Japan be persuaded to believe that the British navy will co-operate with the American navy in Far Eastern waters in event of trouble.

The fact that Japan continues to thumb her nose indicates a Nipponese confidence that England would play a game of smart neutrality, as usual.

There's a rumor that Rear Admiral William S. Sims, retired, will bust out one of these days with public assertion that the country is spending billions on a fostered delusion that we can have a navy which could fight a decisive battle with Japan.

Meanwhile, naval officers have admitted to the senate munitions committee that they don't know whether they're getting their money's worth in the huge warship program. There's no way to tell whether bids for ships are fair or excessive, though evidence on past bids has shown enormous profits.

Tarred With Same Stick

Senator Homer T. Bone, Washington: "A radio commentator recently referred to the fact that the pending Japanese budget requires that approximately 49 per cent of the budget this year should go to the army and navy of Japan, and he expressed great horror over that fact and grave concern lest it affect the peace of the world.

"It is rather startling to find this government of ours spending 50 per cent of its total budget for the army and navy."

Where Courtesy Ceases

Senatorial courtesy usually figures importantly in the matter of pairing on votes—the system under which a senator can get away from the chamber without damage by agreement of another senator on the other side to refrain from voting.

But the situation became grimmer and tighter as the administration girded for its second test on the "prevailing wage" amendment to the works bill.

Huey Long complained that his friends, Senators Caraway and Overton, who were ill, couldn't get pairs at all.

While he lay on his back recovering Logan wired that he was withdrawing his pair—another vote for the administration.

Revenge At Last

Senator Lew Schwellenbach of Washington admits he didn't resent Father Coughlin's attack on General Johnson. He recalls that he was an army private at a camp on the Pacific coast when Johnson came there to take command.

"After that he had to get up an hour earlier every morning and got to bed an hour later every night," Schwellenbach says. "We must have had more useless parades, drills and inspections than any other two outfits in the army. When anybody asked me during the campaign what I thought of Johnson, I knew what to tell 'em."

Young Methodists Will Conduct Vesper Services

The young people of the First Methodist church are planning a series of pre-Easter vesper services to be held during the week immediately preceding Easter.

The first one of the series is to be held on Palm Sunday, April 14, at 6:30 p.m., to take the place of the regular 7:30 p.m. preaching service. The services are to be continued each evening thereafter at 6:30 p.m., through Thursday, April 18. There will be a communion service held early Friday morning, April 19, which will close the series of special services.

Rev. W. C. Scott, a pastor of the First Methodist church, will be in charge and older people as well as those younger are invited to attend all services.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE LEADER OF 32 REVOLUTIONS—General Rafael Uribe Uribe was born in the province of Antioquia, Colombia, 1859, and was assassinated in Bogota in October, 1914. He identified himself early with the Liberal party which sponsored the unsuccessful rebellion of 1895. In those turbulent days the Conservative party in power could not be ousted except by armed insurrection. An epigram coined at the time, referred to the "bullet replacing the ballot."

General Uribe led 32 revolutions against the party in power between 1885 and 1905, when he returned to resume a distinguished position in the Colombian capital. He was a professor of political economy, doctor of laws, senator and ambassador to various South American countries. When he died, the country went into official mourning and a mausoleum was erected over his mortal remains by the country which honored him as "the Pride and Beloved Son of Colombia."

THE PLUTO CAT—There are a number of instances on record of feline plutocrats, but "Tabby," the cat owned by Miss Margaret Griffiths of San Francisco, is in a class by himself. When Miss Griffiths bought the cat many years ago, she put him on a salary of 10 cents for every mouse he caught, and 5 cents every time he purred for dinner, and put all his earnings in the San Francisco bank. At the time of Tabby's death in 1933, he had accumulated the tidy sum of $1,299.42—5 mice and 2 dinners short of $1,300.

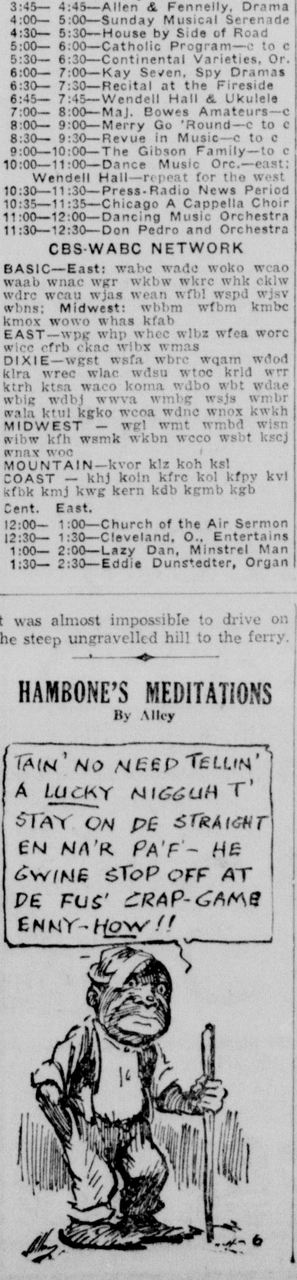
HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

By Alley



Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—Meanderings: The depression has ended for stage doormen at theaters where musical shows are playing. For the stage-door Johnnies are back. Red carnations in buttonhole; limousines waiting at the curbs; five-dollar bills tucked into watchmen's palms; whispered instructions: "See that Miss Alyne DeVyne gets this note right away."

Those troupes of furtive little street urchins who dance and sing for theater crowds appeared with spring's first robin. Ray Bolger, hoofing star of "Life Begins at 8:40," watched a group of them the other evening and decided their routines were a little rusty. Pulled his hat low over his eyes, stepped from the crowd and went into an intricate tap. Dimes and nickels showered on the grateful youngsters. "Hey, brother," hailed an onlooker, "you're almost good enough to be on the stage."

Hervey Allen is well along with a new book, likely to be as long as "Anthony Adverse" . . . And speaking of writing marathons, I hear that Eugene O'Neill is penning a lengthier play than "Mourning Becomes Electra." This one's semi-autobiographical and will run for nine nights—a sequence of related dramas.

Back Home

By now, all the Broadwayites have trailed home from Florida. Barney Gallant, for one. And Sophie Tucker, who'll star in the wake of Rudy Vallee at a Main stem bright spot. The Yacht Club Boys have brought back a lot of pleasant idiocies. So have Chick Endor and Charley Farrell. And Earl Carroll has recalled his 54 proteges from the Palm Island club to decorate the Hudson River's Riviera. Frances Maddux now perches on a piano on the St. Regis roof . . . Mr. Rockefeller's Rainbow Room, first to bill a singer as a "singeuse," now has a "conferenciere," which means mistress of ceremonies. The name is Marcell Luzzzatto.

Mr. Carroll sent out a chorus call the other day, for a new edition of his "Vanities." Fifteen hundred girls mobbed the Winter Garden, largest number of applicants since Ziegfeld cast his last Follies. Twelve hundred were rejected with scarcely a glance from the producer. Three hundred returned next day for more deliberate selection. Fifty-six eventually were chosen.

Nobody knows what will happen to the 1,444 disappointed aspirants, but my unpracticed judgment would estimate that at least a thousand of them have returned to their housewifely kitchens, their stenographic positions and their high school classrooms. Many a dance director has assured me that he knows not a single girl of real beauty and dancing talent who s without a job in New York.

Furriner

Marlene Dietrich, shunning trousers by day, has given Gotham something to talk about in matters of evening wear. I saw her step out of the Rainbow Room elevator in an ermine wrap that had four silver fox pelts dangling down the front of it. She wore the same combination to the theater next night, and topped it with a black beret.

Saw Libby Holman with Elsa Maxwell, and wanted to ask whether Lawrence Tibbett actually had agreed to introduce the songs Miss Maxwell is supposed to have written for Barbara Hutton's verses. I've been told Tibbett was astonished by the announcement . . . Gloria Swanson may appear on Broadway in a mystery play . . . Spotted Claudette Colbert, Peggy Joyce, Beatrice Lillie and Jack Pearl at the Mayfair . . . Also, alighting from a limousine, a dowager with three green orchids affixed to her back hair.

One For The Book

Ed Wynn and his son often step out together for an evening, complete with red carnations in lapels. Ben Bernie and his son also are inseparables. They wear brown hats with evening clothes . . . A Tunney swung his fists the other night in Horlem—Tom Tunney, police lieutenant brother of Gene . . . A book attracting lots of local attention is Joseph Verner Reed's "The Curtain Falls." Tells of his disillusionments as a theatrical producer; how he lost $250,000 in two years; and of his determination to stay out of the game. Two weeks after publication, along came a new comedy hit called "Petticoat Fever." And the backer is James Verner Reed.

9 PERSONS ARE HURT BY STORMS

blown throughout the area. The grandstand of the ball park was blown down and the wreckage blocked a nearby roadway.

Tenant houses on plantations south of the town were blown down, and a negro district in Lake Providence, known as "Soldiers' Rest," was almost completely wrecked. The town of Lake Providence tonight was a vast lake, water covering the streets to a depth of several inches. The storm left off current for street lights, the only illumination being in widely separated residential sections.

James Surles, driving into Lake Providence on the Tallulah highway, was caught by the storm and his truck blown into a ditch. Surles received minor injuries.

A family named Isaacs fled from their home just as the storm approached. The storm struck the dwelling and completely demolished it. The fleeing family escaped unhurt.

The Providence Cooperage company's plant, two miles south of town, was destroyed, and the Hollybrook gin in the same area was blown over. A general store owned by James Beard was demolished.

Hailstones which fell during the storm did considerable damage to roofs throughout the town and the nearby rural areas. The Fisher hotel was flooded with water that poured through the roof, serious damage occurring to the stock in Goodstein's furniture store occupying the ground floor of the hotel.

Hugh King was injured when his automobile became entangled in live electric wires. His injuries were not considered serious. Another man escaped when a large piece of timber was blown through his car.

The C. H. Hill Automobile company received severe damage when the roof was blown off the building. Several cars were badly damaged.

FARMER IS HURT NEAR HARRISONBURG

HARRISONBURG, La., April 6.—(Special.)—Luther Conn, 28-year-old farmer, was seriously hurt during a violent wind and rain storm which struck north of here early this morning. The second story of Conn's two-story home was blown away with Conn in it and carried more than 40 feet.

All damage done by the storm was confined to the Ballard plantation in a bend of the Ouachita river about two miles north of here where Conn lives. Several outhouses on the place were overturned but a highline passing over the house escaped damage. The storm struck the plantation about 1 a.m. and lasted several minutes.

Conn was in an upstairs room asleep when the storm swooped down upon the farm, but he awoke and began to dress. He had hardly got into his clothing before the section of the house which he was in was lifted by the wind and smashed to the ground several feet from the house proper.

TWO CHILDREN HURT NEAR WISNER

WISNER, April 6.—(Special.)—Several homes four miles southwest of Wisner were demolished by a windstorm late today and two children of Mrs. Ardie Flowers suffered minor injuries.

Among the homes completely demolished was that of Jerry Cheek. His home was being newly constructed. Cheek is the operator of a store, and the top of the store was blown off.

At Ferriday, the saw mill of the Fisher Lumber corporation was reported slightly damaged. A log derrick on wheels was blown by the heavy wind into the mill, damaging the building. The conveyor apparatus which carries waste wood from the mill was reported wrecked. The top of the office of the mill physician was blown off.

The Missouri Pacific railroad's roundhouse at Ferriday was also reported damaged.

MONROE IS VISITED BY ELECTRICAL DISPLAY

One of the most vivid electrical displays in recent months visited Monroe and vicinity Friday night, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. The worst part of the storm started shortly before midnight and continued intermittantly for about an hour an a half.

During the height of the storm the Vita-Creme mill, 1105 South Second street, was struck by lighting, which started a fire. B. F. Spruell, operator of the mill and grocery, estimated the damage at $200, most of which was caused by the fire.

Telephone and power companies apparently escaped with slight damage. The Southern Bell Telephone company reported only a few local phones were put out of order and that practically no trouble was experienced with toll lines.

Miss Katie Key, government weather observer, reported that rainfall amounted to 1.30 inches. Although not many days had passed since the last previous rain, farmers and garden growers in several sections expressed the opinion that the rain would prove beneficial.

4 PERSONS LEFT DEAD BY STORMS

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—(AP)—Tornadic winds and electrical storms bursting with sporadic fury last night and today through the gulf coast states left four persons dead and many thousands of dollars of property and crop damage.

Flashes of lightning accounted for two of the deaths and hail left in deposits almost like snow in spots accounted for a goodly portion of the loss.

Trees were uprooted and blown against houses in the storm sections, oil derricks were smashed and windows were blown out by the elements in the hit points while light to heavy rains fell in four states.

Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama felt the storm. And the greater part of the territory was drenched.

The deaths were:

C. R. Wheat, 26, instantly killed near Henderson, Texas, when tornadic winds damaged homes and blew down oil derricks.

Manchild Stevens, 35, negro, drowned in the overturning of a boat by a windstorm that struck Vivian, La.

I. J. Stevens, 32, a farmer, was killed by lightning near Crestview, Fla. He was driving a wagon and had stopped beneath a tree during an electrical storm.

Opelousas, La., Pritchard, Ala., near Mobile and northwest Louisiana in the Shreveport area were raked by strong winds.

South central Mississippi was in the storm belt but slight damage was reported. The hotel at Brookhaven, Miss., was struck by lightning and the roof was blown off of a Brookhaven compress.

A lumber mill section at Pritchard, Ala., was damaged several thousand dollars.

Minor damage was done both at Opelousas and Shreveport, La.

east corner of the capitol. More than an hour before the parade was scheduled, spectators huddled along the curbs of Constitution avenue. The chill mist fell unnoticed.

By 1:30 p. m., when the parade moved across capitol plaza, thousands packed the sidewalks along the line of march. The march was sponsored by the Military Order of the World War as a demonstration of preparedness.

The parade was colorful but there was no cheer. The troops marched with set faces to the music of a dozen bands.

DANZIG—Danzigers took the day off as Germany's propaganda minister, eloquent Paul Joseph Goebbels, arrived to wind up the oratorical campaign expected to give Nazis an overwhelming victory in Sunday's volkstag elections. A Nazi dictatorship for the free city is believed likely.

BERLIN—The government mouthpiece, Diplomatische Korrespondenz, said the Danzig election does not constitute protest against the Versailles treaty (which took Danzig from the reich) but manifestation of (racial) solidarity which does not run contrary to treaties but is recognized by them.

MRS. BRYAN WINS U. S. COURT FIGHT

A verdict in favor of the plaintiff was rendered by a jury in the federal district court here at noon yesterday in the case in which Mrs. Elvira Bryan sued the United States for $10,000 in war risk insurance on her brother, Robert Martin Duckworth, deceased World war veteran, who died some years ago allegedly as the result of disabilities incurred during the war.

When the court opened yesterday morning, Judge Ben C. Dawkins overruled a motion for a directed verdict which was entered by the government in the case late Friday.

The case was given to the jury about 11 a.m., and the jury's verdict was returned at 12:30 o'clock.

This week the court will be occupied with civil cases. The case of J. M. Sartor, and others, vs. the United Gas Public Service company, is first on the docket for the closing week of the present term.

for "war in a hurry" as was alleged.

Sir John Simon, for England, received from Hitler a written proposal, with five provisions:

First a ten year non-aggression treaty with Germany's neighbors, nobody to attack anybody else.

Second, a pledge to withhold economic and financial assistance from any nation starting a war.

Hitler wrote that and if he means it, Lloyd George is correct in his statement: "Not this time."

THE FRENCH who have a line of steel and concrete forts along their eastern border, all the way from Switzerland north, refuse to take Hitler's protestations seriously.

They move three more army corps up to the line of forts and will hold under arms young soldiers that should be discharged this June.

Nothing convinces the logical French but facts.

IN ADDITION to moving sixty thousand more soldiers to the German lines, France is hurriedly connecting her steel and concrete line of fortresses, with barbed wire entanglements and trenches. Thirty thousand soldiers are digging in as you read.

The French apparently expect the same old thing over again, but they will not seek it. Nations in the next war will not squat in trenches, but fly against the enemy nation's chief cities and kill an impressive number of citizens with poison explosives and gas.

Nothing will be more lonesome than a front line trench in the next war.

THE "LONDON Advisory Protective Committee for American Investments" would reverse the supreme court decision setting aside gold payments. Other nations are asked to join with the "British Protective committee."

Uncle Sam might give them an order on their own government for the money they think they ought to have. The amount could be deducted from debts owed to the United States, contracted when European gentlemen had their backs to the wall, and came near being beaten, in fact, fully expected to be beaten, by Germany, even with Italy, France, England, Russia united against her.

IN LOS ANGELES, respectable ladies who started "Housewives league" to boycott butchers and reduce the cost of living, are horrified to read that other ladies less conservative, running a "united front" league, have been pulling customers from the shops of boycotted butchers and even tearing their hair. The head of the conservative housewives league is said to have exclaimed, "Gracious!" when she heard this news.

You can never tell what will happen when you begin interfering with "supply and demand."

THE GOVERNMENT that has discouraged kidnaping, has now taken up the bank robbing problem. J. Edgar Hoover, who directs criminal investigations for the department of justice, has sent out notices to the nations 6,442 banks that have deposits of more than thirty-one thousand million dollars, asking them to let him know as soon as they are robbed.

The government has fast automobiles, an adequate supply of arms and the bank robbing industry hereafter will be dangerous.

The country has 10,000 public enemies, among them 5,000 known to be bank robbers. Bank robbing is now a federal offense, and the bank robbing industry hereafter will be a dangerous one.

WILLIAMS CONFERS WITH TRUCK MEN

At a meeting of vegetable growers held yesterday morning at the city hall with Dr. G. Douglas Williams, director of the Ouachita Parish Health unit, cooperation in the observance of sanitary requirements in the handling of produce was pledged by the growers. A large attendance was present.

The meeting was in connection with the theory that vegetables washed in polluted streams have caused cases of typhoid fever here. The growers showed a clearly manifested desire to cooperate with the health unit towards the end that all health requirements will be observed.

Dr. Williams has issued a number of growers permits to sell their produce, and expects to issue additional permits within the next several days.

down throughout the area. The grandstand of the ball park was blown down and the wreckage blocked a nearby roadway.

Tenant houses on plantations south of the town were blown down, and a negro district in Lake Providence, known as "Soldiers' Rest," was almost completely wrecked. The town of Lake Providence tonight was a vast lake, water covering the streets to a depth of several inches. The storm cut off current for street lights, the only illumination being in widely separated residential sections.

James Surles, driving into Lake Providence on the Tallulah highway, was caught by the storm and his truck blown into a ditch. Surles received minor injuries.

A family named Isaacs fled from their home just as the storm approached. The storm struck the dwelling and completely demolished it. The fleeing family escaped unhurt.

The Providence Cooperage company's plant, two miles south of town, was destroyed, and the Hollybrook gin in the same area was blown over. A general store owned by James Beard was demolished.

Hailstones which fell during the storm did considerable damage to roofs throughout the town and the nearby rural areas. The Fisher hotel was flooded with water that poured through the roof, serious damage occurring to the stock in Goodstein's furniture store occupying the ground floor of the hotel.

Hugh King was injured when his automobile became entangled in live electric wires. His injuries were not considered serious. Another man escaped when a large piece of timber was blown through his car.

The C. H. Hill Automobile company received severe damage when the roof was blown off the building. Several cars were badly damaged.

FARMER IS HURT NEAR HARRISONBURG

HARRISONBURG, La., April 6.—(Special.)—Luther Conn, 28-year-old farmer, was seriously hurt during a violent wind and rain storm which struck north of here early this morning. The second story of Conn's two-story home was blown away with Conn in it and carried more than 40 feet.

All damage done by the storm was confined to the Ballard plantation in a bend of the Ouachita river about two miles north of here where Conn lives. Several outhouses on the place were overturned but a highline passing over the house escaped damage. The storm struck the plantation about 1 a.m. and lasted several minutes.

Conn was in an upstairs room asleep when the storm swooped down upon the farm, but he awoke and began to dress. He had hardly got into his clothing before the section of the house which he was in was lifted by the wind and smashed to the ground several feet from the house proper.

TWO CHILDREN HURT NEAR WISNER

WISNER, April 6.—(Special.)—Several homes four miles southwest of Wisner were demolished by a windstorm late today and two children of Mrs. Ardie Flowers suffered minor injuries.

Among the homes completely demolished was that of Jerry Cheek. His home was being newly constructed. Cheek is the operator of a store, and the top of the store was blown off.

At Ferriday, the saw mill of the Fisher Lumber corporation was reported slightly damaged. A log derrick on wheels was blown by the heavy wind into the mill, damaging the building. The conveyor apparatus which carries waste wood from the mill was reported wrecked. The top of the office of the mill physician was blown off.

The Missouri Pacific railroad's roundhouse at Ferriday was also reported damaged.

MONROE IS VISITED BY ELECTRICAL DISPLAY

One of the most vivid electrical displays in recent months visited Monroe and vicinity Friday night, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. The worst part of the storm started shortly before midnight and continued intermittantly for about an hour an a half.

During the height of the storm the Vita-Creme mill, 1105 South Second street, was struck by lighting, which started a fire. B. F. Spruell, operator of the mill and grocery, estimated the damage at $200, most of which was caused by the fire.

Telephone and power companies apparently escaped with slight damage. The Southern Bell Telephone company reported only a few local phones were put out of order and that practically no trouble was experienced with toll lines.

Miss Katie Key, government weather observer, reported that rainfall amounted to 1.30 inches. Although not many days had passed since the last previous rain, farmers and garden growers in several sections expressed the opinion that the rain would prove beneficial.

4 PERSONS LEFT DEAD BY STORMS

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—(AP)—Tornadic winds and electrical storms bursting with sporadic fury last night and today through the gulf coast states left four persons dead and many thousands of dollars of property and crop damage.

Flashes of lightning accounted for two of the deaths and hail left in deposits almost like snow in spots accounted for a goodly portion of the loss.

Trees were uprooted and blown against houses in the storm sections, oil derricks were smashed and windows were blown out by the elements in the hit points while light to heavy rains fell in four states.

Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama felt the storm. And the greater part of the territory was drenched.

The deaths were:

C. R. Wheat, 26, instantly killed near Henderson, Texas, when tornadic winds damaged homes and blew down oil derricks.

Manchild Stevens, 35, negro, drowned in the overturning of a boat by a windstorm that struck Vivian, La.

I. J. Stevens, 32, a farmer, was killed by lightning near Crestview, Fla. He was driving a wagon and had stopped beneath a tree during an electrical storm.

Opelousas, La., Pritchard, Ala., near Mobile and northwest Louisiana in the Shreveport area were raked by strong winds.

South central Mississippi was in the storm belt but slight damage was reported. The hotel at Brookhaven Miss., was struck by lightning and the roof was blown off of a Brookhaven compress.

A lumber mill section at Pritchard, Ala., was damaged several thousand dollars.

Minor damage was done both at Opelousas and Shreveport, La.

east corner of the capitol. More than an hour before the parade was scheduled, spectators huddled along the curbs of Constitution avenue. The chill mist fell unnoticed.

By 1:30 p. m., when the parade moved across capitol plaza, thousands packed the sidewalks along the line of march. The march was sponsored by the Military Order of the World War as a demonstration of preparedness.

The parade was colorful but there was no cheer. The troops marched with set faces to the music of a dozen bands.

BERLIN—The government mouthpiece, Diplomatische Korrespondenz, said the Danzig election does not constitute protest against the Versailles treaty (which took Danzig from the reich) but manifestation of (racial) solidarity which does not run contrary to treaties but is recognized by them.

MRS. BRYAN WINS U. S. COURT FIGHT

A verdict in favor of the plaintiff was rendered by a jury in the federal district court here at noon yesterday in the case in which Mrs. Elvira Bryan sued the United States for $10,000 in war risk insurance on her brother, Robert Martin Duckworth, deceased World war veteran, who died some years ago allegedly as the result of disabilities incurred during the war.

When the court opened yesterday morning, Judge Ben C. Dawkins overruled a motion for a directed verdict which was entered by the government in the case late Friday.

The case was given to the jury about 11 a.m., and the jury's verdict was returned at 12:30 o'clock.

This week the court will be occupied with civil cases. The case of J. M. Sartor, and others, vs. the United Gas Public Service company, is first on the docket for the closing week of the present term.

CITY BAKERY IS OLD FIRM HERE

Concern Is Now Completing 42nd Year Of Business Life

The City bakery, 320 North Fourth street, enjoys the distinction of being the oldest establishment of its kind in Northeast Louisiana, and is reputedly the oldest such establishment in north Louisiana. The local bakery was established in 1893, and is now completing the forty-second year of its business life.

Although old in years, the City bakery is equipped with the latest modern mechanical equipment, and uses the most modern scientific methods in the making of its products. The firm recently installed some new equipment, and members of the firm are ever on the alert for improvement of the standards of the baking industry by installing new and better equipment as it is made available, and by using new methods when they are scientifically tested and proved to be improvements over former methods.

During the past several years, following the location of the bakery in its completely new plant, its trade territory has expanded to include towns and communities within a radius of 15 miles of Monroe.

"Surprise" bread is the feature product of the City bakery. It is the effort of the bakery to "put all the goodness humanly possible into this bread." This bread, as well as other products of the bakery, is delivered fresh from the ovens twice daily to grocerles.

The firm is well known, also, for its line of pies, cakes and pastries.

TRUCK GROWERS TO MEET ON THURSDAY

A group of prominent trurk growers of Ouachita parish has called a meeting of truck growers of the parish to be held at the courthouse next Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of establishing a permanent organization of such producers.

The vegetable producers sponsoring the meeting are C. C. Beadles, R. O. Cannon, Robert G. Harmon, H. P. Carter, J. G. Bailey and J. B. Hudson.

E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, has been invited to attend the meeting.

The meeting will be to make plans to promote the interests of vegetable producers, discuss economical production and stabilization of prices, grading and packing, the control of insects and plant diseases, and will make plans for organized cooperation in the enforcement of sanitary regulations.

CHAPTER XXXII

Vicky smiled from beneath the insolently slanting hat brim. She said, "How do you do. May we come in?"

"Why—why, yes," Gale said. Her eyes once again sought Brian's, questioning, trying to hide the hurt that was in them. "Yes, do come in!"

She stepped back and they entered the house. Brian said, "Gale, this is Vicky Thatcher. Vicky—Gale Henderson. I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends. Vicky's come to ask a favor of you, Gale."

Vicky had turned and was surveying the room. Gale, watching her, suddenly saw it all with this stranger's eyes—the faded carpet, worn threadbare before the door and in front of the place where her father's big chair stood; the old-fashioned wall paper that should have been replaced long ago; the "golden oak" living room table with the hand-crocheted scarf across it and the lamp with the hand-painted shade, that in Gale's childhood, had been an especial treasure; the framed, enlarged photographs of her father and mother at the time of their marriage and the tinted landscape with the far too pink roses and far too blue sky. They must be hideous, all of them, to this girl in the expensive fur coat and flippant little hat—Vicky Thatcher who flew about the countryside in her big green roadster, who made frequent trips to New York and Miami and Havana. Gale hadn't thought the room hideous before. She'd loved it because it was familiar and because it was home. She hadn't realized how it would look to a stranger.

Suddenly, she remembered herself and said, "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you." Vickey dropped to the chair that was nearest, sat forward and gathered her coat about her. Gale noticed the gesture, ever so slight and yet completely aloof. There was a subtle perfume in the room when Vicky moved, a perfume that was spicy and exotic and rather heady.

Gale had seen Vicky many times but never so close at hand. She was, Gale decided, as beautiful as the girls at the mill had said. Or, if not, Vicky had something that was fully as useful as beauty. Her manner of complete assurance seemed to imply that anything she wanted would be done for her. Probably it was.

Vicky turned to the young man and said, "Cigaret, Brian."

He rose and held out the open case. He offered it to Gale, too, but she declined. A moment later he flicked a lighter and held the blaze for Vicky.

Brian said, "Well, better tell Gale what you've come for—"

The dark eyes with their unbelievably long fringes rose to his. "Please, Brian," Vicky said, "you put everything so much better than I do. You explain it."

Brian sat down, looking completely at ease. He said, "It's like this, Gale. Vicky's got an idea I think's a good one. She wants to get acquainted with some of the people who work in the mill. She thought there might be things she could do for them—going to see them when they're sick, visiting with the old people, and telling stories to the children. She wants to be really helpful, you understand. What do you think of it?"

Gale's voice was very low. She said, "It's very kind of Miss Thatcher—"

Brian moved one hand disparagingly. "That's not the idea," he said. "She doesn't want to go at this as though it were charity. It isn't. She's got time on her hands and wants to find a way to use it to help someone else. She's just—well, trying to help out. I think myself it's a fine thing. We came to you because I couldn't think of anyone better to take her around and introduce her. Will you do that?"

Gale hesitated. She had remembered that afternoon in Brian's office when Vicky had opened the door and seen her weeping. Did Vicky remember? Had she recognized her? And what possible construction had she put on the situation? The thought made Gale uncomfortable, just as the sight of Vicky in her furs and her audacious hat, sitting in that shabby room with her knees crossed and swinging one French-heeled foot made her uncomfortable.

But Brian was waiting for her to say something.

"I'll be glad to do anything I can," Gale said. She studied the other girl. Vicky didn't look to Gale like anyone who could be very helpful in the mill village. She couldn't imagine her bathing the Dinwiddies' baby or sitting beside Grandpa Higgins, whose fondness for chewing tobacco was always evidenced by the spots on his shirt. Vicky didn't even look like a person who wanted to be helpful. Why had Brian done this?

Gale thought, all at once, that she understood. This was his way of bridging his world and hers. He had thought that if she and Vicky Thatcher were friends the rest would be simple. That was what Brian had said: "I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends."

Oh, but that made all the difference in the world! Suddenly, Gale smiled. She said, "Everyone knows everyone else here. We're all neighbors. I'll take you anywhere you like. When shall we go? Of course, I'm at the mill most of the day—"

Vicky was not looking at her, did not seem to be listening. She said, "Oh, Brian—I must have left my purse in your car!"

"I'll get it," he said, on his feet. "Be back in a moment."

Vicky watched the door close behind him. She lifted her head slightly, smiled a sulky smile. "Brian's sweet, isn't he?" she said.

Vicky nodded. "Everyone thinks so," she agreed. "And so good-looking, too. I don't suppose I should tell you—but I'm going to. It's supposed to be an absolute secret, and you must promise not to tell!"

She hesitated. Gale sat watching her. She didn't know what it was that had happened but, suddenly she was afraid to move, afraid to breathe. There was something fearful in the air.

The other girl went on. "It's supposed to be a secret," she said again, "but I know you'll keep it for us. Brian and I are going to be married!"

Cold, cruel eyes watched the other girl. "I've even set the date of the wedding," Vicky went on, mercilessly. "That is, it's going to be in June some time. I think June weddings are much the nicest, don't you?"

Gale's lips moved but no words came. She tried again and said, "Oh—oh, yes."

"I don't suppose anyone will really be surprised about it," Vicky went on. "That is, our friends, I mean." There was the faintest perceptible accent on the "our." You see, it's really a boy and girl affair. Ever since we were children it's been taken for granted that this would happen some time. And the relatives—Brian's family and mine, are both so pleased."

Vicky stopped suddenly. "Why, for goodness sake," she exclaimed, "you're white as a sheet! Is there anything wrong? You look as though you'd had a shock—"

I'm quite all right," Gale said. The words sounded to her ears as though they came from a great way off. "I hope you'll be evry happy."

"Well, thank you." Vicky was smiling again. "And I'm sure we will be. Everyone says we're so well suited to each other. It's on account of Brian that I'm here tonight. He's so wrapped up in the mill and I want to be interested in whatever he is. I think a husband and wife—of course we aren't that now, but we're going to be—should share the same interests, don't you?"

Gale was spared from answering. The door opened and Brian reappeared. He said, "Sorry, Vicky, but I hunted all over the car and I could not find that purse. You're sure you had it with you—?"

Vicky nodded. "Yes," she said, "I remember—" and then stopped. "Oh, Brian," she went on, "I believe I did leave it at home. I remember laying it on my dressing table and then coming downstairs. I must have forgotten to go up for it again. I'm terribly sorry!"

"Doesn't matter, so long as you're sure it isn't lost. Well, have you two girls got everything settled? Made all your plans?"

"I'm afraid not," Vicky told him, smiling. "We've been so busy chattering and getting acquainted, I'm afraid we did forget to talk about anything else. She turned toward Gale. "But you're going to let me come again, aren't you?"

"Come whenever you want to," Gale told her. "Come any time."

"That's sweet of you!" Vicky got to her feet. "Don't you think we'd better be going on now?" she said to Brian.

"If you're ready."

"Then I'll say good night." Vicky pulled her coat together, put out one of her hands and took Gale's. She said, sweetly, "I think you've been awfully nice about everything and I'm sure we're going to be great friends!"

Gale's eyes avoided Brian. She said, "Good night" and heard the door close behind them. For an instant she stood, staring at the chair where Vicky had sat. There was a sound behind her and she turned. Brian stood in the doorway.

He said, "Gale, if I come back can I see you alone?"

"Please—" she said, "I wish you'd go away!"

"But Gale—?"

"Will you please go?"

She heard the door close for the second time.

Army Officer To Preach At West Monroe Church

Lieut. Herman L. Driskell, former pastor of Immanuel Baptist church in West Monroe, now one of the U. S. army officers in charge of TVA operations in connection with the construction of the Norris dam in Tennessee, is spending the week-end here and will preach morning and night at Immanuel church, West Monroe.

He said construction of the big dam is half completed and that it will be finished in another year, or one year ahead of scheduled time.

He resides in the new town of Norris, which has a population of 3,000 and is one of the most modern of any place of its size. The dam is located between two lofty mountains of the Big Smoky range, five miles from Cold Creek.

As yet the family of Lieutenant Driskell is in Monroe, but his wife and children may remove to Norris after the close of the present session of school.

Immanuel church has given a leave of absence to its pastor to enable him to pursue his duties in Tennessee.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

IT is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S. Tonic is waiting to help you . . . and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S. is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved . . . food is better utilized . . . and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone . . . if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food . . . sound sleep . . . steady nerves . . . a good complexion . . . and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 regular size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the uproad today.

BUILD HEALTH Surely With Our BREADS

95% of all bread fed to patients of 12 leading hospitals in New York City is white bread.

White bread is fed to patients because of its concentrated food value and easy digestibility, Miss Kobe, dietitian of the Broad Street Hospital, declared. The well balanced diet can be built around bread.

Bread is good for young and old. No one food, not even milk, can supply the body with all the materials needed for growth and vitality. But each of our chief foods . . . breads, milk, meat, poultry products, fresh fruit and vegetables . . . taken in suitable combinations, accomplish this result.

CITY BAKERY IS OLD FIRM HERE

The City bakery, 320 North Fourth street, enjoys the distinction of being the oldest establishment of its kind in northeast Louisiana, and is reputedly the oldest such establishment in north Louisiana. The local bakery was established in 1893, and is now competing the forty-second year of its business life.

Although old in years, the City bakery is equipped with the latest modern mechanical equipment, and uses the most modern scientific methods in the making of its products. The firm recently installed some new equipment, and members of the firm are ever on the alert for improvement of the standards of the baking industry by installing new and better equipment as it is made available, and by using new methods when they are scientifically tested and proved to be improvements over former methods.

During the past several years, following the location of the bakery in its competely new plant, its trade territory has expanded to include towns and communities within a radius of 150 miles of Monroe.

"Surprise" bread is the feature product of the City bakery. It is the effort of the bakery to "put all the goodness humanly possible into this bread." This bread, as well as other products of the bakery, is delivered fresh from the ovens twice daily to groceries.

The firm is well known, also, for its line of pies, cakes and pastries.

CHAPTER XXXII

Vicky smiled from beneath the insolently slanting hat brim. She said, "How do you do. May we come in?"

"Why—why, yes," Gale said. Her eyes once again sought Brian's, questioning, trying to hide the hurt that was in them. "Yes, do come in!"

She stepped back and they entered the house. Brian said, "Gale, this is Vicky Thatcher. Vicky—Gale Henderson. I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends. Vicky's come to ask a favor of you, Gale."

Vicky had turned and was surveying the room. Gale, watching her, suddenly saw it all with this stranger's eyes—the faded carpet, worn threadbare before the door and in front of the place where her father's big chair stood; the old-fashioned wall paper that should have been replaced long ago; the "golden oak" living room table with the hand-crocheted scarf across it and the lamp with the hand-painted shade, that in Gale's childhood, had been an especial treasure; the framed, enlarged photographs of her father and mother at the time of their marriage and the tinted landscape with the far too pink roses and far too blue sky. They must be hideous, all of them, to this girl in the expensive fur coat and flippant little hat—Vickey Thatcher who flew about the countryside in her big green roadster, who made frequent trips to New York and Miami and Havana. Gale hadn't thought the room hideous before. She'd loved it because it was familiar and because it was home. She hadn't realized how it would look to a stranger.

Suddenly, she remembered herself and said, "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you." Vickey dropped to the chair that was nearest, sat forward and gathered her coat about her. Gale noticed the gesture, ever so slight and yet completely aloof. There was a subtle perfume in the room when Vicky moved, a perfume that was spicy and exotic and rather heady.

Gale had seen Vicky many times but never so close at hand. She was, Gale decided, as beautiful as the girls at the mill had said. Or, if not, Vicky had something that was fully as useful as beauty. Her manner of complete assurance seemed to imply that anything she wanted would be done for her. Probably it was.

Vicky turned to the young man and said, "Cigaret, Brian."

He rose and held out the open case. He offered it to Gale, too, but she declined. A moment later he flicked a lighter and held the blaze for Vicky,

Brian said, "Well, better tell Gale what you've come for—"

The dark eyes with their unbelievably long fringes rose to his. "Please, Brian," Vicky said, "you put everything so much better than I do. You explain it."

Brian sat down, looking completely at ease. He said, "It's like this, Gale. Vicky's got an idea I think's a good one. She wants to get acquainted with some of the people who work in the mill. She thought there might be things she could do for them—going to see them when they're sick, visiting with the old people, and telling stories to the children. She wants to be really helpful, you understand. What do you think of it?"

Gale's voice was very low. She said, "It's very kind of Miss Thatcher—"

Brian moved one hand disparagingly. "That's not the idea," he said. "She doesn't want to go at this as though it were charity. It isn't. She's got time on her hands and wants to find a way to use it to help someone else. She's just—well, trying to help out. I think myself it's a fine thing. We came to you because I couldn't think of anyone better to take her around and introduce her. Will you do that?"

Gale hesitated. She had remembered that afternoon in Brian's office when Vicky had opened the door and seen her weeping. Did Vicky remember? Had she recognized her? And what possible construction had she put on the situation? The thought made Gale uncomfortable, just as the sight of Vicky in her furs and her audacious hat, sitting in that shabby room with her knees crossed and swinging one French-heeled foot made her uncomfortable.

But Brian was waiting for her to say something.

"I'll be glad to do anything I can," Gale said. She studied the other girl. Vicky didn't look to Gale like anyone who could be very helpful in the mill village. She couldn't imagine her bathing the Dinwiddies' baby or sitting beside Grandpa Higgins, whose fondness for chewing tobacco was always evidenced by the spots on his shirt. Vicky didn't even look like a person who wanted to be helpful. Why had Brian done this?

Gale thought, all at once, that she understood. This was his way of bridging his world and hers. He had thought that if she and Vicky Thatcher were friends the rest would be simple. That was what Brian had said: "I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends."

Oh, but that made all the difference in the world! Suddenly, Gale smiled. She said, "Everyone knows everyone else here. We're all neighbors. I'll take you anywhere you like. When shall we go? Of course, I'm at the mill most of the day—"

Vicky was not looking at her, did not seem to be listening. She said, "Oh, Brian—I must have left my purse in your car!"

"I'll get it," he said, on his feet. "Be back in a moment."

Vicky watched the door close behind him. She lifted her head slightly, smiled a sulky smile. "Brian's sweet, isn't he?" she said.

Vicky nodded. "Everyone thinks so," she agreed. "And so good-looking, too. I don't suppose I should tell you—but I'm going to. It's supposed to be an absolute secret, and you must promise not to tell!"

She hesitated. Gale sat watching her. She didn't know what it was that had happened but suddenly she was afraid to move, afraid to breathe. There was something fearful in the air.

The other girl went on. "It's supposed to be a secret," she said again, "but I know you'll keep it for us. Brian and I are going to be married!"

Cold, cruel eyes watched the other girl. "I've even set the date of the wedding," Vicky went on, mercilessly. "That is, it's going to be in June some time. I think June weddings are much the nicest, don't you?"

Gale's lips moved but no words came. She tried again and said, "Oh—oh, yes."

"I don't suppose anyone will really be surprised about it," Vicky went on. "That is, our friends, I mean." There was the faintest perceptible accent on the "our." You see, it's really a boy and girl affair. Ever since we were children it's been taken for granted that this would happen some time. And the relatives—Brian's family and mine, are both so pleased."

Vicky stopped suddenly. "Why, for goodness sake," she exclaimed, "you're white as a sheet! Is there anything wrong? You look as though you'd had a shock—"

I'm quite all right," Gale said. The words sounded to her ears as though they came from a great way off. "I hope you'll be evry happy."

"Well, thank you." Vicky was smiling again. "And I'm sure we will be. Everyone says we're so well suited to each other. It's on account of Brian that I'm here tonight. He's so wrapped up in the mill and I want to be interested in whatever he is. I think a husband and wife—of course we aren't that now, but we're going to be—should share the same interests, don't you?"

Gale was spared from answering. The door opened and Brian reappeared. He said, "Sorry, Vicky, but I hunted all over the car and I could not find that purse. You're sure you had it with you—?"

Vicky nodded. "Yes," she said, "I remember—" and then stopped. "Oh, Brian," she went on, "I believe I did leave it at home. I remember laying it on my dressing table and then coming downstairs. I must have forgotten to go up for it again. I'm terribly sorry!"

"Doesn't matter, so long as you're sure it isn't lost. Well, have you two girls got everything settled? Made all your plans?"

"I'm afraid not," Vicky told him, smiling. "We've been so busy chattering and getting acquainted, I'm afraid we did forget to talk about anything else. She turned toward Gale. "But you're going to let me come again, aren't you?"

"Come whenever you want to," Gale told her. "Come any time."

"That's sweet of you!" Vicky got to her feet. "Don't you think we'd better be going on now?" she said to Brian.

"If you're ready."

"Then I'll say good night." Vicky pulled her coat together, put out one of her hands and took Gale's. She said, sweetly, "I think you've been awfully nice about everything and I'm sure we're going to be great friends!"

Bread is good for young and old. No one food, not even milk, can supply the body with all the materials needed for growth and vitality. But each of our chief foods . . . breads, milk, meat, poultry products, fresh fruit and vegetables . . . taken in suitable combinations, accomplish this result.

White bread is rich in protein and carbohydrates which the body needs and it is so completely digestible that nearly all of these two important contents are assimilated.

ALLEN ARRESTED IN ASSAULT CASE

Mother Of Slain Woman Swears Warrant Against Dubach Man

HOMER, La., April 6.—(Special)—H. G. Allen, 40, of Dubach, was rearrested here Saturday afternoon and placed under $2,000 bond to appear before the court on May 6 on a charge of attempted criminal assault in connection with the death of Mrs. James Ferguson Best, the former Miss Roberta Williamson of Magnolia, Ark., whose body was found on the Homer-Minden highway about 10 days ago. A warrant on this charge was sworn out against Allen Saturday morning by Mrs. Sallie Williamson, mother of the young woman.

Four charges bearing on the death of Mrs. Best were investigated by the grand jury, which adjourned Friday. Bobby Nattin, 20, of Homer was indicted for murder and attempted assault. A "no-bill" was returned for Allen on a charge of murder, but the charge of attempted criminal assault against him was held over for investigation. Allen was released after the grand jury had reported, but was rearrested on the warrant sworn out by Mrs. Williamson.

Mrs. Best was hitch-hiking from her home in Arkansas to Longview, Texas, for the purpose of attempting to get her husband out of jail, when her death on the highway occurred. It was at first thought she had been the victim of a traffic accident.

The O. E. S. chapter No. 145 entertained the Masons with a banquet at the Masonic lodge Tuesday evening, with approximately 75 in attendance. This included representatives from Ruston, Minden, Bernice, Arcadia, Cotton Valley, Lisbon, Haynesville and Athens.

Philip Lieber, grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge, made his official visit at this time and spoke on the benefit of the lodge. Other guest speakers were J. H. Rowland, past grand master, of Shreveport, Howard Weston, grand senior deacon of the grand lodge, Shreveport, and W. Parish, state grand lecture, of Shreveport.

Winner Of Oratorical Contest Returns Home

ARCADIA, La., April 6.—(Special)—Miss Lurlein Aycock, junior in the Arcadia high school, has just returned from the state meeting of the W. M. S. in New Orleans where she won first place in the oratorical contest sponsored by the society.

Miss Aycock's declamation subject was, "The Lord's Tithe."

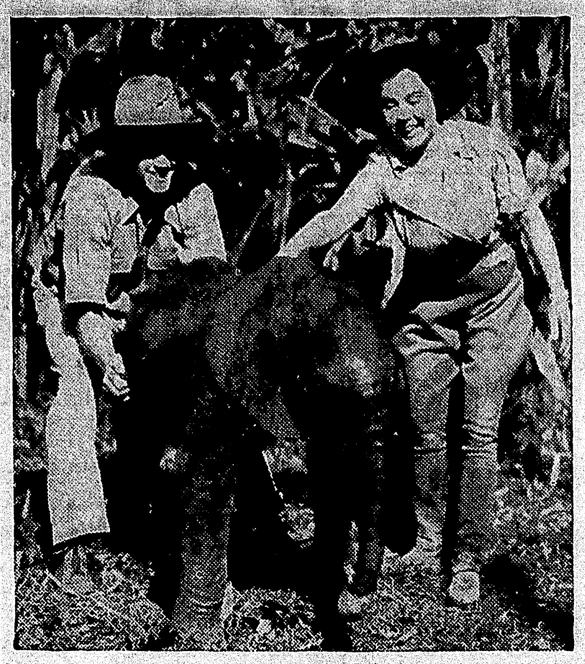
She recently won the fourth congressional district declamation contest held in Minden. She entered the New Orleans contest against the winners in the other seven congressional districts. She was trained for the contest by Mrs. E. R. Hester, wife of the high school principal of Arcadia.

Bishop Desmond To Speak In Ferriday Church Today

FERRIDAY, La., April 6.—(Special)—Most Reverend Bishop Daniel F. Desmond, of the diocese of Alexandria, will be here Sunday to confirm a class at the newly erected St. Patrick's Catholic church and to pay his first official visit to the new house of worship.

Members of the local congregation are planning an entertainment following the services in his honor, and a large crowd is expected to hear his talk at the church Sunday morning.

GUARDIANS OF YOUTH



Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson have their pictures taken with a young protege of the jungle. The scene occurs in the newest film spectacle photographed by these two adventurers in the savage heart of the untouched African jungle. The title of the picture is "Baboona" now playing at the Capitol theater. Sixty thousand miles were traveled by airplane to bring new thrills and scenes never before photographed.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—It has been two years in the making, but if advance reports prove true the First National picture "Gold Diggers of 1935," which plays at the Paramount Theater today, was well worth waiting for.

First National, always famed for magnificent musical sepctacles, has outdone itself in this picture, which marks the advent of Busby Berkeley as the director of a complete production.

Berkeley, it is claimed, has taken a funny, clever story, gathered together a cast of film facorites that includes ten of Warner Bros.' outstanding stars, and, with the assistance of more than 300 of the prettiest dancing girls in Hollywood, has assembled the whole into a tuneful comedy in which his talent for spectacular screen innovations has been given full sway.

The director was the musical comedy genius responsible for the spectacles in "42nd Street," "Wonder Bar," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Footlight Parade" and other musicals.

In "Gold Diggers of 1935" he is said t ohave created the most gorgeous and unique dance numbers of his career. There are three outstanding secialties including a dance in which 90 snow white grand pianos actually cavort on the stage. The dance team of Ramon and Rosita is also featured.

In the cast are Dick Powell, Adolphe Menjou, Gloria Stuart, Alice Brady, Glenda Farrell, Frank McHugh, Hugh Herbert Joseph Cawthorn, Grant Mitchell, Dorothy Dare and Winifred Shaw.

The story is by Robert Lord and Peter Milne. It is a catchy romance with a fashionable summer hotel as the setting. A wealthy widow, who is essentially penurious, is the target of the gold digging propensities of a trio of schemers enacted by Menjou, Cawthorn and Mitchell. The widow, which is the funniest role ever assayed by Alice Brady, has two children. She is trying to marry off her daughter, Gloria Stuart, to Hugh Herbert, also a millionaire, but who is more interested in writing articles on snuff than love. Her son, Frank McHugh, four times married and divorced, falls for the hotel hostess, and the daughter falls in love with the room clerk in the person of Dick Powell.

AT THE CAPITOL—One of the most sensational adventure films of all time is promised for the Capitol theater when the newest production of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, "Baboona," plays today only.

"Baboona," it is said, outdistances anything the Johnsons have yet brought back from unexplored and savage lands, not only for authenticity and graphic detail but for sheer suspense and excitement.

This time the intrepid pair of explorers have made safari in Africa by air. Subtitling their feature "an aerial epic over Africa," they have created it from the labors of two years—during which time they traveled some 60,000 miles by air above jungle and plain, above unknown waters and mysterious mountains. According to those who have witnessed "Baboona" in preview showings, it furnishes one of the world's most extraordinary records of the conquest of the unconquerable.

The jungle has baffled the Johnsons before—as it has baffled many an adventurer; but this time they flew in! Where others had halted, they plunged on—and from the air they entered the forbidden kingdom of claw and fang.

Among the amazing sights promised in "Baboona" are a savage duel between a marauding leopard and a wart hog, never before photographed; the wild stampede of a vast horde of elephants, thousands strong; war between armies of giant baboons and battalions of fierce monkeys—fighting to the death; the Johnsons' plane landing in a river infested with crocodile killers; the attack of roaring, fearless lions upon the cabin of a grounded plane and its human occupants. These and other thrilling and astonishing episodes have been, so far as is known, filmed for the first time in the history of the screen.

OBITUARY

MISS ROBERTINE MURPHY

Friends in Monroe were advised Saturday of the death in Strong, Ark., of Miss Robertine S. Murphy, for many years a resident of this city, where she held several positions as stenographer. Interment took place in Strong on Friday, the information stated.

She is survived by her parents, who live in Strong, and by several brothers and sisters.

Miss Murphy was for several years, assistant to Donald F. Walker, when he was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Later she went to the Interstate Natural Gas company and served as stenographer for seven years.

She had been in impaired health for several years and had undergone several operations in a Little Rock hospital. However, she was able to return to her duties and continued up to last February when she returned to Strong to be with her parents.

A BATTLE ROYAL

Land For Sub-Marginal Project Is Inspected

HOMER, La., April 6.—(Special)—Representatives from the federal government visited Claiborne parish this week on an inspection tour of the section of country east of Haynesville with the view of locating a sub-marginal project. Among those in the party were B. M. Gile, assistant regional director, of Fayetville, Ark., and W. W. Porter, project manager, of Minden.

It was announced that the representatives were favorably impressed with the possiblity of the project after viewing the land designated and after a meeting with the landowners of that vicinity at Summerfield.

GOLD RUSH IN ZULULAND

JOHANNESBURG—(AP)—Gold fever has infected Zululand. In the course of only a few days a rush has been made to peg claims at Nkandhla, Zululand.

Registration Activity In Franklin Quickens

WINNSBORO, La., April 6.—(Special)—Registration activity in Franklin parish has quickened in the last several days. The office of the registrar of voters, Miss Martha Pardue, is now well filled with applicants for registration during most of the day. Up until April 1, a total of 4,404 were registered from this parish.

The sheriff's office reports 4,180 poll taxes issued for 1934 and 3,370 for 1935. During the election of four years ago approximately 4,500 votes were cast from Franklin parish. Estimates of the probable vote in the coming election from this parish range from 6,500 to 7,000.

More BUILDING Necessary for Entire Nation!

HOME IS VITAL U. S. PROBLEM

Each American home serves as an instrumentality through which the family reaches its roots down deep into the soil of our national life and thus adds to its vigor and richness," Mr. Green asserted.

"Home and family life are the chief assets of the nation. In fact, the American home is the cornerstone of the Republic. In proportion as we create opportunities for home ownership and the elevation of family life to a higher, materialistic, cultural and artistic plan we create guaranties for the preservation and perpetuation of our free institutions. Democracy with all its implications will be permanently established on the American continent if we make America a land of home owners who are guaranteed an annual income sufficient to maintain life and living commensurate with the requirements of modern civilization and American life.

"The American Federation of Labor is endeavoring to achieve this purpose. Its fight for higher standard of living, annual wages, and annual incomes sufficient to maintain a breadwinner's family in decency and comfort is in the interest of American home owners, and, in the last analysis, in the interest of our national life and our free, democratic institutions.

Bathroom Trend Is Toward Utility, Comfort, Beauty

Utility combined with convenience comfort, and a touch of luxurious beauty is the theme of the modern trend in bathroom planning. The bathroom of today, the product of years of research and of the combined study of many experts, is recognized as one of the most important units of the home.

The modern bathroom should be comfortably large and at the same time sufficiently compact so that it does not occupy an unnecessary proportion of space.

Simplicity of design, combined with the most modern plumbing fixtures, are among its outstandng features, while its charm and cheerliness make it a joy.

Sanitation, however, is the first consideration. This calls for materials which are easily cleaned and equipment of the latest design and finest construction and workmanship.

In the bathroom which approaches the ideal, the wash basin is sufficiently spacious so that the water is not easily splashed or dripped on walls or floor. A large, attractive, well-appointed medicine cabinet with a mirror door is at a convenient height over the basin, with a modern electric-light fixture on each side.

Towel racks are fastened to the wall at either side, while receptacles for soap and toothbrushes are conveniently placed over it. A built-in closet with plenty of shelves for the storage of towels and other bathroom necessities is a great convenience.

The recessed bathtub, surmounted by a neat shower and protected by an attractive sliding, damp-proofed curtain, is convenient for a hot tub bath or a cool, brisk shower. The soap receptacle is just at the place where a groping hand can find it.

A large, luxurious wall mirror over the bathtub brightens up the bathroom tremendously and is a convenience for dressing. The window provides plenty of daylight and ventilation.

The toilet is beside one end of the bathtub and across the room from the wash basin. A scale for daily weighing is a handy accessory which can be placed wherever desired.

U. S. CHAMBER FAVORS NEW FHA MEASURE

The United States Chamber of Commerce, through its board of directors, has placed its endorsement on the proposal to extend the modernization program of the Federal Housing administration to include insured loans for commercial and industrial properties and for the re-equipment of industry.

The resolution adopted by the chamber had as follows:

"The board endorses in principle the extension of the present modernization program of the Federal Housing administration to include insured loans for commercial and industrial properties and the re-equipment of industry."

Bills are now pending before the seventy-fourth congress including the proposal to extend the present limits of modernization loans the housing administration may insure from $2,000 to $50,000. Other phases of the legislation would render more elastic provisions for the creation of national mortgage associations.

EXHAUST FAN

Summer heat and the usual kitchen odors are eliminated by the installation of an electric exhaust fan. This permanent improvement to the modern kitchen is readily financed through Federal Housing modernization credit.

Sunroom Comfort for Spring

The photograph suggests one of a number of possible arrangements for the sunroom—the gay, cool retreat for the family as the Winter blasts disappear. Thousands of American homes, not equipped with such a room may find it desirable during this Spring to make such an addition to the family comfort. There are an infinite variety of floorings, built-in arrangements, and colorful furniture designs that may be combined to make this room the most popular one in the home for the period between Winter and Fall. Healthful, sunlit, spacious, decorative, the sunroom has become an institution in modern homes of the country.

An open porch or an old screened-in or solidly glassed sun parlor may be converted into a beautiful and charming sunroom suitable for use throughout the entire year.

In such a room there should be a sufficiency rather than a surplus of windows. The windows should be ample in number and size to furnish all of the daylight and health-giving sun rays that may be desired or required for health.

Neat and beautifully tinted Venetian blinds are used to regulate the briliance of the sun rays, thereby affording comfort to the home owner when using the sun room. Provisions should be made for cross ventilation so that the owner will benefit by the cooling breezes in hot weather.

Cheerful, light-colored walls are in keeping with the architectural design and service requirements of such a room.

Limit Greenery

A limited amount of pottery, a small palm, trailing ivy suspended from wall brackets, and a few other plants suitable to the locality add a touch of spring and are all that are required for decoration.

The ideal sun room is well proportioned as to width and length and frequently, combines exquisite wicker furniture, so appropriate for summer, with a divan which is appropriate for comfort and relaxation throughout the year. Flooring should be of a type harmonizing with the furnishings. However, the home owner has an exceptionally wide choice of furnishings and flooring materials from which to choose in carrying out any harmonious scheme of interior decoration to make the sun room fit in with individual ideas, personal needs, desires, and comfort.

Corner, space in such a room is suitable for a neat, shallow closet. If desired, this space may be used for heating and air conditioning equipment or, on the other hand, the space beneath the windows may be used for such equipment in accordance with common practice. A cozy and charming fireplace may be used to supplement the heating system or, in localities where the climate is moderate, it may be the sole method of heating.

Many home owners, according to the Federal Housing administration, which is insuring credit advances for the modernization of existing homes as well as mortgages on newly constructed homes, have over looked the possibilities and opportunities offered by a sun room suitable for use the year round. It is an excellent place for bridge and cocktail parties and makes an exceptionally splendid overflow room when giving a reception or a tea. It is a place where children may play during any kind of weather, or a place where any member of the family may retire to read, sew, smoke, or relax in solitude and contentment. It enlarges the living quarters of the home and combines necessity, utility and luxury into a desirable home addition.

Insulation

The home owner, in converting little-used porch space into a charming sun room suitable for year-round use, or providing for such a room when building a new home, should usually install well-insulated floors and walls and weather-stripped windows. This is especially desirable when the sun room is built over an unexcavated space and when there is a large number of windows, so that there will be protection against the infiltration of cold and dampness.

SURVEY INDICATES RURAL PROGRESS

Comforts, Conveniences Are Added Farm Homes Under FHA

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Farm-building improvements continue to hold a strong place in the tabulation of modernization work done in conjunction with the Better Housing program under the National Housing act, with every indication that the coming of spring will see a big increase in operations in the rural sections.

Representatives of the Federal Housing administration visiting farming communities report that bankers are receiving more inquiries from farmers and that loan commitments for later use are increasing.

Home improvements are receiving as much attention as barns, outbuildings, and other equipment, and in most instances where farmers have availed themselves of the Modernization Credit plan all structures are given needed attention.

A survey of the work done on farm houses shows a surprisingly large number of water systems being installed, also heating plants and electricity for lighting and household appliances. Painting and roofing continue to lead the improvements.

Additions to and replacements of barns, stables, granaries, and similar equipment are being governed largely by the matter of business efficiency. New granaries, for instance, are being built not only to conserve high-priced feed but in many instances to stop losses by rats and other pests. A more diversified livestock program, especially the keeping of a few cows and breeding horses, has in some instances necessitated more stable room.

Costs Are Low

A striking feature of the farm-modernization work is the comparatively low cost. Credit obtained averages slightly less than $500. And since the nature of their business often requires them to be somewhat skilled mechanics, farmers, by doing the great bulk of their building themselves, are spending most of the money for building materials and equipment.

THREE FUNDAMENTALS

In planning home improvements it is wise to remember three details—comfort, good looks, and safety. Make a careful inspection of your home, inside and outside, and note down imperfections with these three considerations in mind.

Walk from room to room. Are walls defective? Are the kitchen and bath up-to-date? Is the house properly heated and ventilated? These items come under modernization-project classification that requires little expenditure.

HOUSING QUESTION BOX

Q.—Some of the sashes in my house stick. How can I repair them?

A.—Sash sticking may be due to settling of the house, improper fitting, swelling of the wood, or hardened paint. Foundations of the house and structural members should be checked and then repaired and strengthened if necessary to prevent settling. A drop of oil on the window pulleys makes them easier to operate. Also put some soap or apply hot paraffin with a brush to the window slides after removing all dirt and hardened paint. If they still stick, it may be necessary to remove the sash and plane off surplus wood. Care should be taken not to get them too loose, as this may result in the infiltration of cold air and the loss of heat through the cracks.

Q.—If I put a tin roof on one of my farm buildings, will I have to let it weather some time before painting it to make the paint stick?

A.—It is considered good practice to paint tin roofs promptly to prevent corrosion. It is important, however, that the tin be thoroughly clean and dry before paint is applied. Any resin left from soldering should be scraped off, and seams should be wiped clean with a solvent, such as gasoline or turpentine, to remove any grease. In fact, if the roof itself is greasy, it should be thoroughly washed with warm water and sal soda or washing powder. A good quality of paint is preferable for tin work. Comporatively thin coats brushed well over the surface are less likely to check and peel than thick coats.

Q.—What kinds of wood nail best without danger of splitting?

A.—The nail-holding ability of various kinds of wood depends as much on the size of the nail as the kind of wood. In general, woods that are hard hold nails best, but require the use of smaller nails to prevent them from splitting when the nails are driven through the wood. On the other hand, woods that are soft are less likely to split when the nails are driven through them, and for that reason larger nails, which have greater holding power than smaller nails, may be used.

Q.—In laying masonry units of cinder blocks containing hollow spaces, should I spread the mortar only on the inner and outer edges?

A.—When using the blocks for piers or other purposes where full-bearing strength is required the mortar should be spread on all bearing surfaces and in addition, where maximum strength is required, the hollow spaces should be filled with concrete. Otherwise, such as in ordinary home construction, it is considered good practice to spread it only on the top of the inside and outside edges of each block in order to prevent moisture going through the wall along mortar joints and to give a better air space in the wall. A central, vertical air space may be left at the ends of blocks where they adjoin each other.

A.—If the stain on the bothtub in question was caused by chemical attack of an extract from the rubber mat, resulting in solution of the outer surface of the enamel, we know of no satisfactory way of restoring it. The actual discoloration in this case might be largely removed by washing with a solution of 1 part of full-strength muriatic acid to 7 parts water. This is a drastic procedure, however, since this solution will attack the enamel and remove its gloss when applied to undamaged parts, and hence is not recommended. If used, it should be immediately followed with a solution of washing soda.

If the surface of the enamel has not been chemically attacked, the stain should be removed with one of the commercially available cleaning powders containing abrasive material, although this type of cleaner is not recommended for ordinary use.

Q—Can we use paper and glue for filling the cracks in the floors of our farmhouse, and would it be satisfactory?

A.—Cracks in floors, of course, can be filled by soaking paper and making it into a pulp and then mixing the pulp with a glue or other adhesive material. Very fine sawdust, wood flour, plaster of paris, or some other inert material may be used instead of the paper pulp. On the other hand, in addition to putty, which is commonly used, various plastic wood compounds for filling cracks and crevices may be obtained at practically any paint store. It is possible that you would find them much more satisfactory than endeavoring to make your own filler.

Q.—How can I prevent cracking paint on the radiators in my home? What is the best manner of repairing such unsightliness?

A.—If the paint is breaking through to the metal and then peeling off, it may be due to a large number of coats of paint having been applied at different times so that the paint film has become so thick as to lose its elasticity. On the other hand if it is merely the flat paint peeling off of the bronze it is probably due either to the use of the wrong kind of paint, or poor paint, or else the bronze paint was not properly cleaned and dried when the flat paint was applied.

It might be necessary to use a paint remover if several coats of old paint are on the radiator. If the trouble is only with the surface, it is probable that all that is necessary is to give the radiator surface a throuogh scrubbing with a wire brush.

Q.—I have a 5-by-12-inch round, vertical hot-water tank in the kitchen. Can I install it in the cellar, attaching it to the steam furnace in the winter and to the kitchen range in the summer?

A.—Since the kitchen is undoubtedly on the first floor above the cellar, it is doubtful if you could satisfactorily heat the water for a tank in the cellar by the kitchen range unless you installed equipment for forcing the hot water from the range to the basement. The natural tendency for hot water is to rise rather than to descend. In placing the hot-water tank in the basement, it is usually considered good practice to use a separate heating unit for it in which the heat is supplied by coal, gas, oil, electricity, or other fuel.

NOW IS THE TIME TO REPAIR SCREENS

With the advent of spring weather, flies, mosquitoes, and other insects will resume their annual household campaigns, unless protective measures are soon taken.

Screens for sun porches, windows, doors, and other openings should be taken out of storage and gotten into proper condition for prompt installation just as soon as they are needed. Seldom a season passes but that one or more of the screen frames in the average home becomes seriously damaged. New parts or frames must be obtained. Likewise, the meshing is often damaged, punctured, or wears out, and requires replacing.

After the screens are repaired, they should be thoroughly cleaned by dusting or washing. When thoroughly dry they may then be given a coat of paint, lacquer, varnish, or other paint material for protection during the coming season.

Practically all kinds of meshes require protection, some to prevent deterioration, others for the purpose of preventing staining of woodwork or masonry from water which becomes discolored when it washes over the screen.

Either a transparent or opaque finish may be used for the protective coating. Lacquer or varnish, clear or stained, may be used as a transparent coating. Paints or enamels give opaque finishes.

When a screen coating is desired that will insure privacy, then light-colored enamels are better than dark coatings, because they do not interfere with the vision of a person inside of a house looking out. White, light blue, yellow, gray, or, in fact practically any tint that harmonizes with the exterior color scheme of the house is suitable.

Funds for spring conditioning of screens and other sections of homes are available on easy and convenient terms under the Modernization Credit plan of the Federal Housing administration.

MAGAZINE EDITORS AID FARM REPAIRS

Due to the widespread interest on the part of farm magazine editors in the progress of the Federal Housing administration program fostering the repairing, rebuilding, and altering of farm homes, barns, and other buildings and equipment, a new division devoted solely to gathering the news and data of the work now taking place in rural communities has been established.

Reports from farming communities indicate unusual building activities; work which has been unavoidably neglected for the past 5 years is being done as rapidly as possible.

Improved farm income and the credit made possible under the provisions of the Federal Housing administration are responsible for farmers repairing, altering and rebuilding. Farm women, too, are showing unusual interest in improvements; trips into farming districts indicate the extent of feminine influence, particularly in pointing, decorating and the installation of electricity, heating, and water systems.

More BUILDING Necessary for Entire Nation!

HOME IS VITAL U. S. PROBLEM

"Each American home serves as an instrumentality through which the family reaches its roots down deep into the soil of our national life and thus adds to its vigor and richness," Mr. Green asserted.

"Home and family life are the chief assets of the nation. In fact, the American home is the cornerstone of the Republic. In proportion as we create opportunities for home ownership and the elevation of family life to a higher, materialistic, cultural, and artistic plan we create guaranties for the preservation and perpetuation of our free institutions. Democracy with all its implications will be permanently established on the American continent if we make America a land of home owners who are guaranteed an annual income sufficient to maintain life and living commensurate with the requirements of modern civilization and American life.

"The American Federation of Labor is endeavoring to achieve this purpose. Its fight for higher standards of living, annual wages, and annual incomes sufficient to maintain a breadwinner's family in decency and comfort is in the interest of American home owners, and, in the last analysis, in the interest of our national life and our free, democratic institutions.

Bathroom Trend Is Toward Utility, Comfort, Beauty

Utility combined with convenience comfort, and a touch of luxurious beauty is the theme of the modern trend in bathroom planning. The bathroom of today, the product of years of research and of the combined study of many experts, is recognized as one of the most important units of the home.

The modern bathroom should be comfortably large and at the same time sufficiently compact so that it does not occupy an unnecessary proportion of space.

Simplicity of design, combined with the most modern plumbing fixtures, are among its outstandng features, while its charm and cheeriness make it a joy.

Sanitation, however, is the first consideration. This calls for materials which are easily cleaned and equipment of the latest design and finest construction and workmanship.

In the bathroom which approaches the ideal, the wash basin is sufficiently spacious so that the water is not easily splashed or dripped on walls or floor. A large, attractive, well-appointed medicine cabinet with a mirror door is at a convenient height over the basin, with a modern electric-light fixture on each side.

Towel racks are fastened to the wall at either side, while receptacles for soap and toothbrushes are conveniently placed over it. A built-in closet with plenty of shelves for the storage of towels and other bathroom necessities is a great convenience.

The recessed bathtub, surmounted by a neat shower and protected by an attractive sliding, damp-proofed curtain, is convenient for a hot tub bath or a cool, brisk shower. The soap receptacle is just at the place where a groping hand can find it.

A large, luxurious wall mirror over the bathtub brightens up the bathroom tremendously and is a convenience for dressing. The window provides plenty of daylight and ventilation.

The toilet is beside one end of the bathtub and across the room from the wash basin. A scale for daily weighing is a handy accessory which can be placed wherever desired.

NOW IS THE TIME TO REPAIR SCREENS

With the advent of spring weather, flies, mosquitoes, and other insects will resume their annual household campaigns, unless protective measures are soon taken.

After the screens are repaired, they should be thoroughly cleaned by dusting or washing. When thoroughly dry they may then be given a coat of paint, lacquer, varnish, or other paint material for protection during the coming season.

Practically all kinds of meshes require protection, some to prevent deterioration, others for the purpose of preventing staining of woodwork or masonry from water which becomes discolored when it washes over the screen.

Either a transparent or opaque finish may be used for the protective coating. Lacquer or varnish, clear or stained, may be used as a transparent coating. Paints or enamels give opaque finishes.

When a screen coating is desired that will insure privacy, then light-colored enamels are better than dark coatings, because they do not interfere with the vision of a person inside of a house looking out. White, light blue, yellow, gray, or, in fact practically any tint that harmonizes with the exterior color scheme of the house is suitable.

Funds for spring conditioning of screens and other portions of homes are available on easy and convenient terms under the Modernization Credit plan of the Federal Housing administration.

MAGAZINE EDITORS AID FARM REPAIRS

Due to the widespread interest on the part of farm magazine editors in the progress of the Federal Housing administration program fostering the repairing, rebuilding, and altering of farm homes, barns, and other buildings and equipment, a new division devoted solely to gathering the news and data of the work now taking place in rural communities has been established.

Reports from farming communities indicate unusual building activities; work which has been unavoidably neglected for the past 5 years is being done as rapidly as possible.

Improved farm income and the credit made possible under the provisions of the Federal Housing administration are responsible for farmers repairing, altering and rebuilding. Farm women, too, are showing unusual interest in improvements; trips into farming districts indicate the extent of feminine influence, particularly in pointing, decorating and the installation of electricity, heating, and water systems.

ONLY THE RICH CAN AFFORD "CHEAP" PAINT!

If you want your paint dollars to do the utmost work, use Lowe Brothers High Standard House Paint. You're throwing money away if you do the job with a paint that will not give you unsurpassed results, because that's what Lowe Brothers High Standard will do. Ask any painter or home owner who has used it. They will tell you we are right about its being a real money saver.

You save in other ways too. High Standard goes on easier and faster than "cheap" paint and that cuts down the painters' time. It goes further and that means fewer gallons for the job.

Come in and let's talk paint economy. We can save you money. And of course we have expert information for you on color schemes.

ASH MACHINES IN HOUSING PLAN

Order Allows Modernization Loans For Laundering Equipment

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Washing machines are now eligible as permanent improvements under terms of the Modernization Credit plan of the Federal Housing administration, with the proviso that they "are permanently attached to the wiring system in the same manner as electric refrigerators or similar equipment," according to a recent announcement.

Lessees of property are also given new credit privileges for the purpose of purchasing oil burners and mechanical refrigerators, according to another new ruling.

While the ruling makes washing machines eligible under the conditions mentioned, the housing administration points out that a finance agency may make credit available for any purpose within the regulations and rulings, or it may determine to exclude any item ruled as eligible by the administration if, in its discretion, it is wise to do so.

New privileges are given lessees of property in a statement of policy on what may be financed under its Modernization Credit plan made in a new booklet, "Modernization Credit," just issued by the administration.

New Privilege

Previously, the lessee of a property had not been permitted to use the Modernization Credit plan to finance the purchase of oil burners, mechanical refrigerators, and similar equipment which may be permanently attached to the wiring or piping system but not actually built in. The owner of the property, however, was permitted to finance the purchases of such equipment. In the booklet the privileges of the lessee are stated as follows:

"If the lease requires the lessee to make repairs only, then the proceeds of the loan must be used only for repairs.

"If the lease requires the lessee to make both alterations and repairs, then practically everything that could be done structurally to the existing building itself is eligible.

"If the lease requires the lessee to make specific improvements, then an insured loan covering eligible equipment included in such improvements may be made to such obligated lessee."

It is still required that the termination date of the lease be 6 months after final repayment of the funds advanced.

General Rules

Two general provisions are given concerning the eligibility of equipment which may be financed under the Modernization Credit plan:

1. "It must be permanently attached to the structure itself, or to the permanent wiring, water, gas, or sewerage system. Farm equipment may be so attached or it may be permanently attached to the land itself, in the same sense that a building is attached to the land."

2. "It must be necessary to make the structure a complete dwelling unit; or in the case of commercial, industrial, or special-purpose properties, it must be necessary to make the structure fit the purpose for which it is used; or in the case of farm property, it must be a necessary improvement to, or erection of, a structure which forms a part of the property itself and improves the use and value of the same as a farmstead."

Movables Not Eligible

Movable equipment cannot be financed in this manner, the booklet points out. These "movables" include any equipment attached only to the electric wiring system by the usual push-pull plug, or to the gas system by any but permanent connections. They also include all other readily detachable and portable items.

"Actual construction of dwellings could not ordinarily be done under the limitations of the Medernization Credit plan," the booklet states, "and credit made available under the modernization phase of the National Housing act is not a substitute for home-mortgage loans insurable under the Mutual Mortgage Insurance plan of the act. However, there may be cases where it is desired to erect, for example, summer cottages or similar structures not intended for permanent residence. In such cases, Modernization Credit may be used."

USE FOR UNUSED DOORWAY FOUND TO BE PRACTICAL

Wherever economy of space and decoration may be combined to produce attractive and useful effect, the modern modernizer realizes much on small investment.

In almost every home there is at least one part of the house where space is going to waste. A good example is the unused door found in numbers of homes.

In one instance the door space was turned into a series of closets and shelves with a drop leaf for a desk, ideally suited to the boy's room. The same basic idea may be used in planning a "tuckaway" dressing table or for a series of book shelves with a closet at the bottom.

An ordinary door may be sawed off, hinged to produce a very attractive and useful bit of "efficiency" furniture for a room. In small dwellings such an addition would be found particularly desirable.

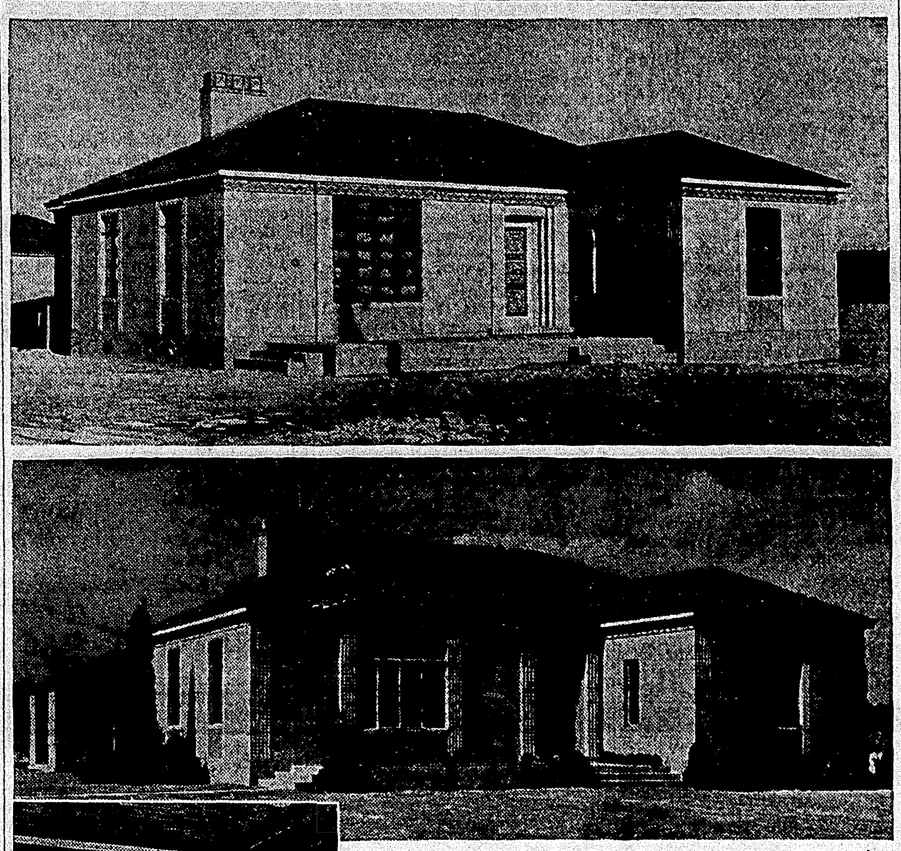
Landscaping Improves Modern Home



The above unretouched photographs serve two purposes. They reveal an example of concrete slab construction and also show what marked improvement can result from carefully planned landscaping. Permanent landscaping can be financed under provisions of the Modernization Credit Plan of the National Housing Act. The house is the work of Washington, D. C., architect and contractors. Built of concrete panels, the home has just been completed. Simplicity and beauty of texture is obtained from the use of this building material.

The top photograph shows the house before landscaping. By the artistic addition of balanced dwarf trees and shrubs and a smooth expanse of lawn, the entire home takes on new character and atmosphere. At lower left is shown details of tile doorway. Scores of American homes may achieve new beauty and charm through a landscaping project financed under the National Housing Act.

BUY TREATED WOOD IN EXACT LENGTHS

When preservatively treated lumber for building use is being ordered, it usually is advisable to have it milled and worked to the exact dimensions and shape in which it will be installed before the preservative is applied.

This is a wise precaution because the term "preservatively treated lumber covers a wide variety of treatment methods, some of which may be inadequate for the purpose.

Brush treating lumber with a preservative only insures minor penetration, according to lumber authorities. In the dipping and soaking methods the penetration depends upon a number of factors and varies from a mere surface "penetration" to half an inch or more.

The better the quality of the preservative and the deeper the penetration, the better the preservation of the wood from the deteriorating effect of wood-destroying fungi.

Ordering treated lumber in exact dimensions and shape in which it will be installed eliminates the possibility of exposing untreated portions of the wood due to trimming, boring, tetoning, cross-cutting, or otherwise working the wood to final specifications.

When treated lumber is cut or planed or otherwise worked, so that the untreated wood is exposed, give the exposed parts one or more brush treatments with an adequate preservative, "flowing" the preservative on so freely that as much of it as possible will penetrate into the wood.

EXTRA BATH

The added convenience of an extra bathroom is appreciated in many large families. A large closet may readily be converted into a compact shower room by the use of waterproof siding, a vertical or oblique shower and a water resisting floor with drain.

REPAIRS BOOST RENT

A headquarters staff field representative of the Federal Housing administration tells of a Washington, D. C., dentist who renovized an old house inside and out and increased rental from $50 to $125 per month.

Built-In Ironing Board Boon To Modern Homes

Built-in ironing boards are among the most convenient aids to the housekeeper. New apartments and houses include them as part of the regular equipment, but they are readily installed at little expense and trouble and can easily be added to any suitable room in the house.

The board is ready at a moment's notice, and as soon as the ironing or pressing is completed, returns, "by a simple twist of the wrist," to its proper place in the wall. A special outlet for the iron is placed in the receptacle containing the board, while a bracket to hold the cord from interfering with use of the iron is added. The whole outfit occupies so little space and is so well hidden that it might easily be "the secret panel" of the mystery story.

While the logical place for the built-in board is in the kitchen, the housekeeper's workshop, it is sometimes inconvenient to place it there. It might be installed on the back of the linen closet door, or in a bedroom or bathroom, or on an enclosed porch.

Where there are children an extra ironing board and electric iron are often useful. Little wardrobes must be kept fresh. Sometimes the garments that look wrinkled and mussy need the ironing board, not the laundry tub, and thus the convenient built-in board, ever ready with its accompanying iron, cuts down laundry expense and labor.

Every woman loves dainty things, freshly laundered, especially in the summer. It takes but a few moments to rinse out collars and cuffs, lingerie, hose, and dresses. Wrapping them in a bath towel hastens drying. Then the ironing board is adjusted, the current turned on, and—with very little time and labor, a fresh wardrobe is available.

The men in the family, too, have realized the opportunities afforded by this home convenience and have not been slow to take advantage of them. They have found that a damp cloth, a hot iron, and a board that practically takes care of itself—instead of the old wobbly make-shift propped on two chairs—combined with slight personal effort, are most efficient helps to a good appearance.

HOUSING GROUPS HOLD MEETINGS

Progress Is Reported In Educational Program Throughout Nation

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Encouraging responses from Better Housing committees and from leaders of industry have been received by the industries division of the Federal Housing administration from the first group of a nation-wide series of key city educational meetings which are being held for the purpose of coordinating the efforts of local and sectional industries with the Better Housing program. Practically, the meetings are schools to stimulate "point of sale" action among dealers and distributors.

Meetings have been completed in 12 southern cities and are now in progress in 12 cities in the middle states area extending from Delaware to Wisconsin. The third series will be held next week in northern and northwestern cities. Dates for cities in the mountain and Pacific sections are expected to be determined in the immediate future.

8,000 Attend

More than 8,000 men attended the 12 meetings in the southern group, according to reports to the industries division of the administration, which is directly supervising them. Admission was by invitation only, as the purpose of the entire series is to reach those directly interested in the mechanics promoting the Better Housing program—the men who do the work, in one form or another. In addition to Better Housing committee chairmen and bankers, they included architects, building contractors, gas and electric contractors, heating contractors, masons, plumbers, plasterers, roofers, structural steel men, sheet-metal workers, tile setters, dealers in all types of building materials and equipment, officials of the gas and electric utility companies and of the industrial companies.

South Active

Throughout the south local Better Housing committees are now actively engaged in arranging meetings similar to those held in the key cities. It is definitely planned to hold a meeting in each one of nearly 1,000 cities with population of 10,000 and more. In addition the industries division, the Federal Housing administration states, is ready to help any one of the more than 6,500 Better Housing committees arrange similar meetings in its own community.

A volunteer staff of around 1,000 speakers and instructors is being loaned to the Federal Housing administration by practically all of the leading organizations and companies in the industries, trades, and professions connected with building. The local meetings are arranged by the industries division in coperation with the regional, state, and district directors of the Federal Housing administration and the local Better Housing committees.

If closet lights are installed just over the door, the light shines in under the shelves, providing better visibility and eliminating unnecessary glare.

HOUSING HINTS

Build a Playroom

An easy way to keep the children at home, happy, content, and free from dangers incurred in playing in the streets, is to furnish them with a playroom all their own, where they can romp and play to their heart's content without disturbing other members of the family.

Wall Switch Important

The location of electric wall switches is a minor but important detail which often receives insufficient consideration in remodeling an existing structure or building a new home.

The location of the switch with reference to the habit of reaching for it in a dark room involves three important factors, namely, its distance from the trim, height from the floor, and the side of the door opening on which it is placed.

Insulate Attic

The torture of sleepless or restless summer nights may be minimized by insulating the attic of a home. Such improvement retards the heat of the sun and prevents its rays from penetrating and collecting under the roof. Insulation keeps a home noticeably cooler in the summer. During the winter it retards heat loss and the infiltration of cold.

Improve Exteriors

With the approach of spring, home owners are turning their thoughts to exterior improvements of their dwellings. Items in the average modernization project of low cost but exceptional result include fence repair or replacement, new porch steps, a porch canopy over the doorway for use in inclement weather, screened - in porches, trellises, garden furniture, window boxes, concrete driveways, etc.

Paint Promptly

When doing new construction work, it is advisable to paint, or otherwise finish, all exposed surfaces as promptly as possible after the material is installed and in proper condition for finishing. Otherwise, the material may become wet during a storm, thereby necessitating delay until the material is again dry. Rain or snow water, or even moisture condensation, makes it possible for dust and other foreign particles carried through the air to stick on the surfaces of the material. Unless this dirt is removed at an additional cost of time and labor before painting or finishing, it may stain, discolor, or mar the smoothness of the finish. A few materials, such as galvanized iron, hold paint best after weathering a short time.

Book Shelves

Books are frequently misplaced if adequate shelf space is not provided for them. Available space on each side of a fireplace provides a natural location for built-in book cases. Cost of such an installation is low, and adds materially to room atmosphere.

Maintenance Economy

One of the best ways of eliminating constant paint and maintenance costs on the outside walls of your home is to cover over the old surfaces with siding shingles that match your roof. Besides giving you double protection these shingles, finished in colors and designs that will last as long as your house, mean no more 3-year overhauls. The past decade has seen a great increase in the popularity of siding shingles, particularly those made out of a combination of asbestor fibers and cement. They come in types ranging from imitation hand-hewn colonial shingles that look as though they had been applied in the eighteenth century to cleverly designed imitation cedarwood patterns.

In choosing siding as well as roof shingles one should be careful to select a type that matches the setting as well as the architecture of the house.

Factory Care

Dark walls, ceilings, columns, posts and other interior portions of factories often are a contributory cause of accidents. Such is the case when they do not reflect available light to expose parts of machinery and other equipment with which employes may be working. A fresh coat of light-colored paint, calcimine, or other finishing material, is a profitable investment in reducing unnecessary factory accidents which entail medical bills, wage expenditures for lost time, and added insurance costs, as well as human suffering for which there is no measure.

Bonita

Mrs. J. P. McCleary and daughter, Mrs. Walter Baggett, have returned from New Orleans where Mrs. McCleary underwent a serious operation from which she is convalescing nicely.

Mesdames R. W. Hope, E. H. Williamson and T. J. Bradley and Charlie Hope spent Tuesday in Monroe.

Owen McCleary of Oak Grove spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McCleary.

Dr. Irma Scott Jones of Monroe was a professional visitor here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Tucker and Mrs. Alvin Allen were visiting in Monroe Monday.

Mrs. Jones Nezom is in Monroe with her infant daughter, Nancy, who is receiving medical treatment at St. Francis sanitarium.

SPRING IS IDEAL FOR REPAIR WORK

As the spring season approaches the Federal Housing administration has discovered renewed interest among home owners in the matter of exterior improvements and repairs, particularly decorative effects for gardens.

There are many methods of beautifying the grounds of the average dwelling. A white trellis or latticed archway, for example, may be utilized to divide the back doorway from the garden, automatically lending privacy and shade to the rear rooms of the house. A flower-bordered walk enhances the appearance of the yard.

Even in winter a white archway may be made attractive by training the dark green of the wichuraiana climbing rose on the trellis. The wichuraiana, or memorial rose, has dark almost evergreen foliage and white blossoms, followed by bright hips that remain all winter if not pruned.

The passing of the winter months make possible the laying out of brick walks, flagstones, and the planning of the many attractive garden arrangements that warmer weather allows.

WASH MACHINES IN HOUSING PLAN

Order Allows Modernization Loans For Laundering Equipment

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Washing machines are now eligible as permanent improvements under terms of the Modernization Credit plan of the Federal Housing administration, with the proviso that they "are permanently attached to the wiring system in the same manner as electric refrigerators or similar equipment," according to a recent announcement.

Lessees of property are also given new credit privileges for the purpose of purchasing oil burners and mechanical refrigerators, according to another new ruling.

While the ruling makes washing machines eligible under the conditions mentioned, the housing administration points out that a finance agency may make credit available for any purpose within the regulations and rulings, or it may determine to exclude any item ruled as eligible by the administration if, in its discretion, it is wise to do so.

New privileges are given lessees of property in a statement of policy on what may be financed under its Modernization Credit plan made in a new booklet, "Modernization Credit," just issued by the administration.

New Privilege

Previously, the lessee of a property had not been permitted to use the Modernization Credit plan to finance the purchase of oil burners, mechanical refrigerators, and similar equipment which may be permanently attached to the wiring or piping system but not actually built in. The owner of the property, however, was permitted to finance the purchases of such equipment. In the booklet the privileges of the lessee are stated as follows:

"If the lease requires the lessee to make repairs only, then the proceeds of the loan must be used only for repairs.

"If the lease requires the lessee to make specific improvements, then an insured loan covering eligible equipment included in such improvements may be made to such obligated lessee."

It is still required that the termination date of the lease be 6 months after final repayment of the funds advanced.

General Rules

Two general provisions are given concerning the eligibility of equipment which may be financed under the Modernization Credit plan:

1. "It must be permanently attached to the structure itself, or to the permanent wiring, water, gas, or sewerage system. Farm equipment may be so attached or it may be permanently attached to the land itself, in the same sense that a building is attached to the land."

2. "It must be necessary to make a structure a complete dwelling unit; or in the case of commercial, industrial, or special-purpose properties, it must be necessary to make the structure fit the purpose for which it is used; or in the case of farm property, it must be a necessary improvement to, or erection of, a structure which forms a part of the property itself and improves the use and value of the same as a farmstead."

Movables Not Eligible

Movable equipment cannot be financed in this manner, the booklet points out. These "movables" include any equipment attached only to the electric wiring system by the usual push-pull plug, or to the gas system by any but permanent connections. They also include all other strictly detachable and portable items.

"Actual construction of dwellings would not ordinarily be done under the limitations of the Medernization Credit plan," the booklet states, "and credit made available under the modernization phase of the National Housing act is not a substitute for home-mortgage loans insurable under the Mutual Mortgage Insurance plan of the act. However, there may be cases where it is desired to erect, for example, summer cottages or similar structures not intended for permanent residence. In such cases, Modernization Credit may be used."

More than 8,000 men attended the 12 meetings in the southern group, according to reports to the industries division of the administration, which is directly supervising them. Admission was by invitation only, as the purpose of the entire series is to reach those directly interested in the mechanics promoting the Better Housing program—the men who do the work, in one form or another. In addition to Better Housing committee chairmen and bankers, they included architects, building contractors, gas and electric contractors, heating contractors, masons, plumbers, plasterers, roofers, structural steel men, sheet-metal workers, tile setters, dealers in all types of building materials and equipment, officials of the gas and electric utility companies and of the industrial companies.

South Active

Throughout the south local Better Housing committees are now actively engaged in arranging meetings similar to those held in the key cities. It is definitely planned to hold a meeting in each one of nearly 1,000 cities with population of 10,000 and more. In addition the industries division, the Federal Housing administration states, is ready to help any one of the more than 6,500 Better Housing committees arrange similar meetings in its own community.

A volunteer staff of around 1,000 speakers and instructors is being loaned to the Federal Housing administration by practically all of the leading organizations and companies in the industries, trades, and professions connected with building. The local meetings are arranged by the industries division in coperation with the regional, state, and district directors of the Federal Housing administration and the local Better Housing committees.

HOUSING HINTS

Build a Playroom

An easy way to keep the children at home, happy, content, and free from dangers incurred in playing in the streets, is to furnish them with a playroom all their own, where they can romp and play to their heart's content without disturbing other members of the family.

Wall Switch Important

The location of electric wall switches is a minor but important detail which often receives insufficient consideration in remodeling an existing structure or building a new home.

The location of the switch with reference to the habit of reaching for it in a dark room involves three important factors, namely, its distance from the trim, height from the floor, and the side of the door opening on which it is placed.

Insulate Attic

The torture of sleepless or restless summer nights may be minimized by insulating the attic of a home. Such improvement retards the heat of the sun and prevents its rays from penetrating and collecting under the roof. Insulation keeps a home noticeably cooler in the summer. During the winter it retards heat loss and the infiltration of cold.

Improve Exteriors

With the approach of spring, home owners are turning their thoughts to exterior improvements of their dwellings. Items in the average modernization project of low cost but exceptional result include fence repair or replacement, new porch steps, a porch canopy over the doorway for use in inclement weather, screened-in porches, trellises, garden furniture, window boxes, concrete driveways, etc.

Paint Promptly

When doing new construction work, it is advisable to paint, or otherwise finish, all exposed surfaces as promptly as possible after the material is installed and in proper condition for finishing. Otherwise, the material may become wet during a storm, thereby necessitating delay until the material is again dry. Rain or snow water, or even moisture condensation, makes it possible for dust and other foreign particles carried through the air to stick on the surfaces of the material. Unless this dirt is removed at an additional cost of time and labor before painting or finishing, it may stain, discolor, or mar the smoothness of the finish. A few materials, such as galvanized iron, hold paint best after weathering a short time.

Book Shelves

Books are frequently misplaced if adequate shelf space is not provided for them. Available space on each side of a fireplace provides a natural location for built-in book cases. Cost of such an installation is low, and adds materially to room atmosphere.

Maintenance Economy

One of the best ways of eliminating constant paint and maintenance costs on the outside walls of your home is to cover over the old surfaces with siding shingles that match your roof. Besides giving you double protection these shingles, finished in colors and designs that will last as long as your house, mean no more 3-year overhauls. The past decade has seen a great increase in the popularity of siding shingles, particularly those made out of a combination of asbestor fibers and cement. They come in types ranging from imitation handhewn colonial shingles that look as though they had been applied in the eighteenth century to cleverly designed imitation cedarwood patterns.

In choosing siding as well as roof shingles one should be careful to select a type that matches the setting as well as the architecture of the house.

Factory Care

Dark walls, ceilings, columns, posts and other interior portions of factories often are a contributory cause of accidents. Such is the case when they do not reflect available light to expose parts of machinery and other equipment with which employes may be working. A fresh coat of light-colored paint, calcimine, or other finishing material, is a profitable investment in reducing unnecessary factory accidents which entail medical bills, wage expenditures for lost time, and added insurance costs, as well as human suffering for which there is no measure.

Mrs. J. P. McCleary and daughter, Mrs. Walter Baggett, have returned from New Orleans where Mrs. McCleary underwent a serious operation from which she is convalescing nicely.

Mesdames R. W. Hope, E. H. Williamson and T. J. Bradley and Charlie Hope spent Tuesday in Monroe.

Owen McCleary of Oak Grove spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McCleary.

Dr. Irma Scott Jones of Monroe was a professional visitor here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Tucker and Mrs. Alvin Allen were visiting in Monroe Monday.

Mrs. Jones Nesom is in Monroe with her infant daughter, Nancy, who is receiving medical treatment at St. Francis sanitarium.

SPRING IS IDEAL FOR REPAIR WORK

As the spring season approaches the Federal Housing administration has discovered renewed interest among home owners in the matter of exterior improvements and repairs, particularly decorative effects for gardens.

There are many methods of beautifying the grounds of the average dwelling. A white trellis or latticed archway, for example, may be utilized to divide the back doorway from the garden, automatically lending privacy and shade to the rear rooms of the house. A flower-bordered walk enhances the appearance of the yard.

Even in winter a white archway may be made attractive by training the dark green of the wichuraiana climbing rose on the trellis. The wichuraiana, or memorial rose, has dark almost evergreen foliage and white blossoms, followed by bright hips that remain all winter if not pruned.

The passing of the winter months makes possible the laying out of brick walks, flagstones, and the planning of the many attractive garden arrangements that warmer weather allows.

Like water off a duck's back!
J-M Roof Coatings make old roofs absolutely water-shedding
WATER runs off a roof treated with Johns-Manville Roof Coating like water off a duck's back. Even leaky composition or metal roofs may become absolutely water-shedding when treated with J-M Roof Coating. Not a drop of rain, sleet or melted snow can seep through!
When the roof has cracks or small holes, use J-M Fibrous Enamel. Its heavy asbestos fibre content bridges gaps and forms a protective membrane over the entire roof area. Regal Roof Coating, a similar material, but without the asbestos, can be used when the roof is in better condition.
All J-M Roof Coatings can be applied with a large brush. A simple treatment—yet it will make your old roof good for many more years. Full directions on every container.

other items of improvement will be added if it is found possible to get additional money for the work."

A number of the listed projects were included in a program submitted by the city of Monroe to the public works administration two years ago. Because of the restrictions laid down by the PWA, which required the city to raise a considerable proportion of the expense, the plans had to be abandoned. It is believed that under the new set-up under the federal work-relief bill, these restrictions will be removed. It is expected that fully $100,000,000 will be allocated to Louisiana for work projects such as those included in the Monroe program.

Mayor Bernstein in giving out the list of projects said that his first concern is for the protection of the health of the public through providing an adequate sanitary sewer system which will serve the whole community. Improvements and extension of school facilities is also a measure of vast importance, he pointed out, because of the constantly growing school population of the city. Provision for recreational facilities, the removal of the swimming pool with modern facilities to Forsythe park and the erection of an athletic field and stadium at Neville high school, besides a completely equipped gymnasium are among the important items. A new city hall to replace the present antiquated structure, is the largest single project in the list.

The need of an abattoir to provide for the conservation and distribution of meat products throughout the Monroe area is a project of vast importance to the people and will be another of the plans to be submitted under the new program.

A river terminal, to encourage the commercial use of the Ouachita and offer adequate facilities to shippers and local business interests, will be another important part of the program.

Mayor Bernstein expressed the hope that every element of the community will cooperate in the effort to bring about the needed improvements which are essential to the normal and continued progress of this city. "We will do our part," he said, "and we want to have the full cooperation of every citizen in a program that means so much to us all."

Monroe Man Tells Colorful Tale Of Customs In Africa

Making his second visit to Monroe during a residence of five years in Abijan, located in the French Ivory coast of Africa, Freneau B. Surguine, son of F. B. Surguine, Sr., and brother of Gordon Surguine, both of Monroe, relates an interesting story of the African country its natives, their modes of living and customs.

Mr. Surguine is assistant to the director of the Gruber Trading company's interests in Africa. The company is an American organization, with headquarters located at Louisville, Ky., and deals in automobiles, trucks, parts for the motor vehicles, and mahogany.

Abijan is a city of about 25,000 people, of which about 1,000 are white, the others being ebony black people, natives of a section from which slaves were brought to this country years ago. Most of the white people are French.

French is the language most widely used, French money is the medium of exchange, and the highest political and governmental office is that of lieutenant governor.

Abijan is located about ten miles from Port Bouett, the city's seaport on the South Atlantic ocean. This section of Africa is located on the "under side" of the vast area which juts out westward from the continent's greatest north and south dimension. Abijan is four degrees, or 250 miles north of the equator.

The climate is hot except during the rainy seasons.

Modern features of the city are paved streets in the principal sections, concrete business and residential structures, and electric lights. There is no municipal or public utility water system. Water is drawn from wells.

The natives live in circular, conical huts which are heavily thatched to keep out the rains. Only one door affords light and ventilation. The huts are fairly well aligned along streets within the city, but in the outlying sections they are scattered in nondescript fashion.

The native population go about barefooted the year 'round, only a few of them having shoes. The men wear clothing similar to that of Europeans, and the women wear flowing garments somewhat resembling the Greek toga.

White people wear light clothing, and the men wear helmets lined with cork or rubber. No neckties are worn by the leading business men or any other white residents during their working hours.

Life, in general, flows along smoothly and tranquilly in Abijan, the returned Monroe native related. There is no hurry and bustle, the heat counteracting such energetic movements.

A white person becomes accustomed to the temperature, and does not suffer from it. Every white person and many of the natives there customarily swallow five grains of quinine daily as a preventive against malaria.

The natives' diet consists principally of rice and fish. The white residents eat foods similar to that of Europeans. There is not a drop of fresh milk in the section. Only canned milk being available. Cows cannot live in the country because of the tsetse fly which causes sleeping sickness. No other livestock, excepting sheep and goats, live in the country, because these are the only animals which the fly will not molest in the area.

The country has a rolling, eternally green terrain, not without scenic beauty. The soil is black and sandy. Twenty-five miles inland, the dense jungle country begins, and extends over about 250 miles to a mountainous country.

A railroad runs 500 miles inland, taking products of civilization to the interior and bringing out mahogany, cocoa beans, coffee and kola nuts, the latter being one of the foods of the natives. The company Mr. Surguine represents fills orders of merchandise to points 1,200 miles from Abijan.

Within the city of Abijan, the natives pursue an easy life, some of them working for the shipping or trading companies, others being servants of the white people, but all having considerable leisure. The women perform most of the work within the scope of their own activities and household maintenance.

A native may have as many wives as he can support, or as many wives as support themselves and contribute to his support. Three wives is about the average for each native.

At an age which is considered a tender one in the white race, the native children ... adolescence and at the ages of 12 to 14 years are ready for marriage. When the girls are ready for wedlock, they dress their hair with cocoanut grease and, placing a half of a cocoanut shell upon their heads, they comb their hair up onto the shell, thus holding the shell in place and announcing to the native swains and the world that they are ready for marriage. Widows also follow this custom.

A wifeless man, or a man who desires to acquire an additional wife, goes to the family of the girl or woman whom he desires in marriage and barters for her hand. He carries with him, on his visit to the family, a bottle of gin as a present to the girl's father. If the suitor's application is accepted, he must pay for his bride. The price may be $14 or $15, or two head of sheep.

The marriage ceremony is a gala occasion, but is more appropriately termed a "party" than a ceremony. Relatives of the parties of the marriage contract, and guests, drink their fill of gin, and when everyone is inebriated to a point where further celebrating is wearisome, and lassitude takes the place of lively spirits, the celebrators begin drifting homeward to bed, and the groom takes the bride to her new abode. During the party, the bride has removed her coconut shell, and she does not wear one again unless she becomes a widow.

In their religions, a majority of the natives are Mohammedans. Quite a few of them worship idols and observe the ceremonies of Phallism. Many of them have fetishes. Some are Christians.

Generally, the natives are healthy specimens. They have perfect, gleaming white teeth, although few of them have ever seen a toothbrush or tooth paste.

In burying their dead, the natives have no vehicles in the funeral processions. Everyone walks, and the pallbearers carry the casket or box containing the body of the deceased person.

The natives are inveterate smokers of tobacco which, oddly, is shipped to the country from Louisville, Ky. The tobacco is in the leaf form and is smoked in pipes or rolled into cigarettes.

The white residents visit among themselves informally. The "apertif" hour is an occasion there which corresponds to the coffee hour or cocktail hour in Monroe. Tennis and bridge are popular.

Mr. Surguine, in his five years residence there, has learned to speak French fluently. He learned the language sufficiently within six months to perform his business duties without handicap and to understand the conversation and express himself verbally at social gatherings.

On his first visit to Monroe after assuming his position in Africa, Mr. Surguine, two years ago married the former Miss Floy Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Kennedy, of Monroe. The couple, in leaving Africa to visit Monroe at this time, made a sea voyage which lasted 25 days before their ship reached Boston, Mass. Before coming to Monroe from Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Surguine visited New York City, Washington, D. C., and Louisville, Ky. They will make a lengthy visit, and upon its completion will sail from this country June 7 to return to Abijan.

A STAMPING CORNER
By W. J. KIRBY

The DEATH MASK of SERBIA

Karageorge, or Black George, Serbia's liberator in 1804, was killed by order of Milosh Obrenovich, whose dynasty ended in 1903 with the murder of Alexander I and his consort. By this act, Karageorge's grandson, Peter I, ascended the throne, leaving desire for revenge in the heart of Alexander's mother, Dowager Queen Natalie.

The 1904 stamp shows the heads of Karageorge and Peter I. But turn it around and look closely at the area bounded by the dotted line. There the death mask of the slain King Alexander appears in all its grim detail.

San Marino, the world's smallest republic, is paying tribute to fascism with a set of seven stamps. The occasion is the 12th anniversary of the foundation of Fascism. San Marino is interested in fascism due to its close association to Italy, it being entirely surrounded by that country.

The stamps, 5c. to 1.25L, are bicolored, with black centers and borders of various colors. The design is a view of the capital city, San Marino. This country has an area of 38 square miles, and has been issuing stamps since 1877. Its independence dates from the Middle Ages, and was confirmed by the Pope in 1631.

The Twin City Stamp Club will hold an exhibition on May 9, with prizes for the exhibitors. Every member is urged to enter one or more frames. Competent judges will be secured. It is hoped that the exhibition may be made open to the public.

The Monroe Junior stamp club now has eighteen members, with the following officers: President, Junior McDougal; vice-president, Granville Davis, secretary-treasurer, Junior Lee. This club is sponsored by Miss Lucille Godwin, recreational director, and much interest is being manifested. The club is composed of students in the high school.

Three stamp clubs, each with about thirty-five members, have been organized at Lida Benton school. Teachers of the various rooms are sponsoring the clubs, and some interesting meetings are being held. Members of the Twin City Club, at their last meeting, pledged their assistance to the boys and girls of these clubs. Teachers and officers of the clubs should not hesitate to call on President Cunningham or the other officers for assistance.

A club has also been organized at the Okaloosa rural school, with about twenty interested members. Miss Margaret Smith of Monroe, a teacher in the school, is sponsoring the club.

The Twin City Stamp Club will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening, and a full attendance is requested. President Cunningham will have charge of the program. His subject has not been announced.

PAY FOR FLOOD LANDS IS SNAG

one and one-half times the assessed value of the land or more.

"We do believe the best plan is to have the land acquired by state or local agencies because it has been our experience that the work is more expeditious when you allow local levee boards to acquire the lands."

"That's for the acquisition of levee rights, but do you know whether or not the state of Arkansas or your state has the authority to acquire floodway rights of way?" McClellan asked.

"I am not certain whether they have the right in Louisiana to acquire floodway rights, but I will say this that in Louisiana the levee boards are second in power only to the public health department," Klorer said.

Harry Gilbert, state senator of Franklin parish, La., told the committee today he was "tickled to death" over the proposed compensation "and I think that represents the majority opinion of the people in my section, but I can't speak for those higher up in the floodway," he added.

Gilbert said that even if the government paid him for flowage rights over his land, he intended to continue to raise crops on it with the hope that it would not be flooded. He said he considered it generous of the government "to buy our land and then let us use it."

He added he did not believe the government should acquire title to the land unless it also assumed the bonded debt of the improved districts. Although the market value of the land will be destroyed, he said, many of the lands will still be able to contribute to payment of the bonds.

The natives live in circular, conical huts which are heavily thatched to keep out the rains. Only one door affords light and ventilation. The huts are fairly well aligned along streets within the city, but in the outlying sections they are scattered in nondescript fashion.

The native population go about barefooted the year 'round, only a few of them having shoes. The men wear clothing similar to that of Europeans, and the women wear flowing garments somewhat resembling the Greek toga.

White people wear light clothing, and the men wear helmets lined with cork or rubber. No neckties are worn by the leading business men or any other white residents during their working hours

Life, in general, flows along smoothly and tranquilly in Abijan, the returned Monroe native related. There is no hurry and bustle, the heat counteracting such energetic movements.

A white person becomes accustomed to the temperature, and does not suffer from it. Every white person and many of the natives there customarily swallow five grains of quinine daily as a preventive against malaria.

The natives' diet consists principally of rice and fish. The white residents eat foods similar to that of Europeans. There is not a drop of fresh milk in the section. Only canned milk being available. Cows cannot live in the country because of the tsetse fly which causes sleeping sickness. No other livestock, excepting sheep and goats, live in the country, because these are the only animals which the fly will not molest in the area.

The country has a rolling, eternally green terrain, not without scenic beauty. The soil is black and sandy. Twenty-five miles inland, the dense jungle country begins, and extends over about 250 miles to a mountainous country.

A railroad runs 500 miles inland, taking products of civilization to the interior and bringing out mahogany, cocoa beans, coffee and kola nuts, the latter being one of the foods of the natives. The company Mr. Surguine represents fills orders of merchandise to points 1,200 miles from Abijan.

Within the city of Abijan, the natives pursue an easy life, some of them working for the shipping or trading companies, others being servants of the white people, but all having considerable leisure. The women perform most of the work within the scope of their own activities and household maintenance.

A native may have as many wives as he can support, or as many wives as support themselves and contribute to his support. Three wives is about the average for each native.

At an age which is considered a tender one in the white race, the native children experience adolescence, and at the ages of 12 to 14 years are ready for marriage. When the girls are ready for wedlock, they dress their hair with cocoanut grease, and, placing a half of a cocoanut shell upon their heads, they comb their hair up onto the shell, thus holding the shell in place and announcing to the native swains and the world that they are ready for marriage. Widows also follow this custom.

A wifeless man, or a man who desires to acquire an additional wife, goes to the family of the girl or woman whom he desires in marriage and barters for her hand. He carries with him, on his visit to the family, a bottle of gin as a present to the girl's father. If the suitor's application is accepted, he must pay for his bride. The price may be $14 or $15, or two head of sheep.

The marriage ceremony is a gala occasion, but is more appropriately termed a "party" than a ceremony. Relatives of the parties of the marriage contract, and guests, drink their fill of gin, and when everyone is inebriated to a point where further celebrating is wearisome, and lassitude takes the place of lively spirits, the celebrators begin drifting homeward to bed, and the groom takes the bride to her new abode. During the party, the bride has removed her coconut shell, and she does not wear one again unless she becomes a widow

In their religions, a majority of the natives are Mohammedans. Quite a few of them worship idols and observe the ceremonies of Phallism. Many of them have fetishes. Some are Christians.

Generally, the natives are healthy specimens. They have perfect, gleaming white teeth, although few of them have ever seen a toothbrush or tooth paste.

In burying their dead, the natives have no vehicles in the funeral processions. Everyone walks, and the pallbearers carry the casket or box containing the body of the deceased person.

The natives are inveterate smokers of tobacco which, oddly, is shipped to the country from Louisville, Ky. The tobacco is in the leaf form and is smoked in pipes or rolled into cigarettes.

The white residents visit among themselves informally. The "aperitif" hour is an occasion there which corresponds to the coffee hour or cocktail hour in Monroe. Tennis and bridge are popular.

Mr. Surguine, in his five years residence there, has learned to speak French fluently. He learned the language sufficiently within six months to perform his business duties without handicap and to understand the conversation and express himself verbally at social gatherings.

On his first visit to Monroe after assuming his position in Africa, Mr. Surguine, two years ago married the former Miss Floy Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Kennedy, of Monroe.

The couple, in leaving Africa to visit Monroe at this time, made a sea voyage which lasted 25 days before their ship reached Boston, Mass. Before coming to Monroe from Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Surguine visited New York City, Washington, D. C., and Louisville, Ky. They will make a lengthy visit, and upon its completion will sail from this country June 7 to return to Abijan.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

The DEATH MASK of SERBIA

Karageorge, or Black George, Serbia's liberator in 1804, was killed by order of Milosh Obrenovich, whose dynasty ended in 1903 with the murder of Alexander I and his consort. By this act, Karageorge's grandson, Peter I, ascended the throne, leaving desire for revenge in the heart of Alexander's mother, Dowager Queen Natalie.

The 1904 stamp shows the heads of Karageorge and Peter I. But turn it around and look closely at the area bounded by the dotted line. There the death mask of the slain King Alexander appears in all its grim detail.

San Marino, the world's smallest republic, is paying tribute to fascism with a set of seven stamps. The occasion is the 12th anniversary of the foundation of Fascism. San Marino is interested in fascism due to its close association to Italy, it being entirely surrounded by that country.

The stamps, 5c. to 1.25L, are bicolored, with black centers and borders of various colors. The design is a view of the capital city, San Marino. This country has an area of 38 square miles, and has been issuing stamps since 1877. Its independence dates from the Middle Ages, and was confirmed by the Pope in 1631.

The Twin City Stamp Club will hold an exhibition on May 9, with prizes for the exhibitors. Every member is urged to enter one or more frames. Competent judges will be secured. It is hoped that the exhibition may be made open to the public.

The Monroe Junior stamp club now has eighteen members, with the following officers: President, Junior McDougal; vice-president, Granville Davis; secretary-treasurer, Junior Lee. This club is sponsored by Miss Lucille Godwin, recreational director, and much interest is being manifested. The club is composed of students in the high school.

Three stamp clubs, each with about thirty-five members, have been organized at Lida Benton school. Teachers of the various rooms are sponsoring the clubs, and some interesting meetings are being held. Members of the Twin City Club, at their last meeting, pledged their assistance to the boys and girls of these clubs. Teachers and officers of the clubs should not hesitate to call on President Cunningham or the other officers for assistance.

A club has also been organized at the Okaloosa rural school, with about twenty interested members. Miss Margaret Smith of Monroe, a teacher in the school, is sponsoring the club.

The Twin City Stamp Club will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening, and a full attendance is requested. President Cunningham will have charge of the program. His subject has not been announced.

PAY FOR FLOOD LANDS IS SNAG

one and one-half times the assessed value of the land or more.

"We do believe the best plan is to have the land acquired by state or local agencies because it has been our experience that the work is more expeditious when you allow local levee boards to acquire the lands."

"That's for the acquisition of levee rights, but do you know whether or not the state of Arkansas or your state has the authority to acquire floodway rights of way?" McClellan asked.

"I am not certain whether they have the right in Louisiana to acquire floodway rights, but I will say this that in Louisiana the levee boards are second in power only to the public health department," Klorer said.

Harry Gilbert, state senator of Franklin parish, La., told the committee today he was "tickled to death" over the proposed compensation "and I think that represents the majority opinion of the people in my section, but I can't speak for those higher up in the floodway," he added.

Gilbert said that even if the government paid him for flowage rights over his land, he intended to continue to raise crops on it with the hope that it would not be flooded. He said he considered it generous of the government "to buy our land and then let us use it."

He added he did not believe the government should acquire title to the land unless it also assumed the bonded debt of the improved districts. Although the market value of the land will be destroyed, he said, many of the lands will still be able to contribute to payment of the bonds.

The blue pool in the Travis Oliver gardens . . . The iron grill work around the galleries of the Carl McHenry home . . . The beautiful new home of the R. C. White's . . . Mrs. Hyman Leibreich's special recipe for Angel Food cake . . . Mrs. Benton Holt's freshness and charm . . . Mr. R. A. Shotwell's enthusiasm for the Natchez gardens and ante-bellum homes . . . The roar of an airplane overhead . . . red-breasted robins calling cheerfully at early morn' . . . night wind's music.

BITS OF CONVERSATION . . .

"I'll buy it next week. Then I won't have to pay for it this month!" . . . "And there I was only doing forty" . . . "For just two days I ate and drank what I wanted and now look at my waistline" . . . "I am a very unhappy man. My wife doesn't understand me" . . . "I'm getting my flower boxes fixed. Wonder how much the government will pay for every geranium I don't raise" . . . "If I had gone home before that last rubber of bridge I would be ahead three dollars."

In the pictures today we have one of Monroe's lovely young college students, Miss Pollyanna Shotwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Shotwell, who is winning numerous honors at Sweet Briar college, Virginia. Miss Shotwell was counted among the sixteen students on the honor roll and shared in the social festivities arranged in her honor. Marriage Of Miss Stubbs And Mr. Chumney Attracts Throngs Of Society Folk

A marriage marked by distinguished beauty and dignity and one of paramount social interest and importance was that of Miss India King Stubbs, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guyton Palmer Stubbs of this city to Mr. Earl H. Chumney of San Antonio, Texas, son of Mrs. N. H. Chumney which was solemnized on Saturday evening, April the sixth, at seven o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Reverend Ernest Holloway officiated in the presence of a fashionable gathering of southern society.

The environs of the church reflected all the florescent beauty of southern springtime with sheaves of white woodland blossoms massed in the background. Tall, stately Ascension lilies reminiscent of the approaching Eastertide created an atmosphere of impressive dignity, massed in classic manner against the altar and chancel. Southern smilax traced its sinuous length along the choir loft and hung in graceful lengths along the walls, cornices and windows. Luxuriant palms provided a deep green background for the myriad cathedral tapers burning in tall white seven-branched candelabrum.

While the fashionable throng was being seated, Mr. Leon Hammond at the organ rendered a nuptial concert and also accompanied Mrs. Frances Leavell, soloist. Mrs. Leavell's rich contralto was heard to splendid advantage in "I Love You Truly."

The bride had as her wedding attendants six cherished friends, Miss Stella Sandel, Miss Elizabeth Kendrick, Miss Ellen Kent Millsaps, Miss Jean Platt, Miss Leigh Russell, and Miss Mary Davis of San Antonio, Texas. They wore sweeping Magnin models of vaporous green chiffon over mousse satin of the same shade. Fitted reveres edged the low decolletage in the back where immense bows of green satin hung in graceful length. The illusion of quaintness was accentuated by little muffs of ruffled chiffon caught with small nosegays of pastel shaded blossoms.

Mrs. Stanton Huey, sister of the bride, served in the capacity of matron of honor. She wore a gown of canary yellow chiffon, a faithful replica of the gowns worn by the bridesmaids.

The beautiful little flower girls, Cherrie Louise Bernstein and Julia Maury, Jr., one a blonde and the other a brunette, were the quintessence of loveliness in their bustling green taffeta frocks that spread demurely over the floor. They were fashioned along Empire lines. Their hands were tucked in little green taffeta muffs flaunting nosegays of old-fashioned flowers.

The ring bearer, Stanton Huey, Jr., walked down the aisle in white linen suit with frilled white waist of handkerchief linen. He carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

The bride, walking with her father who gave her in marriage, wore a typical bridal gown of classical simplicity. It was a Lelong model and fashioned of ivory Duchess satin, entrain. The square cut neckline was severely plain, also the long tight fitting sleeves edged with frills of rose-point lace. The heirloom, rose-point wedding veil that almost enveloped her slender figure was caught to the hair, cap effect, with a spray of orange blossoms. Reminiscent of the sacred occasion was the beautiful ivory prayer book carried by the bride.

Mr. And Mrs. Meyer Hosts At Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Meyer were hosts on board the Brown Kraft Friday night complimentary to their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Sherwood of Toledo, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Chadwick of New York City.

Supper was served on board as the boat drifted down the river in the twilight of a perfect April evening. In addition to the delectable supper at small tables grouped in the cabin, nature had also prepared a feast enjoyed to the fullest by the eastern visitors. Spring has now reached the peak of perfection in this section of the south and especially along the winding Quachita where glorious trees fringe the banks.

Enjoying the informality of this occasion and the pleasure of meeting the guests of honor were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Oliver, Mr. M. C. McDonald, Mr. B. B. Beasley, Mr. Douglas Stewart.

Mrs. L. C. Richardson, Miss Jessie Pipes, Miss B. Pipes, Miss Jewel Tilley and Mrs. E. C. Finley are attending the American Beautician convention in New Orleans. They will be guests at the Roosevelt hotel, convention headquarters.

Ladder Of Success Leads Down For Those Who Do Not Observe Rules Of Etiquette

Young persons' manners are swinging back from the "license, carelessness and freedom" of post-war days to "an appreciation of the amenities and courtesies of fine living," according to Mrs. Mary Perin Barker, wife of Dean Joseph W. Barker of the Columbia school of engineering. In a handbook addressed to college men on "The Technique of Good Manners", she calls attention that since many good jobs are won through social contacts, students cannot afford to ignore the rules and technique of good etiquette.

Mrs. Barker, it is pointed out, is in a position "to know" about young men's manners. Regularly through the winter season she and Dean Barker open their house on Sundays to the Columbia engineering students. The young men throng the house, sipping tea or chocolate or punch, munching tea cakes, chatting with their professors and the dean.

Mrs. Barker advises men who go "stag" to dances not to "chisel," and presents several suggestions to the young man who gets "stuck" with a partner. She lists a number of topics for dinner conversations, suggesting that a young man who "becomes literally tongue-tied upon meeting new people" should learn them by heart before his next party. "There is nothing more stupid than a dumb dinner partner," Mrs. Barker observes.

Mrs. Barker also offers advice on the choosing of a wife. "You as college men are the potential leaders of

Girl Reserves Meet

Members of the Senior Girl Reserves enjoyed an inspirational meeting at the Y. W. C. A. with the serving of a delectable luncheon the outstanding feature. Twenty-seven members and three visitors were present to enjoy the luncheon and the interesting program arranged by members of the newly elected program committee.

Miss Hazel Cummins read passages from the scriptures and Miss McMahon, superintendent of nurses at St. Francis sanitarium talked on the subject of "Care of the Body." Miss Katherine Pennal sang two lovely song numbers accompanied by Mrs. Moffett. In conclusion Miss Frances Fowler gave a brief talk.

Engagement Of Miss Haas And Mr. David Snyder Is Of Great Interest To Society

An announcement in which the affectionate and sincere interest of countless friends in this section of the state is centered, follows:

Mr. and Mrs. D. Aubrey Haas announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley, to Mr. David Snyder of Bastrop, La.

Miss Haas and Mr. Snyder are members of old southern families who have been identified with the social and business life of this community for several generations.

Miss Haas is one of Monroe's loveliest personalities and a member of the younger social set. She is a graduate of the city high school and Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Haas, highly respected members of Monroe's civic, social and business world.

Mr. Snyder, son of Mrs. Charles Snyder of Bastrop, is a most favorite of life in this city. He attended the University of Kentucky and since his graduation has been identified with the Snyder interests.

Marriage Of Miss Stubbs And Mr. Chumney Attracts Throngs Of Society Folk

A marriage marked by distinguished beauty and dignity and one of paramount social interest and importance was that of Miss India King Stubbs, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guyton Palmer Stubbs of this city to Mr. Earl H. Chumney of San Antonio, Texas, son of Mrs. N. S. Chumney which was solemnized on Saturday evening, April the sixth, at seven o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Reverend Ernest Holloway officiated in the presence of a fashionable gathering of southern society.

The environs of the church reflected all the florescent beauty of southern springtime with sheaves of white woodland blossoms massed in the background. Tall, stately Ascension lilies reminiscent of the approaching Eastertide created an atmosphere of impressive dignity, massed in classic manner against the altar and chancel. Southern smilax traced its sinuous length along the choir loft and hung in graceful lengths along the walls, cornices and windows. Luxuriant palms provided a deep green background for the myriad cathedral tapers burning in tall white seven-branched candelabrum.

While the fashionable throng was being seated, Mr. Leon Hammond at the organ rendered a nuptial concert and also accompanied Mrs. Frances Leavell, soloist. Mrs. Leavell's rich contralto was heard to splendid advantage in "I Love You Truly."

The bride had as her wedding attendants six cherished friends, Miss Adelia Sandel, Miss Elizabeth Kendedy, Miss Ellen Kent Millsaps, Miss Ann Platt, Miss Leigh Russell, and Miss Mary Davis of San Antonio, Texas. They wore sweeping Magnin models of vaporous green chiffon over mousse satin of the same shade. Fitted reveres edged the low decolletage in the back where immense bows of green satin hung in graceful length. The illusion of quaintness was accentuated by little muffs of ruffled chiffon caught with small nosegays of pastel shaded blossoms.

Mrs. Stanton Huey, sister of the bride, served in the capacity of matron of honor. She wore a gown of canary yellow chiffon, a faithful replica of the gowns worn by the bridesmaids.

The beautiful little flower girls, Cherrie Louise Bernstein and Julia Maury, Jr., one a blonde and the other a brunette, were the quintessence of loveliness in their bustling green taffeta frocks that spread demurely over the floor. They were fashioned along Empire lines. Their hands were tucked in little green taffeta muffs flaunting nosegays of old-fashioned flowers.

The ring bearer, Stanton Huey, Jr., walked down the aisle in white linen suit with frilled white waist of handkerchief linen. He carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

The bride, walking with her father who gave her in marriage, wore a typical bridal gown of classical simplicity. It was a Lelong model and fashioned of ivory Duchess satin, entrain. The square cut neckline was severely plain, also the long tight fitting sleeves edged with frills of rose-point lace. The heirloom, rose-point wedding veil that almost enveloped her slender figure was caught to the hair, cap effect, with a spray of orange blossoms. Reminiscent of the sacred occasion was the beautiful ivory prayer book carried by the bride.

Mr. And Mrs. Meyer Hosts At Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Meyer were hosts on board the Brown Kraft Friday night complimentary to their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Sherwood of Toledo, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Chadwick of New York City.

Supper was served on board as the boat drifted down the river in the twilight of a perfect April evening. In addition to the delectable supper at small tables grouped in the cabin, nature had also prepared a feast enjoyed to the fullest by the eastern visitors. Spring has now reached the peak of perfection in this section of the south and especially along the winding Ouachita where glorious trees fringe the banks.

Enjoying the informality of this occasion and the pleasure of meeting the guests of honor were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Oliver, Mr. M. C. McDonald, Mr. B. B. Beasley, Mr. Douglas Stewart.

Mrs. L. C. Richardson, Miss Jessie Pipes, Miss B. Pipes, Miss Jewel Tilley and Mrs. E. C. Finley are attending the American Beautician convention in New Orleans. They will be guests at the Roosevelt hotel, convention headquarters.

Personalities

THINGS TO LOOK FORWARD TO . . .

The Junior Charity league style revue on the Cherokee Terrace Saturday night.

Easter—the new coat, the new hat, the new dress and the solemn prayers not to let it rain.

THINGS I PARTICULARLY LIKE . . .

Holy week, brief interlude of wonder and awe during which we bow our heads in fervent supplication.

Stainer's "Crucifixion," telling us, as only music can, of the world's loftiest event. The hush that comes when the first chords of Lohengrin are heard at church weddings.

Mrs. Manning McGuire's beautiful wavy hair, Miss Jane Colbert's enthusiam A new moon hanging low in the heavens.

The clouds of yellow jasmine in the Henry Bernstein gardens . . . purple wisteria in the gardens at "The Cedars" . . . snowy drifts of dogwood at "Sycamore Hall" . . . The blue pool in the Travis Oliver gardens . . . The iron grill work around the galleries of the Carl McHenry home . . . The beautiful new home of the R. C. White's . . . Mrs. Hyman Leibreich's special recipe for Angel Food cake . . . Mrs. Benton Holt's freshness and charm . . . Mr. R. A. Shotwell's enthusiasm for the Natchez gardens and ante-bellum homes . . . The roar of an airplane overhead . . . red-breasted robins calling cheerfully at early morn' . . . night wind's music.

BITS OF CONVERSATION . . .

"I'll buy it next week. Then I won't have to pay for it this month!" . . . "And there I was only doing forty" . . . "For just two days I ate and drank what I wanted and now look at my waistline" . . . "I am a very unhappy man. My wife doesn't understand me" . . . "I'm getting my flower boxes fixed. Wonder how much the government will pay for every geranium I don't raise" . . . "If I had gone home before that last rubber of bridge I would be ahead three dollars."

In the pictures today we have one of Monroe's lovely young college students, Miss Pollyanna Shotwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Shotwell, who is winning numerous honors at Sweet Briar college, Virginia. Miss Shotwell was counted among the sixteen students on the honor roll and shared in the social festivities arranged in her honor. Miss Shotwell spent her Easter vacation in Cleveland, Ohio, as the guest of her room mate. (Left)

Ladder Of Success Leads Down For Those Who Do Not Observe Rules Of Etiquette

Young persons' manners are swinging back from the "license, carelessness and freedom" of post-war days to "an appreciation of the amenities and courtesies of fine living," according to Mrs. Mary Perin Barker, wife of Dean Joseph W. Barker of the Columbia school of engineering. In a handbook addressed to college men on "The Technique of Good Manners", she calls attention that since many good jobs are won through social contacts, students cannot afford to ignore the rules and technique of good etiquette.

Mrs. Barker, it is pointed out, is in a position "to know" about young men's manners. Regularly through the winter season she and Dean Barker open their house on Sundays to the Columbia engineering students. The young men throng the house, sipping tea or chocolate or punch, munching tea cakes, chatting with their professors and the dean.

Mrs. Barker advises men who go "stag" to dances not to "chisel," and presents several suggestions to the young man who gets "stuck" with a partner. She lists a number of topics for dinner conversations, suggesting that a young man who "becomes literally tongue-tied upon meeting new people" should learn them by heart before his next party. "There is nothing more stupid than a dumb dinner partner," Mrs. Barker observes.

Mrs. Barker also offers advice on the choosing of a wife. "You as college men are the potential leaders of

Girl Reserves Meet

Members of the Senior Girl Reserves enjoyed an inspirational meeting at the Y. W. C. A. with the serving of a delectable luncheon the outstanding feature. Twenty-seven members and three visitors were present to enjoy the luncheon and the interesting program arranged by members of the newly elected program committee.

Mis Hazel Cummins read passages from the scriptures and Miss McMahon, superintendent of nurses at St. Francis sanitarium talked on the subject of "Care of the Body." Miss Katherine Pennal sang two lovely song numbers accompanied by Mrs. Moffett. In conclusion Miss Frances Fowler gave a brief talk.

Engagement Of Miss Haas And Mr. David Snyder Is Of Great Interest To Society

An announcement in which the affectionate and sincere interest of countless friends in this section of the state is centered, follows:

Mr. and Mrs. D. Aubrey Haas announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley, to Mr. David Snyder of Bastrop, La.

Miss Haas and Mr. Snyder are members of old southern families who have been identified with the social and business life of this community for several generations.

Miss Haas is one of Monroe's loveliest personalities and a member of the younger social set. She is a graduate of the city high school and Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Haas, highly respected members of Monroe's civic, social and business world.

Mr. Snyder, son of Mrs. Charles Snyder of Bastrop, is a great favorite in this city. He attended the University of Kentucky and since his graduation has been identified with the Snyder interests.

SOCIETY

Profound Interest Is Being Manifested In This Year's Parent-Teacher Convention

All paths radiating from Alexandria will attract members of Louisiana Parent Teacher association on the fifteenth of April for the twelfth annual convention in that city.

The program of profound interest to every P.-T. A. member is most comprehensive and will be presented at convention headquarters, "Health and Safety for Children," is the convention theme.

There will be a tinge of sadness to mar the otherwise happy gathering as Mrs. Lawrence Mailhes, one of the most generally beloved state presidents the organization has ever known will appear for the last time in this particular role.

A term of important accomplishments are placed to her credit and in stepping out of office Mrs. Mailhes leaves a record unprecedented in the history of this organization.

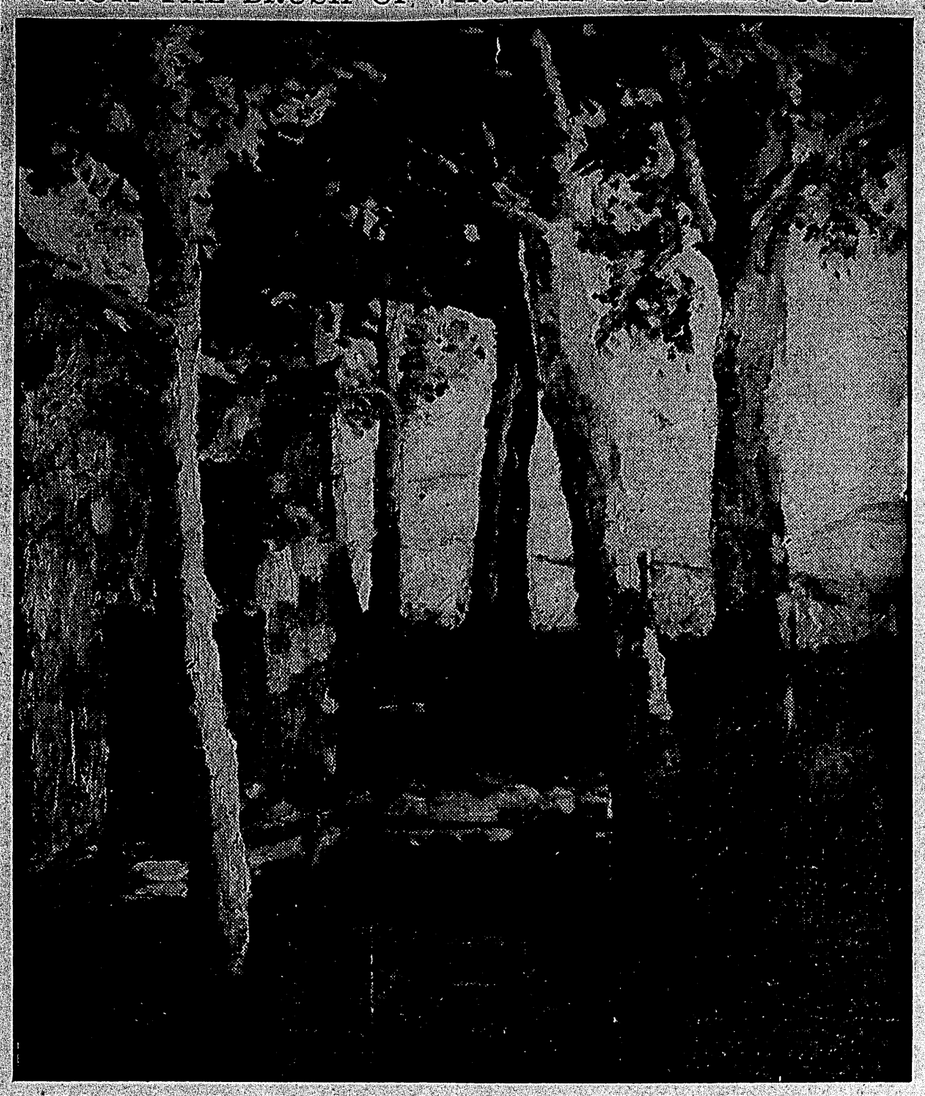
FROM THE BRUSH OF VIRGINIA THURMAN COLE



"Old Sycamores" is a beautiful painting from the engaging brush of Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole, and will be included in the exhibition of her paintings this afternoon between the hours of four and seven o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Williamson with Mr. and Mrs. H. M. James assisting them in receiving the art lovers of this city. Other bright gems from Mrs. Cole's brush are an admirable still life, "Fruits of the Earth," and "Corn Hill." An atmosphere of beauty and poetry lingers in these particular paintings and will be appreciated by even the most casual art lover. Mrs. Cole, one of the outstanding southern artists, paints in gracious poetic manner. One puts her down as a lover of color and nature.

Mrs. Sidney O. Grubb, Jr., has returned from a visit with relatives in Little Rock, Ark., where she was the recipient of considerable social attention. Mr. and Mrs. Grubbs are now at home to their friends on Alexandria avenue.

Mrs. A. D. Harlan of Seminole, Okla,. charming house guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Braun is being welcomed by her hosts of friends in this city, her former home. Mrs. Harlan is accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Grisso and her two lovely children, who spent several days in Natchez, Miss., attending the Garden Pilgrimage.

Blossom Time Lures Garden Lovers Along The Fragrant And Colorful Countryside

Garden pilgrimages remind us that there are fashions in travel as well as in clothes and entertainment. The idea of going on pilgrimages to view examples of the horticultural art and beautiful old southern homes is now flourishing like a green bay tree. The thirst for garden knowledge has become not only a hobby but almost a passion with numerous men and women whose love of trees, flowers, plants and landscaping has sent them along the old garden trails.

"Doing the gardens" of Shreveport, New Orleans, Vicksburg, Miss., Natchez, Miss., and Mobile, Ala., has resulted in new ideas, a different or better way of planting, preparing the soil and designing for many a Monroe garden flower lover.

The fame of Mobile's Azalea trail has spread throughout the nation and every spring tens of thousands of tourists swarm into the city to bask in the breath-taking beauty.

Today the Japanese cherry trees are blossoming in Washington and garden club members from every section of the country are visiting the city in pursuit of their fragrant hobby.

Of all the annual spectacles, that in Washington is particularly popular in this country because many visitors wishing to see the capital choose this time for their visit. The delicate pink and white blossoms at the height of their beauty add glory to the gleaming white marble of the Lincoln memorial and the shaft which honors Washington beside the Potomac. For miles along the drives these flowering trees spread their loveliness.

The single blossoms are first to appear, and are followed about two weeks later by the double blossoms —depending, of course, on the weather gods. It is the single blossoms around the Tidal Basin that are most familiar to the many thousands of visitors. School children especially are brought from many eastern states for the occasion. For them, the cherry blossom time, ever since the trees were planted in March, 1912, in Taft's administration, as a symbol of Japanese friendship and love of beauty, has become a regular event.

Other cities and regions similarly offer floral attractions requiring no special arrangement to visit, but which may be viewed by merely motoring through the section. The habit of marking the height of each blossoming time by a festival is now widespread, and thus the visitor has the native's best guess as to the most favorable dates.

Such is the case with the apple blossoms in Westchester, Va., where the season culminates in a festival beginning about May 1.

Of the special gardens none is better known or more lovely than the Magnolia Gardens of Charleston, S. C., now and for the next few weeks at the zenith of their beauty. The special observance at Easter is particularly popular and crowds of tourists spend the afternoon walking along the trails that weave through the twenty-five-acre preserve. The garden also boasts probably the largest collection of camellias in this country, comprising more than 300 varieties, gathered from many parts of the world.

Yachting parties often sail out of Charleston for a visit to these gardens and to those at Middleton Place, five miles beyond, also full of magnolias, and much older—dating back to 1755.

Garden week in Virginia, April 22-27, is a notable occasion for the garden lover, particularly since it affords the only chance of the season for most persons to visit a number of imposing and historic estates. At Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg and Charlottesville, as well as along the Shenandoah valley from Winchester to Roanoke, famous mansions and their gardens will be open to the public.

So one might go over the map. In May the homes, gardens and stock farms of the Blue Grass country of Kentucky are open to tourists. Further north, in New Hampshire, a flower festival is being planned late in June.

SOCIETY

Profound Interest Is Being Manifested In This Year's Parent-Teacher Convention

All paths radiating from Alexandria will attract members of Louisiana Parent Teacher association on the fifteenth of April for the twelfth annual convention in that city.

The program of profound interest to every P.-T. A. member is most comprehensive and will be presented at convention headquarters, "Health and Safety for Children," is the convention theme.

There will be a tinge of sadness to mar the otherwise happy gathering as Mrs. Lawrence Mailhes, one of the most generally beloved state presidents the organization has ever known will appear for the last time in this particular role.

A term of important accomplishments are placed to her credit and in stepping out of office Mrs. Mailhes leaves a record unprecedented in the history of this organization.

The 1935 convention in Alexandria has much to offer in instruction and interpretation of the ideals of the national and state congress. The program follows:

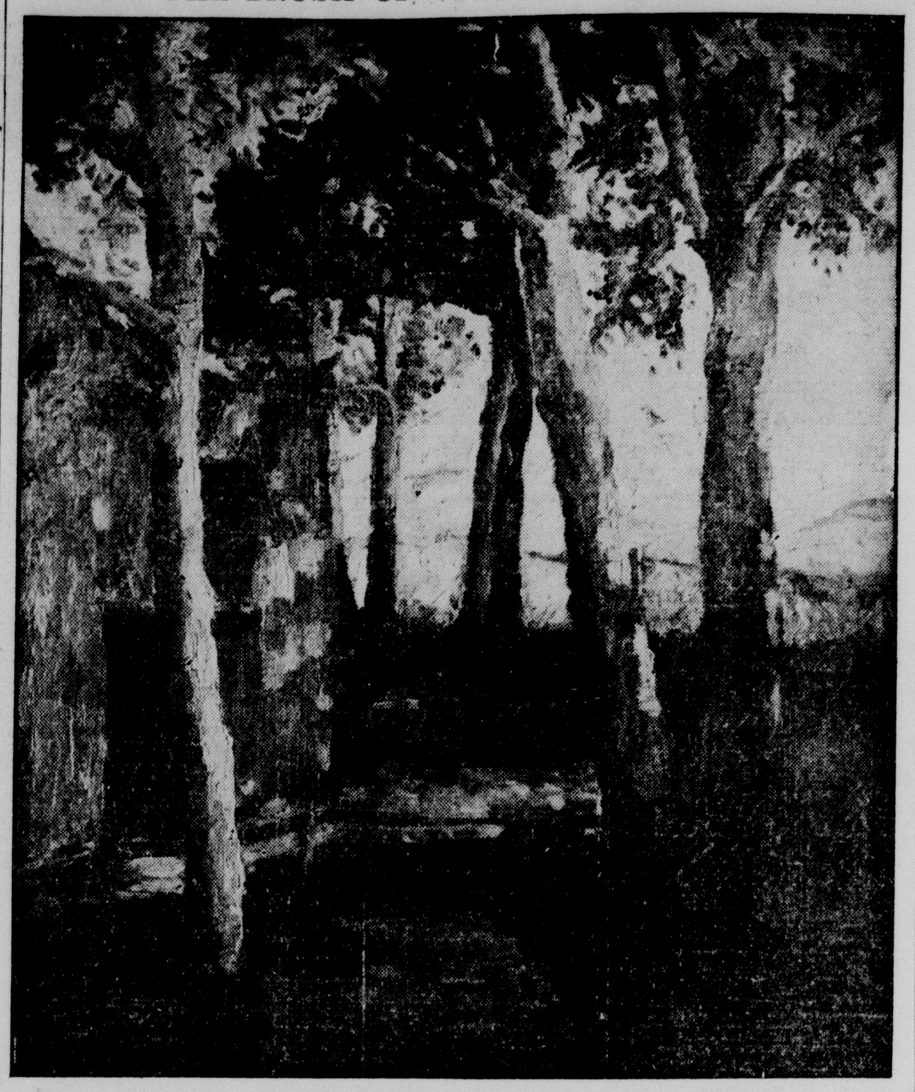
FROM THE BRUSH OF VIRGINIA THURMAN COLE



"Old Sycamores" is a beautiful painting from the engaging brush of Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole, and will be included in the exhibition of her paintings this afternoon between the hours of four and seven o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Williamson with Mr. and Mrs. H. M. James assisting them in receiving the art lovers of this city. Other bright gems from Mrs. Cole's brush are an admirable still life, "Fruits of the Earth," and "Corn Hill." An atmosphere of beauty and poetry lingers in these particular paintings and will be appreciated by even the most casual art lover. Mrs. Cole, one of the outstanding southern artists, paints in gracious poetic manner. One puts her down as a lover of color and nature.

Enjoyable Program

Central Grammar school P.-T. A. met Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Meek presiding.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved, and a satisfactory report given by the treasurer.

Members of the school rhythm orchestra contributed two numbers under the direction of Miss Cliffie Olmstead, a group of Mother Singers from the Lida Benton school, Mrs. Pickens, Mrs. Cash, Mrs. Finkbeiner accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Waldron gave two inspirational numbers.

A discussion of needs for the sickroom at the school was heard at this time.

It was decided to have a cakewalk and program Friday night and arrangements were made to carry out this plan.

A nominating committee with Mrs. Mansberg chairman, was named to select officers for next year.

Mothers present wer counted and the 5-A grade, Mrs. L. M. McCoy, teacher, had the largest number.

A meeting of the A Sharp Music club was held Friday afternoon in the home of Georgianna Williams with Beth Rinehart, co-hostess. The program consisting of the German opera, "Tannhauser," by Richard Wagner, follows:

Pilgrim chorus (Wagner), Bernice Worthington.

Evening Star (Wagner), Lelia Dean Frazier.

Voice — Elizabeth's Prayer, Mrs. Frances Miller Leavell.

After the program delightful refreshments were served to the following: Bonnie Burden, Lelia Dean Frazier, Mary Louise Fudickar, Mack Fay Hammons, Martha Jane Hill, Faith Knapp, Beth Harper Rinehart, Sara Tabb, Gladys Emma Whitfield, Georgianna Williams, Bernice Worthington, Martha Wilton McHenry, Geraldine John, Presis Johns, Mrs. Leavell and counselor, Miss Florence Ziegler.

Enpassant

Miss Florence Ziegler, pianist-accompanist, who will assist Kay Powell, mezzo-sophano, in the concert to be presented by the Musical Coterie on Tuesday, April 23, at the parish high auditorium, will play her own composition entitled, "Acadian Holiday," as one of the numbers on the program. It is a gay, lilting melody, and depicts the "Cajun" in his happiest mood.

Miss Ziegler's friends, who are legion, are delighted that an opportunity will be afforded them to show their appreciation of the work of this gifted artist.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Meyer are entertaining several interesting guests in their home in Fairview. They are Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Sherwood of Toledo, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Chadwick of New York City. Mr. Sherwood is vice-president of the Owens, Illinois Glass Company and Mr. Chadwick is vice-president of the Solvay Products company.

Mr. and Mrs. Truett Scarborough of Ruston are receiving the congratulations of friends over the arrival of their first child, a lovely daughter, Pauline Elizabeth, in their home on the thirtieth of March. Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Olmstead of this city are the maternal grandparents.

Mrs. George Lofton and son, George, Jr., will return home Monday from Little Rock, Ark., where they have been enjoying a visit in the home of Mrs. J. M. Lofton.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nelson of Charleston, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Meyers of Akron, Ohio, are interesting visitors in the city, guests at the Frances hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frenau Surguine arrived the first of the week from their home in Abidjar, Africa, and will visit in the home of Mr. Surguine's father for three months. Landing in Boston, following a four month's voyage they enjoyed a few day's visit in New York City, Louisville, Ky., and other points en route home.

Several interesting social affairs are being planned for them during their visit in the city, outstanding being the dancing party, at Lakeside Country club with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Surguine, hosts, following the Lenten period.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Saucier, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Saucier and baby of Riverton, La., have returned home from Dallas, Texas, where they attended the Cotton Ginners convention.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cecil Blanchard are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the arrival of their second child, a lovely daughter, Carolyn Jane, at St. Frances sanitarium on the twenty-seventh of March.

Mrs. John Patrick White of Houston, Texas, a former resident of this city, is the charming house guest of Mrs. C. G. McCleery on Glenmar avenue.

Mrs. Wood Brown of Minden, La., is a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Rodriguez, and Mr. Rodriguez, in Fairview.

Mrs. E. G. Hinkle accompanied by her son, Mr. Henry Hinkle, and daughter, Sara Frances, motored over to Shreveport for a week end visit with her sisters, Mrs. L. M. McCormack and Mrs. E. C. Bartlett.

Mrs. Sidney O. Grubb, Jr., has returned from a visit with relatives in Little Rock, Ark., where she was the recipient of considerable social attention. Mr. and Mrs. Grubbs are now at home to their friends on Alexandria avenue.

Mrs. A. D. Harlan of Seminole, Okla., charming house guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Braun is being welcomed by her hosts of friends in this city, her former home. Mrs. Harlan is accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Grisso and her two lovely children, who spent several days in Natchez, Miss., attending the Garden Pilgrimage.

Blossom Time Lures Garden Lovers Along The Fragrant And Colorful Countryside

Garden pilgrimages remind us that there are fashions in travel as well as in clothes and entertainment. The idea of going on pilgrimages to view examples of the horticultural art and beautiful old southern homes is now flourishing like a green bay tree. The thirst for garden knowledge has become not only a hobby but almost a passion with numerous men and women whose love of trees, flowers, plants and landscaping has sent them along the old garden trails.

"Doing the gardens" of Shreveport, New Orleans, Vicksburg, Miss., Natchez, Miss., and Mobile, Ala., has resulted in new ideas, a different or better way of planting, preparing the soil and designing for many a Monroe garden flower lover.

The fame of Mobile's Azalea trail has spread throughout the nation and every spring tens of thousands of tourists swarm into the city to bask in the breath-taking beauty.

Today the Japanese cherry trees are blossoming in Washington and garden club members from every section of the country are visiting the city in pursuit of their fragrant hobby.

Of all the annual spectacles, that in Washington is particularly popular in this country because many visitors wishing to see the capital choose this time for their visit. The delicate pink and white blossoms at the height of their beauty add glory to the gleaming white marble of the Lincoln memorial and the shaft which honors Washington beside the Potomac. For miles along the drives these flowering trees spread their loveliness.

The single blossoms are first to appear, and are followed about two weeks later by the double blossoms —depending, of course, on the weather gods. It is the single blossoms around the Tidal Basin that are most familiar to the many thousands of visitors. School children especially are brought from many eastern states for the occasion. For them, the cherry blossom time, ever since the trees were planted in March, 1912, in Taft's administration, as a symbol of Japanese friendship and love of beauty, has become a regular event.

Other cities and regions similarly offer floral attractions requiring no special arrangement to visit, but which may be viewed by merely motoring through the section. The habit of marking the height of each blossoming time by a festival is now widespread, and thus the visitor has the native's best guess as to the most favorable dates.

Such is the case with the apple blossoms in Westchester, Va., where the season culminates in a festival beginning about May 1.

Of the special gardens none is better known or more lovely than the Magnolia Gardens of Charleston, S. C., now and for the next few weeks at the zenith of their beauty. The special observance at Easter is particularly popular and crowds of tourists spend the afternoon walking along the trails that weave through the twenty-five-acre preserve. The garden also boasts probably the largest collection of camellias in this country, comprising more than 300 varieties, gathered from many parts of the world.

Yachting parties often sail out of Charleston for a visit to these gardens and to those at Middleton Place, five miles beyond, also full of magnolias, and much older—dating back to 1755.

Garden week in Virginia, April 22-27, is a notable occasion for the garden lover, particularly since it affords the only chance of the season for most persons to visit a number of imposing and historic estates. At Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg and Charlottesville, as well as along the Shenandoah valley from Winchester to Roanoke, famous mansions and their gardens will be open to the public.

So one might go over the map. In May the homes, gardens and stock farms of the Blue Grass country of Kentucky are open to tourists. Further north, in New Hampshire, a flower festival is being planned late in June.

Mr. Allen Smith And Miss Davis Will Soon Wed

Mrs. Robert Lewis, of Woodville, Miss., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Margaret Davis, to Mr. Allen Lewis Smith, of Monroe, on Monday, April the twenty-ninth. Miss Lewis, who is the second daughter of the late Mr. Robert Lewis, editor of the Woodville Republican, and Mrs. Lewis, is a graduate of Newcomb college and a member of Chi Omega sorority. Since her father's death she has been connected with the Republican as associate editor.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. P. A. Pogy, of Monroe. After graduating from the city high school he attended the University of North Carolina for one year. He then entered the law school of Tulane university, from which he graduated in 1928. He was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, president of the law student body his senior year and also outstanding in other student activities there. He is now connected with the Universal Credit company with headquarters in Jackson, Miss.

Club Women Meet

The regular meeting of the Missouri Pacific Woman's club was held Friday, afternoon March 29, with a large and enthusiastic group in attendance. Mrs. Geo. Bruce, president, presided over the meeting.

Mrs. C. S. Swain, chairman of the ways and means committee announced that a benefit bridge party would be given at the Booster club rooms. The club members also made definite plans for entertaining the McGhee Ladies Booster club on the twenty-sixth of April. A luncheon and entertainment will be provided the visitors, numbering forty-five or more.

Piano solos by Billy McDowell.

Chorus by Lida Benton school, mother singers, composed of the following ladies: Mrs. F. M. Fink Biner, Mrs. Shepperd, Mrs. Cash, Mrs. Worley and Mrs. Pickens.

During the social hour delicious refreshments were served and several games of bridge enjoyed.

Mrs. J. S. Butler of Shreveport is enjoying a visit in the home of her sister, Mrs. J. D. Porter and Mr. Porter of 305 North Second street.

BLOUSES FOLLOW TAILORED THEME

Blouses to wear with new spring suits are made from fabrics as interesting as the suits themselves, and they're tailored just as carefully. Even the more feminine ones, to be worn with dressmaker suits, have a neat-as-a-pin look about them. You can stick to white and be sure that you are correct, fashionably speaking. Or you can change to pastels and the richer, dustry tones and still know that your taste is impeccable. You won't see many black, navy blue and dark brown linen and cotton shirts. Contrast is a theme song this spring and, generally speaking, light-colored blouses offer a better chance for it. Detachable stiff collars on shirtwaist type blouses are something new. Except for rounded instead of pointed collars they look exactly like a man's. With them you can wear either trim little bow ties or flowing Windsors.. There are, as one might have expected, Regency blouses, too. These are not to be tucked into a skirt band, and are worn for luncheon and tea as well as on the street. One particularly handsome Regency blouse (shown here at the left today) is made from roughish crepe in a flattering model.

Much Interest Is Manifested In Institute

The first state-wide club institute to be held by the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs on April 12 and 13 will be featured by notable guest speakers through the courtesy of L. S. U. and a club institute program of high merit.

The club institute program includes the things which club women are vitally interested in and are seeking. While not all of the more important phases of club interests may be included in the first program, an attempt has been made to utilize the time in the most constructive way possible.

Among the noted guest speakers will be J. W. Studebaker, Ph. D., United States commissioner of education, Washington, D. C., who will speak on Friday evening following the program of music by the L. S. U. school of music, and the convocation exercises which will take place in the Greek theater.

Miss Agnes McPhail, member of the house of commons of the Canadian parliament, Ontario, Canada, will speak to the club women on Saturday morning rather than Friday evening as previously announced. According to authorities, Miss McPhail is a brilliant speaker, excelling the famous Lady Astor, and has fundamental things to say. To hear her is an outstanding experience in any organization.

Secretary of Agriculture Hon. Henry A. Wallace will speak on Saturday afternoon at the conclusion of the club institute program. Those who have heard Mr. Wallace are anticipating his address with much interest.

The luncheons at which the university will be hosts on Friday and Saturday are being planned by Mrs. A. G. Reed and a committee from L. S. U. Luncheon program will include talks by club women, prominent among whom are Mrs. Joseph K. Walker, Shreveport, state director of L. F. W. C., who will speak on the triennial of the general federation which will take place in Detroit in June. Music and entertainment will be furnished by the university.

Ferriday

Members of the Ferriday Rotary club were entertained on Friday by the members of the Ferriday Woman's club at their regular weekly meeting on Friday at the Legion hall with Mrs. W. A. Hall, president of the club in charge of the program.

Mrs. Hall opened the meeting with a reading, "My Aunt's Bonnet," by Edgar Guest and this was followed by a duet by the Waller brothers, A. J. and Buster. Both played guitars as they sang ballads.

Mrs. C. G. Bruce and Mrs. Hall rendered a duet after which Miss Sarah I. Jones, parish librarian, discussed ways and means by which the Rotarians and the members of the Woman's club could cooperate for the civic betterment of the city. The program was concluded by another rendition of the Waller brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bass are receiving congratulations on the arrival of an eight-pound baby girl, who has been given the name of Mary Carolyn.

Miss Henrietta Swayze is now employed in Ferriday where she is making her home.

Mrs. E. Butler and Mrs. John Hager of Madison, Ark., arrived Friday to spend the week with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce T. Wilgus in Fisherville and to attend the annual Garden club pilgrimage in Natchez, Miss.

Mr. Will Beard visited his sister, Mrs. Coney, who is ill in Jonesville this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Applewhite of Winnfield, La., were here on a visit last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Covington, of Ferriday, have as their guests their two daughters, Hermania and Annie Ruth and son, G. E. Covington and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Noble and Mrs. Charles Allen of Jackson, Miss.

Miss Lucille Chambers was a visitor in Monroe Saturday.

Mr. P. L. Roundtree was a visitor to Natchez on Thursday.

MRS. W. H. ARMSTRONG

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, president of Barkdull Faulk Parent-Teacher association, has been the moving spirit in making her association superior. She introduced the innovation of gaining membership only through the effort of association members instead of through the children, as had been done in the past. Mrs. Armstrong served Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A. as treasurer for three years before she was elected to the presidency, as membership chairman two years, and as community center chairman during the time the school was holding riday night open house, using the school as a community center. Her work in the organization has been outstanding.

Mrs. Armstrong has served on the Twin City council as representative of her organization. Her work on the ways and means committee of the council assisted materially in making the state convention a success, when it was held in this city last spring. She was tireless in her activities with the toy reclamation project, when the council was cooperating with the recreation department for Christmas toy-mending in 1934.

Mrs. Armstrong's happy faculty for recognizing merit in the efforts of others makes her an ideal executive.

Rules Of Etiquette Lead To Success

the next generation," she declares. "Judge the women you know by their ability to climb the ladder with you. Your wife can help carry you to the crest, or she can be a chain around your neck. Be proud of her and her appearance; be assured of her intellectual capacity.

"Don't impair your taste or waste your time in 'playing around' with girls who are obviously beneath your consideration. Don't marry the first girl you fancy yourself in love with. Look the field over carefully, and get so well acquainted with women that your choice of a life partner will make marriage the most wonderful, satisfying and happy experience in life—which it should and can be."

A young man should "get himself known" through his social contacts, Mrs. Barker points out. "When a vacancy occurs the man who has to fill it runs over in his mind the men he knows who might be suitable. If he doesn't know you, how can you expect to be considered?

"Going or not going to social affairs is usually a matter of habit. It is very easy to get into a stay-at-home rut, and almost any excuse you give yourself serves the purpose. If you consistently refuse invitations you will wake up some day to the realization that you are not being invited any more. Right now is the time to start going places."

Marriage Of Miss Stubbs And Mr. Chumney

Mr. Chumney was attended by his brother, Mr. William Chumney of San Antonio, Texas. The groomsmen were: Mr. Stewart Johnson of San Antonio, Texas, Mr. Charles Paige of Austin, Texas, Mr. Percy Sandel, Mr. W. King Stubbs, Mr. Guyton Stubbs, Jr., and Mr. Carl Chumney of Wichita Falls, Texas. The ushers were Mr. Charles Stubbs and Mr. Henry Bernstein. All the gentlemen in the wedding party were in formal evening attire and wore boutonnieres of valley lilies.

Immediately following the ceremony a brilliant reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Jackson street. Considerable beauty of decoration prevailed in the spacious, high ceilinged rooms where a floor length antique mirror reflected the colorful pageant. Southern smilax was used in artistic profusion in the background and wild honeysuckle and white woodland blossoms overflowed from garden baskets and classic shaped urns.

The bride and bridegroom stood to receive the felicitations of friends. In the receiving line were: Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Stubbs wearing a charming frock of pink chiffon with corsage of roses and valley lilies; Mrs. N. S. Chumney, mother of bridegroom, wore a charming model of beige lace; Mrs. J. H. Frost of San Antonio, aunt of the bride, was wearing a beautiful model of flowered chiffon with topaz clips; Mrs. Julia Maury of San Antonio wore a handsome gown of pastel pink lace. Others in the receiving line were: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chumney of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. William Chumney of San Antonio, Mrs. John Jackson, Jr., of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mrs. A. D. Moore of Beaumont, Texas, Mrs. Lynton Stubbs of Shreveport, Miss Katherine Preston of Austin, Texas.

Mock orange blossoms banked the dining room where the wedding cake, an artistic confection edged with orange blossoms alternated with crystalized love-knots, graced the round table overlaid with handsome Renaissance lace. It was the bride's wish that members of her bridal party pull the white satin ribbons attached to the lucky symbols.

Ices and petit fours embossed in white and green were served by a coterie of lovely girls and young matrons in exquisite evening frocks. They were: Miss Mary Bonita Allen, Miss Sue Graves, Miss Frances Cole, Miss Katheryn Morrison, Miss Sara Cole Morrison, Miss Violet Meyer, Miss Jane Colbert, Miss Mary Smith, Mrs. James Trousdale, Mrs. Hayden Cutler, Mrs. Jay Cummings and Mrs. Charles Womack. Also assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Frank P. Stubbs, Mrs. Percy Sandel and Mrs. Victor Barringer.

The lavish display of wedding gifts were arranged in the library. Among the handsome articles were noted a set of solid silver spoons handed down to the bride from her great great grandmother, India King, and bearing the date 1820. A full set of silver in the Rose Marie pattern was also noted in addition to trays, goblets and additional flat silver. A complete set of rock crystal in the rose design, handsome linens, a set of Wedgewood china and a set of Dresden china were outstanding.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smalt tailleur of lightweight navy blue wool with all accessories of blue and left with Mr. Chumney for an automobile triy to Mexico where they will spend their honeymoon.

Later they will be at home to their friends in San Antonio where Mr. Chumney is identified with the business world as a certified public accountant. He is a graduate of the University of Texas and a member of a prominent Texas family.

The bride comes from a long line of distinguished ancestors on both her maternal and paternal side. Her maternal grandfather, the late Colonel F. P. Stubbs was among the early settlers and prominently identified with things of a cultural and civic nature of this city. Large tracts of land owned by the Stubbs family are still in their possession, one tract in particular was donated to the city of Monroe for the building lot of the Georgia Tucker school, named for Miss Stubbs' grandmother. The bride's maternal grandfather is Judge W. W. King of San Antonio, Texas.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. J. H. Frost, Mrs. Julia Maury and daughter, Julia Maury, Jr., Mrs. N. S. Chumney, Mr. and Mrs. William Chumney, Mr. Stewart Johnson of San Antonio, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chumney and son, Speed, of Wichita Falls, Texas, Miss Katherine Preston of Austin, Texas, Mr. Charles Paige of Austin, Texas, Mrs. A. D. Moore of Beaumont, Texas, Mrs. J. L. Jackson of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mrs. Lyton Stubbs of Shreveport and Mr. Robert Morris, Jr., of New Orleans.

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

The production committee of the Little Theater of Monroe is hard at work building the set which will show the "front room" of a Cajun home for the play "The Cajun," by Ada Jack Carver, which will be presented on Thursday, April 11, at 8:15 o'clock, at the old city school auditorium.

Herbert Levy and Bess James have their paint pots ready, Edna Richards and Lucyle Godwin are armed with hammers and nails, and Anna Lou Sandridge, Frances McHenry and Maude Stubbs are busy collecting gumbo pots, strings of red pepper and garlic, and hand-made chairs with cow-hide seats, to say nothing of a stacked and embossed wedding cake!

Sig Masur has graciously loaned the beautiful curtain drop designed and executed by William Grasse, which will be used for the prologue.

Thursday, the eleventh, is to be an all Louisiana evening—the first offering by the Little Theater group of the work of Louisiana authors and composers. Non-members are cordially invited to this performance, and it is to be hoped that a large and sympathetic audience will attend.

Immediately following the ceremony a brilliant reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Jackson street. Considerable beauty of decoration prevailed in the spacious, high ceilinged rooms where a floor length antique mirror reflected the colorful pageant. Southern smilax was used in artistic profusion in the background and wild honeysuckle and white woodland blossoms overflowed from garden baskets and classic shaped urns.

The bride and bridegroom stood to receive the felicitations of friends. In the receiving line were: Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Stubbs wearing a charming frock of pink chiffon with corsage of roses and valley lilies; Mrs. N. S. Chumney, mother of bridegroom, wore a charming model of beige lace; Mrs. J. H. Frost of San Antonio, aunt of the bride, was wearing a beautiful model of flowered chiffon with topaz clips; Mrs. Julia Maury of San Antonio wore a handsome gown of pastel pink lace. Others in the receiving line were: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chumney of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. William Chumney of San Antonio, Mrs. John Jackson, Jr., of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mrs. A. D. Moore of Beaumont, Texas, Mrs. Lynton Stubbs of Shreveport, Miss Katherine Preston of Austin, Texas.

Mock orange blossoms banked the dining room where the wedding cake, an artistic confection edged with orange blossoms alternated with crystalized love-knots, graced the round table overlaid with handsome Renaissance lace. It was the bride's wish that members of her bridal party pull the white satin ribbons attached to the lucky symbols.

Ices and petit fours embossed in white and green were served by a coterie of lovely girls and young matrons in exquisite evening frocks. They were: Miss Mary Bonita Allen, Miss Sue Graves, Miss Frances Cole, Miss Katheryn Morrison, Miss Sara Cole Morrison, Miss Violet Meyer, Miss Jane Colbert, Miss Mary Smith, Mrs. James Trousdale, Mrs. Hayden Cutler, Mrs. Jay Cummings and Mrs. Charles Womack. Also assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Frank P. Stubbs, Mrs. Percy Sandel and Mrs. Victor Barringer.

The lavish display of wedding gifts were arranged in the library. Among the handsome articles were noted a set of solid silver spoons handed down to the bride from her great great grandmother, India King, and bearing the date 1820. A full set of silver in the Rose Marie pattern was also noted in addition to trays, goblets and additional flat silver. A complete set of rock crystal in the rose design, handsome linens, a set of Wedgewood china and a set of Dresden china were outstanding.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailleur of lightweight navy blue wool with all accessories of blue and left with Mr. Chumney for an automobile triy to Mexico where they will spend their honeymoon.

Later they will be at home to their friends in San Antonio where Mr. Chumney is identified with the business world as a certified public accountant. He is a graduate of the University of Texas and a member of a prominent Texas family.

The bride comes from a long line of distinguished ancestors on both her maternal and paternal side. Her maternal grandfather, the late Colonel F. P. Stubbs was among the early settlers and prominently identified with things of a cultural and civic nature of this city. Large tracts of land owned by the Stubbs family are still in their possession, one tract in particular was donated to the city of Monroe for the building lot of the Georgia Tucker school, named for Miss Stubbs' grandmother. The bride's maternal grandfather is Judge W. W. King of San Antonio, Texas.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. J. H. Frost, Mrs. Julia Maury and daughter, Julia Maury, Jr., Mrs. N. S. Chumney, Mr. and Mrs. William Chumney, Mr. Stewart Johnson of San Antonio, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chumney and son, Speed, of Wichita Falls, Texas, Miss Katherine Preston of Austin, Texas, Mr. Charles Paige of Austin, Texas, Mrs. A. D. Moore of Beaumont, Texas, Mrs. J. L. Jackson of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mrs. Lyton Stubbs of Shreveport and Mr. Robert Morris, Jr., of New Orleans.

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

The production committee of the Little Theater of Monroe is hard at work building the set which will show the "front room" of a Cajun home for the play "The Cajun," by Ada Jack Carver, which will be presented on Thursday, April 11, at 8:15 o'clock, at the old city school auditorium.

Herbert Levy and Bess James have their paint pots ready, Edna Richards and Lucyle Godwin are armed with hammers and nails, and Anna Lou Sandridge, Frances McHenry and Maude Stubbs are busy collecting gumbo pots, strings of red pepper and garlic, and hand-made chairs with cow-hide seats, to say nothing of a stacked and embossed wedding cake!

Sig Masur has graciously loaned the beautiful curtain drop designed and executed by William Grasse, which will be used for the prologue.

Thursday, the eleventh, is to be an all Louisiana evening—the first offering by the Little Theater group of the work of Louisiana authors and composers. Non-members are cordially invited to this performance, and it is to be hoped that a large and sympathetic audience will attend.

NEW JERSEY PRO GETS 68 DESPITE STORMY WEATHER

Picard In Third Place, With Dutra Second, One Stroke Behind

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—(AP)—The "Hershey Hurricane" turned out to be just a zephyr today compared to the blustery rainstorm that swept the classic Augusta national links, with the result that blond Craig Wood, the "belting beauty" from Deal, N. J., rode the crest of a great third round to overtake Henry G. Picard of Hershey, Pa., and assume the pace-setting role in the $5,000 invitation golf tournament.

Wood played the most spectacular round of the tournament, as he overcame the hazards of weather and course for a 68, four under par. It gave him a 54 hole total of 209—seven under perfect figures for three rounds—and a one shot lead over the national open champion, Olin Dutra of California, who registered his third successive 70 for an aggregate of 210.

Picard, who started out at the height of the storm with a two-day count of 135 and a four shot lead over his nearest pursuer, quickly went into a slump, rallied and then went into reverse again on the home stretch. He wound up with a 76, a far cry from his previous rounds of 67 and 68, and finished the day in third place, with 211, two shots behind the new leader and one stroke in front of Gene Sarazen, whose 73 gave him an aggregate of 212.

Separated by only three strokes, these four—Wood, Dutra, Picard and Sarazen—figured to fight it out for the biggest slice of the prize money tomorrow. The only others with even a remote chance to figure in the struggle for first place were the veteran Walter Hagen and Denny Shute, each with 214 in a tie for fifth position.

During a day that saw Old Man Par floored only four times, as compared to 24 knockdowns in the previous two rounds, the eminent Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., number 1 host and drawing card, had to be satisfied with a respectable but uninspired 77, which gave him a 54 hole total of 219, ten strokes behind the leader and deadlocked for 16th place in the field of 65 players.

Monarchs Open Series With New York Today

Finishing the form of the great teams of 1931 and '32, the Monroe Monarchs, with the addition of Leroy Morney, gave evidence of improvement during this week's training. Morney, former star infielder with the local team and later outstanding National league star with the Columbus Blue Birds, Pittsburgh Crawfords and Homestead Grays, returned to Monroe last Sunday. It is thought his presence will be the sounding out of one of the best infields in negro baseball.

Manager Frank Johnson said that the week-end games with the New York Cubans should prove how far his team has come during spring practice. Rube Mendricky will play the Cubans today and Monday, he said. The locals meet the Crawfords on Easter Sunday.

The New York nine will present some of the best players on any diamond, it was announced. Richard Richard batting outfielder; Rolo [illegible] and Marcelle said to be [illegible] in uniform. [illegible] of the team.

Five Clubs Expected To Figure In Southern Race

By Francis Carpenter
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7.—(AP)—Five clubs—and it's a hard matter to put a finger on any one of them—stand out today as potential pennant winners in the 1935 Southern association baseball race.

With little more than a week before the league season opens a survey of the situation shows Atlanta, Memphis, Chattanooga, New Orleans and Nashville already looking longingly at the pennant and backing up their hopes with good material.

Atlanta, figuring things closer, probably is more on the spot than the other clubs. The Crackers for some time have passed since a new pennant was raised over Ponce de Leon park in Georgia. The dynamic Eddie Moore is manager this year.

Unlike five other league fellows, Atlanta can't look to a "big brother" in the major leagues for direct aid. But the Crackers boast a decided asset in the Vanndale Viking, Harry Kelley, late of the Memphis Chicks and a pitcher who has a habit of staying good.

Kelley is looking forward to a big season with the Crackers.

Last year's pennant winners, the Pelicans of New Orleans, have two advantages that make them dangerous. There is Larry Gilbert in his accustomed place as manager and there is a tie-up with the Cleveland Indians.

New Orleans has won for two years straight now and the Pels will put up a stiff fight to make it three in a row. Besides, they have the Dixie championship to defend.

Nashville clashed with New Orleans in the play-off last year and will be back in the race this season determined to cause trouble. With aid from the New York Giants and with Frank Brazill at the helm, the Vols are well fitted for the campaign. Brazill is new in the managerial role at Nashville.

Memphis enters the campaign Tuesday week minus the leadership of the veteran Doc Prothro, who has transferred his allegiance to Little Rock. The chicks have a new pilot in the person of Fred Hoffman, one-time New York Yankee catcher. Memphis doesn't have a pipe-line from the big leagues but the Chicks are always dangerous.

Another new manager is in the seat at Chattanooga—Mule Shirley. Chattanooga is looking to Washington for help this season and Shirley has gathered about him a bunch of hustling lads who are eager to go places.

The other three clubs—Knoxville, Birmingham and Little Rock—have improved their rosters but are not counted on to cause much trouble.

Knoxville is tied up with the Boston Red Sox and has retained its old manager, Lee Head. Clyde Milan remains at the helm in Birmingham, and has the decided good wishes of a big league outfit, the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Prothro is determined to see what he can do with a Little Rock club which he has strengthened somewhat.

With Atlanta casting a lone negative vote, the league directors this winter adopted the Shaughnessy play-off system for one year. This plan gives the four first-division clubs an equal opportunity at the end of the season to win.

The first division outfits engage in a post-season series. The first team meets the fourth place club and the second and third ranking teams clash until one team in each bracket wins three games. The winners then engage in a 7-game series for the pennant.

A heated race is in prospect—the owners are counting on steadily-clicking turnstiles—and the Southern association Derby gets under way April 15.

Cambridge Crew Beats Oxford In Annual Race

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 6.—(AP)—Oxford's hopes of wresting British rowing supremacy from her classic rival failed again today when Cambridge's stylish crew swept up the Thames to an easy victory in their 87th boat race on the historic, winding river.

With a daring coxswain, J. N. Duckworth, getting the utmost of their suberb oarmanship, the Cambridge eight finished the four and one-quarter miles four and one-half lengths clear of a rowed-out Oxford crew.

It was the 12th successive victory for the Cantabs and the 46th of the series, 40 having been won by the Oxonians and one ending in a dead heat.

Cal Hubbard Resigns As Member Of A. & M. Staff

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, April 6.—(AP)—Cal Hubbard, Texas A. & M. line coach, has resigned and Bill James, former Texas university line coach, and Bill Dimmitt, Beaumont high school mentor, have been signed as coaches of the Aggie footballers.

James, recently dismissed from the University of Texas staff after nine years of service, probably will replace Hubbard, former professional star.

SOFTBALL PLEA

The recent ruling of the Y's Men's club that no player under 25 years of age may compete in the Twilight league this season has removed a number of softball players from circulation. Apparently some of these players want to continue in active competition and one of them has taken the trouble to write this column a letter in which a plea is made for the "outcasts."

The letter follows:

"In your columns a few days ago you made mention of the fact that there are some hundred or so softball addicts in Monroe that will be denied the privilege of playing in the Twilight league as that league has voted a minimum age limit of 25 years.

"I believe that there could be organized another league in the city. Of course, the eligibility rules would have to be more elastic than the rules governing the Twilight league. Why can't we have a league that plays twice a week, say Wednesdays and Sundays, without an age limit? Such a league would not interfere with the Twilight league and would give everyone an opportunity to play. I believe that if such a league were formed there would be ten or twelve teams to enter. Why can't those interested get together and see what can be done?

"Yours very truly,
"SOFTBALL FAN."

Perhaps there are other fans and players who feel that another league can be organized here. The Y's Men's club has made it plain that they would not consider a new league as encroaching on their territory. In fact, they have urged that such a league be formed, although they couldn't be expected to sponsor two circuits. One is hard enough to handle.

There's no reason why another league, which would take care of the player under 25 years of age, could not be formed. It is probable that the National Guard, St. Matthew's, Firemen, Publishers and one or two other teams will be unable to enter the Twilight league this year because of the 25 year rule.

Players on the Publishers team tell me they would like to enter some kind of league which did not bar players under 25. Any other club which would care to enter such an organization is invited to write this column and perhaps a new circuit can be organized.

NEVILLE TO MEET BULLPUPS MONDAY

Tigers Hope To Even Series With Louisiana Tech Frosh Here

The Tiger nine of Neville high school, a little more experienced by a 10 to 0 defeat in their initial game of the season at the hands of the Louisiana Tech Bullpups on the Ruston diamond Thursday, will be out to even the series tomorrow afternoon when they meet the Tech freshmen in a return engagement at Forsythe park at 3 o'clock. The game will be the Bengals' second of the season.

Bunching their hits and capitalizing on Tiger errors, the Pups lost no time in taking advantage of every chance to score and pushed runs across the plate in all but two of their innings at bat last week, but Coach Percy Brown has spent the intervening days drilling his squad and correcting their mistakes and believes the locals will be able to put up a closer battle with the invaders tomorrow.

Despite the onesidedness of the score Thursday the Frosh were limited to seven hits by Milo Mattinson and Ed Stroud, who are expected to get the call for mound duty again. The arm of Stanley Lewis held the locals in check at Ruston but the Bengals believe everybody has their weak and strong moments and that Lewis, if he faces them, will find plenty of trouble in the game Monday.

Jack Muffs Chance To Get A Big Dishwasher

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Max Baer wiped away the mayonnaise from the chin that can take it, smiled at the assembled admirers, and bade them adieu.

He had nearly reached the exit of the restaurant when Jack Dempsey the proprietor, tapped him on the shoulder.

"That will be sixty cents," said the ex-Manassa Mauler who now specializes in special cuts instead of upper cuts.

"See my manager," Baer replied, with a wave of his kid gloves. "I haven't had sixty cents since I won the world's heavyweight championship. My lawyers get 66 2-3, my manager gets 33 1-3, and on top of that I've sold 40 per cent of myself."

Dempsey sighed, and the cashier rang up "no sale."

QUALIFYING ROUND ENDS AT LAKESIDE

Today Last Day For Posting Scores; 36 Already Entered In Meet

The qualifying round in the annual spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club will close today and first round matches will be started Monday.

Thirty-six golfers already have posted their qualifying scores and indications are that at least 45 players will be seeking the 32 places in the tournament. According to the scores already posted, it probably will take a net 76 to qualify, Manager Shep Girault said last night.

There will be four flights of eight players each and pairings will be made after today's round is completed. Pairings for match play will be announced Monday. There will be a prize for each flight, with a grand prize for the tourney winner. One week will be allowed for the completion of each round.

R. T. Harberson, 83-8-75; Wilson Ewing, 86-11-75; H. K. Touchstone, 76-4-72; Jack Warren, 85-11-74; W. M. Washburn, 101-25-76; J. L. Keenan, 84-11-73; J. S. Washburn, 91-17-74; Tip Schier, 87-13-74; Ben Downing, Jr., 86-12-74; M. S. Biedenharn, 95-24-71; S. L. Digby, 113-25-88; Ben Downing, 83-13-70; W. S. Shafto, 76-2-74; J. H. Trousdale, 100-25-75; M. C. McDonald, 83-9-74; Bun Beasley, 81-4-77; Jack Rogers, 86-9-77.

C. W. Wallace, 92-14-78; E. J. Seymour, 94-18-76; J. E. Godfrey, 92-13-79; T. O. Bancroft, 89-10-79; George Weaks, 113-25-88; H. H. Reardon, 92-11-81; John Sherrouse, 90-16-74; W. L. LITTLE LEADS IN AMATEUR BATTLE

U. S. And British Champion Has 216; Haas Fourth With 223

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—(AP)—Blazing his way over a soggy course in a brilliant 70, two strokes under par, W. Lawson Little, Jr., United States and British champion, took a commanding lead today in the battle for amateur honors in the Augusta National invitation tournament.

The San Francisco sharpshooter had a total of 216 for the 54 holes and moved into the final round of the 72 hole affair with a three stroke lead over his closest threat, Johnny Dawson, "business-man" amateur from Chicago, who fired a 72, even par, for a total of 219.

Charlie Yates of Atlanta, national intercollegiate champion, who paced the field through the halfway mark, dropped to third place, taking a 75 in the third round for an aggregate thus far of 221. Two strokes behind Yates was Fred Haas, Jr., the youthful champion from New Orleans, with 223.

Haas, Louisiana State University sophomore, added a 38-37-75 to his 148 through 36 holes and was 10 strokes in front of Chandler Egan of Demonte, Calif., and Leland Hamman of Paris, Tex., who were tied at 233. Jack Munger, Duke university student from Dallas was next with 234 and Jack Westland of Chicago brought up the rear with a 236.

After touring the first four holes in standard figures, Haas lost a stroke to par on the fifth and went two over on the ninth when his spoon second sailed over the green. On the 10th he was trapped and on the 11th his ball rolled into a deep divot, forcing him to drop two strokes on these holes.

The Louisiana youth got his par on the 12th and then lashed a beautiful brassie 15 feet from the cup on the difficult 13th, barely missing his putt for an eagle, sinking for a birdie four. He got his par on 14, but lost a stroke on 15, taking a six after his tee shot landed in a road and his approach sailed far over the green. He was down in par on the next two and shaved a stroke from regulation figures on the 18th as his approach struck the flag and dropped six feet away, sinking for a birdie three.

Big Four Baseball Loop Is Organized At Clarks

CLARKS, La., April 6.—(Special)—The Big Four league was organized Thursday night at a meeting held at Hotel White. The teams which will comprise the circuit are Clarks, Kelly, Chatham CC camp and Sikes CC camp. At the meeting, Lieut. Padgett represented Chatham, Lieut. Cox, Sikes; Milliard Delcoure, Clarks, and H. C. Mayes and W. H. McGhee, Kelly. P. J. Goodnight was elected president and W. L. McDermott was appointed secretary.

The league voted to play one game each Sunday with the schedule opening on April 28th.

The player limit for Clarks and Kelly will be 18 men each but on account of army regulations the other teams could not be restricted. No class men will be allowed as the league is strictly amateur. There is a possibility of two more teams entering the league at a later date.

. . . already has topped 206 feet.

By Quincy Ewing

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6.—(AP)—Turning back from football to his old love, the training of Louisiana State university's great track and field athletes, Bernie Moore is dubious about how good his purple and gold spikemen will be this spring.

His first spring practice at L. S. U. head football coach finished, Moore is analyzing his thinly-clad material in hopes of developing a squad comparable to those of the last two season.

His 1933 Tigers amazed the track world by sweeping to the team championship in the National Collegiate A. A. games at Chicago and last year his athletes annexed the staggering total of 26 records—four world marks, three N. C. A. A. standards, two national A. A. U., nine southern A. A. U., five southeastern conference and three Drake relays records.

Many of these, of course, were achieved by that super shot-putter, Jack Torrance, whose graduation Bernie duly bemoans. But his next most prolific producer of new records, Glenn "Slats" Hardin, is still available, warming up along with the weather and likely to set new heights of performance in the 400 and the low hurdles.

The best of the Tiger weight men this year are more than 10 feet behind Torrance's epochal 57-foot efforts.

In addition to Hardin, the stars Moore is depending on to lay away most of the points are Nathan "Buddy" Blair in the javelin, John Sanders in the mile and two miles, and Ted O'Neil in the 880 and mile.

Already this spring the Tigers have notched one new record, a meet standard of 7:51.6 for the two-mile relay at the Texas relays, with Sanders, O'Neil and Hardin running the last three legs, Blair won the javelin toss at Austin with a 206-6 1-8 effort.

State's collective strength suffered a setback when two outstanding athletes were injured in the opening competition, the Southwestern relays. Ralph Newell, broad jumper and speedster, was spiked and may be lost for the season. Eleven stitches were taken in his right foot. Winfred Whipple, a broad jumper, suffered a pulled muscle that may prevent him from entering further meets this year.

But Bernie has some pleasingly promising sophomores, and it's on these performers that he's centering his attention as the Tigers prepare for an exceedingly tough national campaign.

In addition to several dual meets, L. S. U. will defend its title in the Southeastern conference tournament, and compete in the Penn relays, the national intercollegiate A. A. U., the southern A. A. U. and the national A. A. U. meets.

OUACHITA THIRD IN TRACK MEET

Staples Leads Lions' Scoring In Events At Haynesville

Competing against the best track teams in north Louisiana and south Arkansas, the Ouachita parish high school track team finished third in the annual Arkansas-Louisiana track meet at Haynesville yesterday. Sixteen teams were entered, with Coushatta winning first place and Haynesville finishing second.

The Lions scored 20 points, with Truman Staples leading the scoring for the Monroe squad. Staples won the shot put event, tossing the iron ball 46 feet, nine inches. He finished second in the 100 yard dash, second in the 220 and third in the discus.

The battle for first honors between Staples and Jackson of Coushatta in the hundred was the feature of the meet. It seemed that the two boys had run a dead heat but the officials ruled that the Coushatta star had breasted the tape a fraction of a second ahead of Staples. Jackson, who holds that state title in the hundred and 220, also captured the 220 at Haynesville, with Staples again pressing him.

Butler, of Coushatta, won first place in the 440, while the Lion relay team of Butler, McHenry, Warren and Trimble, was third.

A severe hail storm swept the track as the meet ended.

Coach Ben Rush said last night that the Ouachita track squad would compete in an invitational meet at Ruston next Friday afternoon. Four or five teams of this section will enter the meet, which will be run off on the Louisiana Tech track, Coach Rush said.

The Lion mentor was well pleased with the showing of his squad at Haynesville yesterday, he said. Some strong teams competed and the fact that the Ouachita squad finished third indicates that the local cindermen will show up well in the north Louisiana events.

Vanderbilt Track Team Easily Defeats Panthers

The Commodore runners and jumpers scored 12 firsts out of a possible 15 in their first victory of the season after losing to Centre college last week by a narrow margin.

TIGERS SHADE REDS

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 6.—(AP)—After fanning three straight times, Hank Greenberg hit a hot line single in the thirteenth inning today to pull an exhibition baseball game out of the fire for the Detroit Tigers. The final score was 3 to 2, with the Cincinnati Reds on the short side of the tally sheet.

Four thousand fans, the largest crowd that either club has attracted this season, witnessed the overtime contest.

Cincinnati (N) 000 000 020 000 0—2 7 3
Detroit (A) 200 000 000 000 1—3 9 0

PHILS CRUSH A'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—(AP)—Major baseball made its 1935 debut in Philadelphia today, with the Phillies crushing their townsmen, the Athletics, 10 to 2, under a 17-hit barrage.

With Curt Davis and Syl Johnson holding the A's to seven hits, the Phils landed on Alton Benton, Roy Mahaffey and Sugar Cain, nicking each for runs as they scored in the second, fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth innings.

Philadelphia (A) 200 000 000— 2 7 2
Philadelphia (N) 010 242 01x—10 17 1

GIANTS ROUT CHICKS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 6.—(AP)—With Clyde Castleman pitching three-hit ball and his mates staging an 11-run attack in the second inning, the New York Giants easily defeated the Memphis Chicks of the Southern association 15 to 0 in their first game of the spring with a minor league club today.

RED SOX BLANK BARONS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox combined heavy hitting with near-perfect pitching to whitewash the Birmingham Barons 10-0 in an exhibition game today.

The Sox batters banged out 14 hits, including a home run by Cooke.

"Dusty" Rhodes and "Rube" Walberg allowed but two hits each, all singles, and passed none.

Score by innings:
Boston (A) .....000 213 130—10 14 0
Birmingham (SA) 000 000 000— 0 4 1

DODGERS WALLOP RIVALS

ORLANDO, Fla., April 6.—(AP)—Dazzy Vance, making his first appearance on the mound since returning to Brooklyn for a trial, pitched effective ball today as the Dodgers defeated the Montreal Royals of the International league 12 to 2 in a game halted in the last half of the seventh by rain.

Vance, hurling five innings, allowed only three hits and one of the two runs scored off him was due to three errors.

Score by innings:
Montreal (IL) ....010 010 0— 2 3 2
Brooklyn (N) ....430 103 1—12 14 3
(Called end of seventh, rain)

PIRATES, CHISOX WIN

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 6.—(AP)—Home run support by Paul Waner and Arky Vaughan to Waite Hoyt's three-hit pitching today gave the Pittsburgh Pirates at 2 to 0 victory over the Texas league Fort Worth Panthers.

The game was called at the end of the seventh by agreement so the White Sox could take on the Panthers—and they, too, won, 7 to 1.

Claude Jonnard, former major leaguer, hurled for Fort Worth and gave up nine hits, three of them by Paul Waner, whose fifth inning homer soared some 400 feet.

L. S. U. TRACKMEN NOSE OUT RICE IN CLOSE DUAL MEET

Tigers Win Last Event On Program To Cop Victory, 60 To 57

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6.—(AP)—Coming from behind to win the last event, the mile relay, Louisiana State university's spike men blazed to a brilliant finish today to beat Rice, 60 to 27, and keep their four-year unbeaten dual meet record intact.

No records of consequence was bettered except the Southeastern conference 220 hurdle mark which "Slats" Hardin improved upon with 23.2 time, the track being heavy after torrential rain.

It was a great meet for the spectators, but until the finish Louisiana State supporters saw victory fading as the Purple and Gold athletes seemed unable to close a gap created by the Owls, who won the century, the shot-put and 440 at the start of competition.

The great Hardin, with a leg injury, was kept out of everything but the low hurdles by Coach Bernie Moore and it looked like the loss of his services was going to cost Louisiana State the meet.

Then L. S. U. took the broad jump, with Rice placing second to make the score, Rice, 57, L. S. U. 55, and the crowd verged on hysteria as the Baton men lined up for the deciding relay.

"No Name" Black of Louisiana State plunged off to a lead that he stretched to a 15-yard advantage in the first round over Metzler. Sanders maintained it over Sparks in the second, and Roberts over Haley in the third lap.

A crowd of several thousand went wild as Rice's flashing Louis "Smoky" Brothers, who had earlier beaten Black in the 440 in 48 seconds, assumed the task of cutting down the lead against O'Neil, Louisiana anchor runner.

Running like a deer, Brothers reduced the lead yard by yard but couldn't quite overtake O'Neil who came in a winner by five yards.

Rice ran away with the 220 yards, Brothers and Haley taking first and second.

Hardin, after watching Billy Wallace's back most of the way in the low hurdles, put on a sharp spurt to pass him just before the finish.

Roberts of L. S. U. ran a surprisingly strong race to win the high hurdles, with Oliver of Rice second. Wallace of Rice and Cazzell of L. S. U. who were trailing, both stumbled over hurdles and fell.

Summary:

220 hurdles: First, Hardin, L. S. U.; second, Wallace, Rice. Time 23.2.

Sav-Mor Softball Club Plays Two Games Today

The Sav-Mor Grocers tangle in another softball doubleheader this afternoon when they face the Slagle-Johnson Lumbermen in one game and the Publishers of last year's Twilight league, in another. The opening game, with the Lumbermen, will start at 1:30 o'clock on the Barkdull Faulk diamond.

NEW JERSEY PRO GETS 68 DESPITE STORMY WEATHER

Picard In Third Place, With Dutra Second, One Stroke Behind

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—(AP)—The "Hershey Hurricane" turned out to be just a zephyr today compared to the blustery rainstorm that swept the classic Augusta national links, with the result that blond Craig Wood, the "belting beauty" from Deal, N. J., rode the crest of a great third round to overtake Henry G. Picard of Hershey, Pa., and assume the pace-setting role in the $5,000 invitation golf tournament.

Wood played the most spectacular round of the tournament, as he overcame the hazards of weather and course for a 68, four under par. It gave him a 54 hole total of 209—seven under perfect figures for three rounds—and a one shot lead over the national open champion, Olin Dutra of California, who registered his third successive 70 for an aggregate of 210.

Picard, who started out at the height of the storm with a two-day count of 135 and a four shot lead over his nearest pursuer, quickly went into a slump, rallied and then went into reverse again on the home stretch. He wound up with a 76, a far cry from his previous rounds of 67 and 68, and finished the day in third place, with 211, two shots behind the new leader and one stroke in front of Gene Sarazen, whose 73 gave him an aggregate of 212.

Separated by only three strokes, these four—Wood, Dutra, Picard and Sarazen—figured to fight it out for the biggest slice of the prize money tomorrow. The only others with even a remote chance to figure in the struggle for first place were the veteran Walter Hagen and Denny Shute, each with 214 in a tie for fifth position.

During a day that saw Old Man Par floored only four times, as compared to 24 knockdowns in the previous two rounds, the eminent Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., number 1 host and drawing card, had to be satisfied with a respectable but uninspired 73, which gave him a 54 hole total of 219, ten strokes behind the leader and deadlocked for 16th place in the field of 65 players.

Monarchs Open Series With New York Today

Flashing the form of the great teams of 1931 and '32, the Monroe Monarchs, with the addition of Leroy Morney, gave evidence of improvement during this week's training. Morney, former star infielder with the local team and later outstanding National league star with the Columbus Blue Birds, Pittsburgh Crawfords and Homestead Grays, returned to Monroe last Sunday. It is thought his presence will be the rounding out of one of the best infields in negro baseball.

Manager Frank Johnson said that the week-end games with the New York Tigers should prove how far his team has come during spring practice. The Monarchs will play the Tigers today and Monday, he said. The locals meet the Crawfords on Easter Sunday.

The New York nine will present three of the best players on any diamond, it was announced. Richard Gee, hard hitting outfielder; Rojo, infielder, and Marcelle, said to be the best third baseman in uniform, are members of the team.

Today's game will begin at 3 p.m. Barney Morris will probably start for the locals. Monday's tilt will get under way at 3:30.

Five Clubs Expected To Figure In Southern Race

By Francis Carpenter
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7.—(AP)—Five clubs—and it's a hard matter to put a finger on any one of them—stand out today as potential pennant winners in the 1935 Southern association baseball race.

With little more than a week before the league season opens a survey of the situation shows Atlanta, Memphis, Chattanooga, New Orleans and Nashville already looking longingly at the pennant and backing up their hopes with good material.

Atlanta, figuring things closer, probably is more on the spot than the other clubs. The Crackers for some time have passed since a new pennant was raised over Ponce de Leon park in Georgia. The dynamic Eddie Moore is manager this year.

Unlike five other league fellows, Atlanta can't look to a "big brother" in the major leagues for direct aid. But the Crackers boast a decided asset in the Vanndale Viking, Harry Kelley, late of the Memphis Chicks and a pitcher who has a habit of staying good.

Kelley is looking forward to a big season with the Crackers.

Last year's pennant winners, the Pelicans of New Orleans, have two advantages that make them dangerous. There is Larry Gilbert in his accustomed place as manager and there is a tie-up with the Cleveland Indians.

New Orleans has won for two years straight now and the Pels will put up a stiff fight to make it three in a row. Besides, they have the Dixie championship to defend.

Nashville clashed with New Orleans in the play-off last year and will be back in the race this season determined to cause trouble. With aid from the New York Giants and with Frank Brazill at the helm, the Vols are well fitted for the campaign. Brazill is new in the managerial role at Nashville.

Memphis enters the campaign Tuesday week minus the leadership of the veteran Doc Prothro, who has transferred his allegiance to Little Rock. The chicks have a new pilot in the person of Fred Hoffman, one-time New York Yankee catcher. Memphis doesn't have a pipe-line from the big leagues but the Chicks are always dangerous.

Another new manager is in the seat at Chattanooga—Mule Shirley. Chattanooga is looking to Washington for help this season and Shirley has gathered about him a bunch of hustling lads who are eager to go places.

The other three clubs—Knoxville, Birmingham and Little Rock—have improved their rosters but are not counted on to cause much trouble.

Knoxville is tied up with the Boston Red Sox and has retained its old manager, Lee Head. Clyde Milan remains at the helm in Birmingham, and has the decided good wishes of a big league outfit, the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Prothro is determined to see what he can do with a Little Rock club which he has strengthened somewhat.

With Atlanta casting a lone negative vote, the league directors this winter adopted the Shaughnessy play-off system for one year. This plan gives the four first-division clubs an equal opportunity at the end of the season to win.

The first division outfits engage in a post-season series. The first team meets the fourth place club and the second and third ranking teams clash until one team in each bracket wins three games. The winners then engage in a 7-game series for the pennant.

A heated race is in prospect—the owners are counting on steadily-clicking turnstiles—and the Southern association Derby gets under way April 15.

Cambridge Crew Beats Oxford In Annual Race

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 6.—(AP)—Oxford's hopes of wresting British rowing supremacy from her classic rival failed again today when Cambridge's stylish crew swept up the Thames to an easy victory in their 87th boat race on the historic, winding river.

With a daring coxswain, J. N. Duckworth, getting the utmost of their suberb oarsmanship, the Cambridge eight finished the four and one-quarter miles four and one-half lengths clear of a rowed-out Oxford crew.

It was the 12th successive victory for the Cantabs and the 46th of the series, 40 having been won by the Oxonians and one ending in a dead heat.

Cal Hubbard Resigns As Member Of A. & M. Staff

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, April 6.—(AP)—Cal Hubbard, Texas A. & M. line coach, has resigned and Bill James, former Texas university line coach, and Bill Dimmitt, Beaumont high school mentor, have been signed as coaches of the Aggie footballers.

James, recently dismissed from the University of Texas staff after nine years of service, probably will replace Hubbard, former professional star.

SOFTBALL PLEA

The recent ruling of the Y's Men's club that no player under 25 years of age may compete in the Twilight league this season has removed a number of softball players from circulation. Apparently some of these players want to continue in active competition and one of them has taken the trouble to write this column a letter in which a plea is made for the "outcasts."

The letter follows:

"In your columns a few days ago you made mention of the fact that there are some hundred or so softball addicts in Monroe that will be denied the privilege of playing in the Twilight league as that league has voted a minimum age limit of 25 years.

"I believe that there could be organized another league in the city. Of course, the eligibility rules would have to be more elastic than the rules governing the Twilight league. Why can't we have a league that plays twice a week, say Wednesdays and Sundays, without an age limit? Such a league would not interfere with the Twilight league and would give everyone an opportunity to play. I believe that if such a league were formed there would be ten or twelve teams to enter. Why can't those interested get together and see what can be done?

"Yours very truly,
"SOFTBALL FAN."

Perhaps there are other fans and players who feel that another league can be organized here. The Y's Men's club has made it plain that they would not consider a new league as encroaching on their territory. In fact, they have urged that such a league be formed, although they couldn't be expected to sponsor two circuits. One is hard enough to handle.

There's no reason why another league, which would take care of the player under 25 years of age, could not be formed. It is probable that the National Guard, St. Matthew's, Firemen, Publishers and one or two other teams will be unable to enter the Twilight league this year because of the 25 year rule.

Players on the Publishers team tell me they would like to enter some kind of league which did not bar players under 25. Any other club which would care to enter such an organization is invited to write this column and perhaps a new circuit can be organized.

NEVILLE TO MEET BULLPUPS MONDAY

Tigers Hope To Even Series With Louisiana Tech Frosh Here

The Tiger nine of Neville high school, a little more experienced by a 10 to 0 defeat in their initial game of the season at the hands of the Louisiana Tech Bullpups on the Ruston diamond Thursday, will be out to even the series tomorrow afternoon when they meet the Tech freshmen in a return engagement at Forsythe park at 3 o'clock. The game will be the Bengals' second of the season.

Bunching their hits and captalizing on Tiger errors, the Pups lost no time in taking advantage of every chance to score and pushed runs across the plate in all but two of their innings at bat last week, but Coach Percy Brown has spent the intervening days drilling his squad and correcting their mistakes and believes the locals will be able to put up a closer battle with the invaders tomorrow.

Despite the onesidedness of the score Thursday the Frosh were limited to seven hits by Milo Mattinson and Ed Stroud, who are expected to get the call for mound duty again. The arm of Stanley Lewis held the locals in check at Ruston but the Bengals believe everybody has their weak and strong moments and that Lewis, if he faces them, will find plenty of trouble in the game Monday.

Jack Muffs Chance To Get A Big Dishwasher

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Max Baer wiped away the mayonnaise from the chin that can take it, smiled at the assembled admirers, and bade them adieu.

He had nearly reached the exit of the restaurant when Jack Dempsey the proprietor, tapped him on the shoulder.

"That will be sixty cents," said the ex-Manassa Mauler who now specializes in special cuts instead of upper cuts.

"See my manager," Baer replied, with a wave of his kid gloves. "I haven't had sixty cents since I won the world's heavyweight championship. My lawyers get 66 2-3, my manager gets 33 1-3, and on top of that I've sold 40 per cent of myself."

Dempsey sighed, and the cashier rang up "no sale."

QUALIFYING ROUND ENDS AT LAKESIDE

Today Last Day For Posting Scores; 36 Already Entered In Meet

The qualifying round in the annual spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club will close today and first round matches will be started Monday.

Thirty-six golfers already have posted their qualifying scores and indications are that at least 45 players will be seeking the 32 places in the tournament. According to the scores already posted, it probably will take a net 76 to qualify, Manager Shep Girault said last night.

There will be four flights of eight players each and pairings will be made after today's round is completed. Pairings for match play will be announced Monday. There will be a prize for each flight, with a grand prize for the tourney winner. One week will be allowed for the completion of each round.

R. T. Harberson, 83-8-75; Wilson Ewing, 86-11-75; H. K. Touchstone, 76-4-72; Jack Warren, 85-11-74; W. M. Washburn, 101-25-76; J. L. Keenan, 84-11-73; J. S. Washburn, 91-17-74; Tip Schier, 87-13-74; Ben Downing, Jr., 86-12-74; M. S. Biedenharn, 95-24-71; S. L. Digby, 113-25-88; Ben Downing, 83-13-70; W. S. Shafto, 76-2-74; J. H. Trousdale, 100-25-75; M. C. McDonald, 83-9-74; Bun Beasley, 81-4-77; Jack Rogers, 86-9-77.

C. W. Wallace, 92-14-78; E. J. Seymour, 94-18-76; J. E. Godfrey, 92-13-79; T. O. Bancroft, 89-10-79; George Weaks, 113-25-88; H. H. Reardon, 92-11-81; John Sherrouse, 90-16-74; W. L. James, 89-21-68; R. R. Barfield, 95-21-74; S. M. McReyonlds, 92-19-73; Travis Oliver, 91-20-71; Frank Farmer, 107-25-82; A. B. Clarkson, 99-18-81; C. C. Boardman, 94-14-80; H. G. Frazer, 91-18-73; Ernest Holloway, 100-20-80; W. C. Scott, 92-24-68; C. S. Foster, 85-13-72; and R. McWilliams, 98-23-75.

LITTLE LEADS IN AMATEUR BATTLE

U. S. And British Champion Has 216; Haas Fourth With 223

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—(AP)—Blazing his way over a soggy course in a brilliant 70, two strokes under par, W. Lawson Little, Jr., United States and British champion, took a commanding lead today in the battle for amateur honors in the Augusta National invitation tournament.

The San Francisco sharpshooter had a total of 216 for the 54 holes and moved into the final round of the 72 hole affair with a three stroke lead over his closest threat, Johnny Dawson, "business-man" amateur from Chicago, who fired a 72, even par, for a total of 219.

Charlie Yates of Atlanta, national intercollegiate champion, who paced the field through the halfway mark, dropped to third place, taking a 75 in the third round for an aggregate thus far of 221. Two strokes behind Yates was Fred Haas, Jr., the youthful champion from New Orleans, with 223.

Haas, Louisiana State University sophomore, added a 38-37-75 to his 148 through 36 holes and was 10 strikes in front of Chandler Egan of Demonte, Calif., and Leland Hamman of Paris, Tex., who were tied at 233. Jack Munger, Duke university student from Dallas was next with 234 and Jack Westland of Chicago brought up the rear with a 236.

After touring the first four holes in standard figures, Haas lost a stroke to par on the fifth and went two over on the ninth when his spoon second sailed over the green. On the 10th he was trapped and on the 11th his ball rolled into a deep divot, forcing him to drop two strokes on these holes.

The Louisiana youth got his par on the 12th and then lashed a beautiful brassie 15 feet from the cup on the difficult 13th, barely missing his putt for an eagle, sinking for a birdie four. He got his par on 14, but lost a stroke on 15, taking a six after his tee shot landed in a road and his approach sailed far over the green. He was down in par on the next two and shaved a stroke from regulation figures on the 18th as his approach struck the flag and dropped six feet away, sinking for a birdie three.

Big Four Baseball Loop Is Organized At Clarks

CLARKS, La., April 6.—(Special)—The Big Four league was organized Thursday night at a meeting held at Hotel White. The teams which will comprise the circuit are Clarks, Kelly, Chatham CC camp and Sikes CC camp. At the meeting, Lieut. Padgett represented Chatham, Lieut. Cox, Sikes; Milliard Delcoure, Clarks, and H. C. Mayes and W. H. McGhee, Kelly. P. J. Goodnight was elected president and W. L. McDermott was appointed secretary.

The league voted to play one game each Sunday with the schedule opening on April 28th.

The player limit for Clarks and Kelly will be 18 men each but on account of army regulations the other teams could not be restricted. No class men will be allowed as the league is strictly amateur. There is a possibility of two more teams entering the league at a later date.

. . . already has topped 206 feet.

By Quincy Ewing

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6.—(AP)—Turning back from football to his old love, the training of Louisiana State university's great track and field athletes, Bernie Moore is dubious about how good his purple and gold spikemen will be this spring.

His first spring practice at L. S. U. head football coach finished, Moore is analyzing his thinly-clad material in hopes of developing a squad comparable to those of the last two season.

His 1933 Tigers amazed the track world by sweeping to the team championship in the National Collegiate A. A. games at Chicago and last year his athletes annexed the staggering total of 26 records—four world marks, three N. C. A. A. standards, two national A. A. U., nine southern A. A. U., five southeastern conference and three Drake relays records.

Many of these, of course, were achieved by that super shot-putter, Jack Torrance, whose graduation Bernie duly bemoans. But his next most prolific producer of new records, Glenn "Slats" Hardin, is still available, warming up along with the weather and likely to set new heights of performance in the 400 and the low hurdles.

The best of the Tiger weight men this year are more than 10 feet behind Torrance's epochal 57-foot efforts.

In addition to Hardin, the stars Moore is depending on to lay away most of the points are Nathan "Buddy" Blair in the javelin, John Sanders in the mile and two miles, and Ted O'Neil in the 880 and mile.

Already this spring the Tigers have notched one new record, a meet standard of 7:51.6 for the two-mile relay at the Texas relays, with Sanders, O'Neil and Hardin running the last three legs, Blair won the javelin toss at Austin with a 206-6 1-8 effort.

State's collective strength suffered a setback when two outstanding athletes were injured in the opening competition, the Southwestern relays. Ralph Newell, broad jumper and speedster, was spiked and may be lost for the season. Eleven stitches were taken in his right foot. Winfred Whipple, a broad jumper, suffered a pulled muscle that may prevent him from entering further meets this year.

But Bernie has some pleasingly promising sophomores, and it's on these performers that he's centering his attention as the Tigers prepare for an exceedingly tough national campaign.

In addition to several dual meets, L. S. U. will defend its title in the Southeastern conference tournament, and compete in the Penn relays, the national intercollegiate A. A. U., the southern A. A. U. and the national A. A. U. meets.

OUACHITA THIRD IN TRACK MEET

Competing against the best track teams in north Louisiana and south Arkansas, the Ouachita parish high school track team finished third in the annual Arkansas-Louisiana track meet at Haynesville yesterday. Sixteen teams were entered, with Coushatta winning first place and Haynesville finishing second.

The Lions scored 20 points, with Truman Staples leading the scoring for the Monroe squad. Staples won the shot put event, tossing the iron ball 46 feet, nine inches. He finished second in the 100 yard dash, second in the 220 and third in the discus.

The battle for first honors between Staples and Jackson of Coushatta in the hundred was the feature of the meet. It seemed that the two boys had run a dead heat but the officials ruled that the Coushatta star had breasted the tape a fraction of a second ahead of Staples. Jackson, who holds that state title in the hundred and 220, also captured the 220 at Haynesville, with Staples again pressing him.

Butler, of Coushatta, won first place in the 440, while the Lion relay team of Butler, McHenry, Warren and Trimble, was third.

A severe hail storm swept the track as the meet ended.

Coach Ben Rush said last night that the Ouachita track squad would compete in an invitational meet at Ruston next Friday afternoon. Four or five teams of this section will enter the meet, which will be run off on the Louisiana Tech track, Coach Rush said.

The Lion mentor was well pleased with the showing of his squad at Haynesville yesterday, he said. Some strong teams competed and the fact that the Ouachita squad finished third indicates that the local cindermen will show up well in the north Louisiana events.

Vanderbilt Track Team Easily Defeats Panthers

The Commodore runners and jumpers scored 12 firsts out of a possible 15 in their first victory of the season after losing to Centre college last week by a narrow margin.

TIGERS SHADE REDS

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 6.—(AP)—After fanning three straight times, Hank Greenberg hit a hot line single in the thirteenth inning today to pull an exhibition baseball game out of the fire for the Detroit Tigers. The final score was 3 to 2, with the Cincinnati Reds on the short side of the tally sheet.

Four thousand fans, the largest crowd that either club has attracted this season, witnessed the overtime contest.

PHILS CRUSH A'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—(AP)—Major baseball made its 1935 debut in Philadelphia today, with the Phillies crushing their townsmen, the Athletics, 10 to 2, under a 17-hit barrage.

With Curt Davis and Syl Johnson holding the A's to seven hits, the Phils landed on Alton Benton, Roy Mahaffey and Sugar Cain, nicking each for runs as they scored in the second, fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth innings.

Homers by George Watkins and Johnny Moore led the Phils' attack, with Dolph Camilli contributing a triple.

L. S. U. TRACKMEN NOSE OUT RICE IN CLOSE DUAL MEET

Tigers Win Last Event On Program To Cop Victory, 60 To 57

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6.—(AP)—Coming from behind to win the last event, the mile relay, Louisiana State university's spike men blazed to a brilliant finish today to beat Rice, 60 to 27, and keep their four-year unbeaten dual meet record intact.

No records of consequence was bettered except the Southeastern conference 220 hurdle mark which "Slats" Hardin improved upon with 23.2 time, the track being heavy after torrential rain.

It was a great meet for the spectators, but until the finish Louisiana State supporters saw victory fading as the Purple and Gold athletes seemed unable to close a gap created by the Owls, who won the century, the shot-put and 440 at the start of competition.

The great Hardin, with a leg injury, was kept out of everything but the low hurdles by Coach Bernie Moore and it looked like the loss of his services was going to cost Louisiana State the meet.

Then L. S. U. took the broad jump, with Rice placing second to make the score, Rice, 57, L. S. U. 55, and the crowd verged on hysteria as the Baton men lined up for the deciding relay.

"No Name" Black of Louisiana State plunged off to a lead that he stretched to a 15-yard advantage in the first round over Metzler. Sanders maintained it over Sparks in the second, and Roberts over Haley in the third lap.

A crowd of several thousand went wild as Rice's flashing Louis "Smoky" Brothers, who had earlier beaten Black in the 440 in 48 seconds, assumed the task of cutting down the lead against O'Neil, Louisiana anchor runner.

Running like a deer, Brothers reduced the lead yard by yard but couldn't quite overtake O'Neil who came in a winner by five yards.

Rice ran away with the 220 yards, Brothers and Haley taking first and second.

Hardin, after watching Billy Wallace's back most of the way in the low hurdles, put on a sharp spurt to pass him just before the finish.

Roberts of L. S. U. ran a surprisingly strong race to win the high hurdles, with Oliver of Rice second, Wallace of Rice and Cazzell of L. S. U. who were trailing, both stumbled over hurdles and fell.

Summary:

Sav-Mor Softball Club Plays Two Games Today

The Sav-Mor Grocers tangle in another softball doubleheader this afternoon when they face the Slagle-Johnson Lumbermen in one game and the Publishers of last year's Twilight league, in another. The opening game, with the Lumbermen, will start at 1:30 o'clock on the Barkdull Faulk diamond.

KELLY MEETS M'INTYRE IN RETURN BOUT WEDNESDAY

NO TIME LIMIT FOR SCIENTIFIC BOUT THIS WEEK

Popular Young Wrestlers Matched Again By Request Of Fans

Ernest Kelly, the expert Tennesseean, and Don McIntyre, clever Pennsylvanian, have been matched for a return bout at Roosevelt stadium for next Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night.

Kelly and McIntyre, both "clean" wrestlers, staged the best mat bout ever presented at the stadium a couple of weeks ago and Bruscato has been deluged with requests for another dose. There wasn't a foul committed during their long struggle and the action had the audience applauding throughout.

Kelly won their first meeting but the Tennesseean didn't have any wide edge. The match went almost two hours and it was an even battle most of the way. Each showed plenty of scientific wrestling, with McIntyre having the advantage as far as variety of holds was concerned, but Kelly showing an ability to break the grips that McIntyre wasn't able to match.

McIntyre wasn't satisfied after it was all over and he asked Bruscato to match him again with the Tennessee beauty. The Pennsylvanian said he felt confident he could beat Kelly in a return match. The fans also asked for another version of the Kelly-McIntyre feud, so Bruscato is going to give it to them.

"It seems every wrestling fan in town wants to see McIntyre and Kelly in up again," Bruscato said yesterday. "If indications mean anything, there won't be standing room at the stadium Wednesday night."

Bruscato said he would lay away tickets for those who call him early this week. There are no reserved seats at the stadium but the capacity is limited and there will be no crowding, the promoter said.

When the two scientific youngsters met before, it was thought for awhile that they might wrestle their allotted two hours without either being able to win that third and deciding fall. They finally came in under the wire, with Kelly the victor, but Bruscato isn't taking any chances this week. There won't be any time limit. Usually the main event is limited to two hours, but the boys may wrestle all night Wednesday if it takes that to gain a decision.

Bruscato said he would line up a top-notch semi-final in an effort to make Wednesday's card an all-star show. There will be no advance in admission price.

MICKAL'S INJURY REPORTED HEALED

Operation On Louisiana State Star's Knee Is Successful

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—(AP)—Louisiana State university rooters may have the opportunity to cheer "Yay, Abe" again this fall for their football star, Abe Mickal, has a chance to sport once again in the brilliant fashion that has stamped him as one of the nation's most adept halfbacks.

Mickal injured his knee toward midseason last year, in the Mississippi State game, and saw little action the rest of the season.

Abe is recovering from an operation in a hospital here which physicians say was "highly successful," and promises to see the bullet-passing Abe again in a Tiger uniform next season. Dr. H. T. Simon performed the operation, to remove a "semi-lunar cartilage," and stated he was satisfied the operation had been successful. Dr. Simon has operated on 15 other L. S. U. football players successfully.

Mickal himself, the boy whom Senator Huey P. Long admired in football so much he considered naming him a state senator, is jubilant that he will be able to play again.

It was Abe who flung two touchdown passes and booted a pair of extra points against Southern Methodist early last year to tie the Mustangs, 7-7. The Tiger star was at his best against Vanderbilt when his rifle passes and thrilling running gains brought L. S. U. a 29 to 0 conquest with nearly the entire student body, band and military corps looking on. At one time Mickal kicked 19 consecutive points after touchdown. He is considered one of the finest passers and kickers the south ever produced.

After his injury Mickal was groomed for several games late in the season against Tulane, Tennessee and Boston, but a few moments of playing would bring out the old injury again and Mickal would be out of the game.

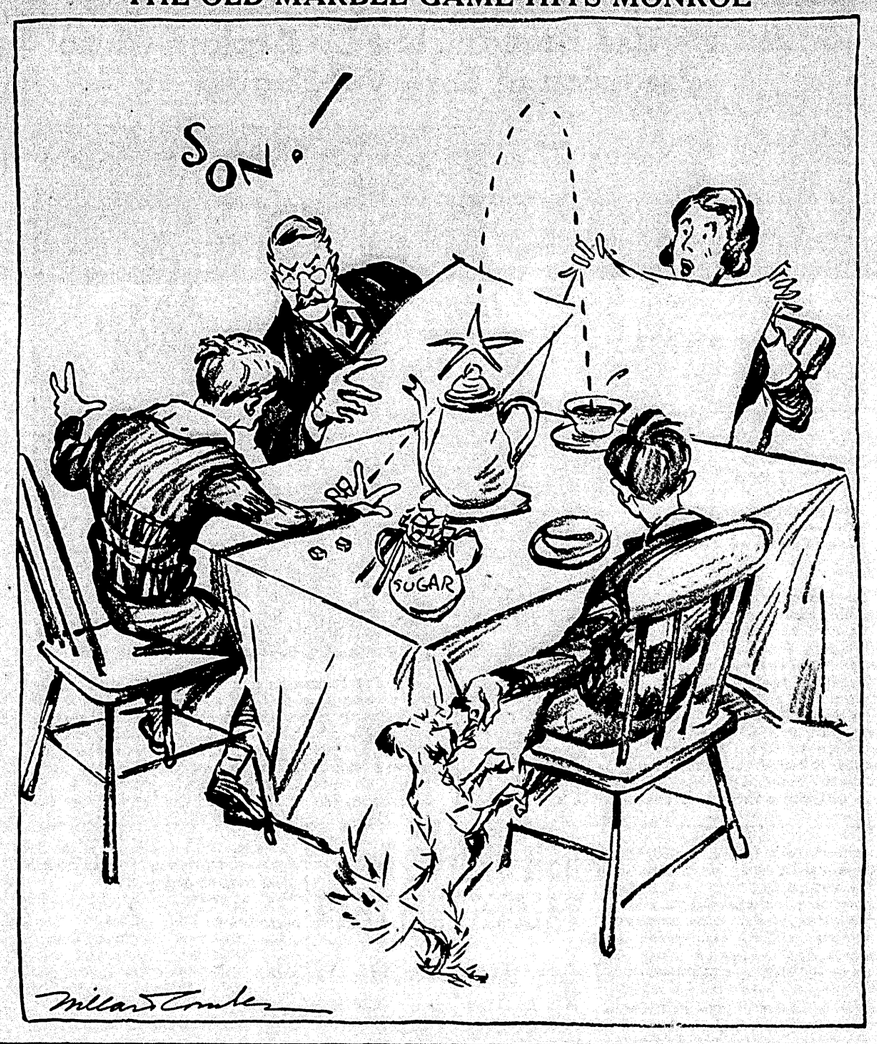
THE OLD MARBLE GAME HITS MONROE



BOLTON NETTERS WIN FROM LIONS

Long Duel Between Kennedy And Cantrell Features Meet Here

Bolton high school's tennis team won a hard fought match from Ouachita parish high school here yesterday, the Alexandrians winning, 10 to 5. The matches were played at the Barkdull Faulk courts.

The feature match of the program was a bitter duel between Dawson Kennedy, Ouachita's No. 1 player, and Johnny Cantrell, ace of the Bolton squad, with Cantrell winning two overtime sets, 9-7, 15-13. It was a spectacular battle, with Kennedy finally dropping his first match of the season. The Ouachita star has swept through all opposition this season, having defeated Cantrell in a previous match at Alexandria.

Six of the matches went three sets, with Bolton netters taking four of the long battles.

Ouachita will enter the north Louisiana tennis tourney at Ruston next Friday and Saturday.

The summary:

Boys singles:

Johnny Cantrell, Bolton, beat Dawson Kennedy, 9-7, 15-13.

James Crotwell, Ouachita, beat John Soden, 6-3, 6-3.

John B. Fudickar, Ouachita, beat Joe Cagle, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Luckett Yawn, Bolton, beat Billy Gannaway, 6-1, 6-4.

Bert Welch, Bolton, beat Jack Hackley, 5-7, 8-6, 6-1.

Girls singles:

Girls doubles:

Edgar and Bunn, Bolton, beat Moffett and Sholars, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Boys doubles:

Kennedy and Patton, Ouachita, beat Cantrell and Fowler, 6-2, 6-1.

Cagle and Yawn, Bolton, beat Gannaway and Crotwell, 6-3, 6-2.

Welch and Soden, Bolton, beat Fudickar and Hackley, 0-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Mixed doubles:

Bunn and Fowler, Bolton, beat Boyd and Patton, 7-5, 6-2.

Edgar and Cagle, Bolton, beat Moffett and Crotwell, 6-8, 6-3, 6-1.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB TO HOLD GOLF TOURNEY

The Y's Men's club will hold its second golf tournament of the spring season today, with a handicap meet to be played over the Municipal course this afternoon. The tourney will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Following are the players who have registered for today's tourney:

Joe Westmoreland, Doc Bennett, Ralph Corn, Red Washburn, Louis Turner, Mark Ringheim, Art Woodruff, Lelas Hale, Dr. Prentiss Gray and George Hemphill.

Other members of the club who wish to compete may report to Louis Turner, chairman of the athletic committee of the club, before starting time today. All players are urged to be at the Muny club not later than 1:30 o'clock.

The club recently staged a flag tournament.

Davis Cup Star Beats Hall And Tackles Atlantan At Houston

HOUSTON, April 6.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison, Davis cup star and number one tennis player of the United States, won his way into the finals of the River Oaks Country club invitational tourney this afternoon, defeating Gilbert Hall of New Jersey, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Allison will meet the diminutive star, "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta, in the finals Sunday afternoon.

The Texas netter got away to a ragged start in his match with the veteran Hall this afternoon. He broke a string in his favorite racquet and it seemed to upset him.

Hall took advantage of every break, breaking Allison's service five times and serving three aces. He continued his attack by taking the first game of the second set, but Allison regained his control and fought his way through three straight games.

From here he went on to win the second set. Hall again led in the third set, 4 and 3, only to have his lead wiped away. He also led in the fourth, 4 and 2, but couldn't stand up under Allison's rally.

The final point in the match game was close to the back line, was called in by the referee, and the victory went to Allison. The Texan asked permission to play the point over, however, claiming his return was outside. Hall insisted that it was inside, refused to play it over and the match was over.

Tech Defeats Chocs Again To Win Series

CLINTON, Miss., April 6.—(AP)—Louisiana Tech of Ruston defeated the Mississippi college Choctaws this afternoon, bunching its hits to win 4 to 1. The win gave the Louisianians the series with the Clinton nine, three games out of four.

Ole Miss Golf Team Wins Easily From Wave Squad

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 6.—(AP)—Behind the spectacular subpar golf of Walter Welty, the Ole Miss Wolf team trounced the Tulane aggregation by a 7 1-2 to 1 1-2 count here this afternoon before a large gallery.

Heavy rain last night slowed up the play quite a bit but the match was featured by spectacular recoveries. Welty won both his matches over Doray of Tulane by a 30 to 37 margin in the outgoing nine and a 33 to 34 margin in the incoming round. Layden lost his first nine by a one-point margin to Monsted of Tulane but won the incoming round by the same count. Ineligibility robbed Tulane of two players and the matches were played with two-man teams.

	Out	In	Total
Welty M	30	33	63
Layden M	37	33	70
Doray T	37	34	71
Monsted T	36	34	70

MARBLE TOURNEY WILL BE STAGED

LIONS WIN FROM SIMSBORO, 4 TO 1

Sherrard Holds Opponents To Four Hits To Give Ouachita Victory

Ouachita parish high school's baseball team added another victory yesterday when the Lions trimmed Simsboro, 4 to 1, in a well-played game. The contest was played at Simsboro.

Wright Sherrard, Ouachita ace, held the Simsboro club to four scattered hits, two of them coming in the ninth, while the Lions were piling up 10 off Rogers. Pate led the Lion attack with two hits, while Sherrard helped his own cause along with a double. Rasbury, Simsboro catcher, also hit a double for the only other extra base blow of the game.

The Lions got two hits in the first inning but were unable to score. However, Ouachita pushed over three runs in the second on three hits and added their fourth run in the sixth on a walk and Sherrard's double. The Lions went hitless only in the third, seventh and ninth innings.

Simsboro scored its only run in the fourth on a walk, a stolen base and a single.

Eddie Bowles, Ouachita outfielder who has been out of the lineup on account of illness, returned to uniform yesterday and played part of the game. He got a single.

NEUGASS BREAKS PAIR OF RECORDS

Tulane Sprint Star Cracks 100, 220 Marks But Alabama Wins

UNIVERSITY, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—Herman Neugass, Tulane sprint star, cracked two Southeastern conference records at Denny field this afternoon, but his efforts failed to keep Alabama from running up a lop-sided 80 1-2 to 25 1-2 victory.

Neugass, after a slow start, was clocked at 9.5 seconds in the 100-yard dash, and then ran the 220 in 20.9 seconds.

The track was exceptionally fast, but the Tulane star did not get away well in either event.

Sterling Dupree, Auburn sprint star, held the former conference record of 9.6 in the 100, and Perrin Walker, Georgia Tech, held the 220 mark with 21 flat.

Tulane won only one first outside of the two dash events, Mintz taking the broad jump.

The summaries:

100-yard dash—Neugass, Tulane, first; Krauss, Alabama, second. Time 9.5 (new conference record).

220-yard dash—Neugass, Tulane, first; Krauss, Alabama, second. Time 20.9 (new conference record).

440-yard dash—Godfrey, Alabama, first; Fischer, Alabama, second. Time 51.8.

880-yard run—Kitchens, Alabama, first; Doughty, Alabama, second. Time 2:03.6.

Mile run—Culbertson, Alabama, first; Marx, Tulane, second. Time 4:56.2.

Two mile run—Greenleaf, Alabama, first; Davis, Tulane, second. Time 11:28.4.

120-yard high hurdles—Edwards, Alabama, first; Maumanee, Alabama, second. Time 15.1 (new campus record).

Broad jump—Mintz, first; Best, Alabama, second. Distance 21 feet 11 1-2 inches.

High jump—Beck, Alabama, first; Nicholas, Alabama, and Davies, Alabama, tied for second. Height, 5 feet, 11 inches.

Pole vault—Reigel Alabama, first; Sheridian, Alabama, second. Height, 12 feet, 6 inches.

Javelin—Nogi, Alabama, first; Young, Alabama, second. Distance 181 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

Discus— Smith, of Alabama, first; Sneed, Alabama, second. Distance, 128 feet, 6 inches.

Shot put—Lyons, Alabama, first; Frees, Tulane, second. Distance 45 feet 7 3-4 inches.

Senior And Junior Boys First In Meet; Block Girls Winners

WISNER, La., April 6.—(Special.)—The Wisner senior boys and junior boys each carried off a trophy in a regional track meet held here Friday afternoon in which eight schools took part. The girls of Block high won the trophy in their division with a score of 28 points, while Rayville trailed with 27 points. The score in the junior boys' division was as follows: Wisner, 41 points; Block, 30, and Rayville, 13. Senior boys: Wisner, 35 points; Block, 21, and Crowville, 19.

Summary—Senior boys:

440-yard dash—Nash, Mangham, 54 seconds; Harmon, Waterproof, second, and Walker, Wisner, third.

Gar Wood Fails To Equal World Record In Test Run

MIAMI BEACH, April 6.—(AP)—Gar Wood slashed a path down Indian creek today in Miss America X but failed by 6.33 miles an hour of equalling his own world motorboat speed record of 124.91 miles an hour.

Fighting variable winds, Wood's fastest speed was 119.09 miles an hour, made when he was clocked at 34.57 seconds northbound on the second of the two runs he made over the measured nautical mile. His first run, made southward, was clocked at 35.11 seconds for a speed of 118.979 for a two-way average of 118.580 statute miles an hour.

"We will carry on," said the veteran driver on returning to the dock, "and expect to raise that speed considerably before we are finished. We are well satisfied with Miss America X's performance."

DIZZY CLAIMS HE WILL QUIT IN '36

The Great Dane Says He Wants Only Two More Good Years

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—(AP)—Talkative Dizzy Dean today voluntarily talked himself out of organized baseball—effective in 1936—but his friends smiled knowingly.

In what, for him, appeared to be a solemn pronouncement, the senior partner of the St. Louis Cardinals' brace of pitching Deans, announced it would be the quiet and simple life for him, "if I can get two more good seasons."

The announcement, coming as it did from Dizzy, failed miserably to startle the Cardinal organization.

However, the pitcher's wife, who also acts as his business manager, insisted the retirement was a serious business.

"Dizzy's going to hang up his uniform in two more years," she said. "We've discussed it at breakfast, lunch and dinner and we've decided that Dizzy'll quit the game after 1936."

"At the end of the 1936 season we expect to have $150,000 of our own. Figuring 6 per cent interest on that sum, we will have a yearly income of $9,000.

"We will be able to live in luxury on $9,000. You know we don't go in for big ideas."

The great one himself seemed reluctant to go that far. In fact, for once, he seemed reluctant to talk at all, but he affirmed the "retirement plan" as a strong probability.

When the prospects of his being back on the rubber in 1938 were hinted, Jerome Herman Dean stopped talking.

His friends wondered just what would constitute "two good seasons" for a pitcher who regarded his 30 victories in 1934 more or less as a matter of course.

Louisiana State Defeats Alabama To Even Series

PINEVILLE, La., April 6—(Special)—Louisiana College will again sponsor the district meeting of the S. I. A. A. colleges of Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee in a track and field championship at the college stadium Saturday, May 11.

In conjunction with the southern meet, there will be held a relay carnival for the high schools, featuring 440, 880, medley (440, 220, 220, 880) and the mile relay. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be given to individual winners. Silver loving cups will be given to the relay teams, and the championship cup to the winner of the championship. The freshmen of the various colleges will also compete at the same meet for freshmen honors.

The meet is expected to bring together some of the finest material of the south, and the records made by such men as Toppino, Weakly, Yeldell and Leppert are expected to be broken. A number of the holders of present records are expected again to compete. Louisiana Southwestern with a number of star performers is expected to repeat the championship, which they won last year.

SIMS TEAM CUTS CULBERTSON LEAD

Military Band Music Starts Argument Among Bridge Players

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Music had charms for the P. Hal Simses today as they reduced the Culbertson lead to 10,810 points in their 150 rubber match.

The music came from 15 military bands, part of an army day parade which passed under the exclusive Crockford club window—to the enjoyment of the kibitzers and the consternation of the bridge players.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims gained 3,830 points during the session, the 18th of the match. Forced to shout their bids to be heard above the bands, the principals soon became irritable. An argument between Ely Culbertson and Sims was ended only by the roar of martial music.

The argument developed while Culbertson was playing a four heart bid on which he was set one. When he neglected to take a finesse, two kibitzers conferred audibly. Sims smiled.

"You don't know everything that is going on in the game," Ely remarked angrily to the kibitzers.

Sims, thinking the remark was meant for him, replied:

"I may not know everything that is going on, but I know everything in front of me. I've seen every rotten play you've made during the match."

Culbertson's answer was drowned out by "The Stars and Stripes Forever" from another band. Still glaring at each other, Ely and Hal continued play and finished the argument in the press room later.

A clash between Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson marked the opening hand of the session. Ely made a forcing two bid and she responded with two no trump; he bid three diamonds and she passed.

After the hand was played, Ely making four, he pointed out that he could have made three no trump, blaming his wife for passing.

"If you are going to change your system every time you play," she snapped, "I can't keep up with you."

LOUISIANA COLLEGE TO HOLD S. I. A. A. MEET

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6.—(AP)—Louisiana State university's baseball team improved in performance today to beat Alabama 3 to 2 and split a local series with the Tidesmen.

The game was closely played, with neither team being able to get to the opposing pitchers consistently. Anderson handled the hurling job ably for the visitors and Fatherree and Lockbaum for the Tigers.

Score by innings:

Alabama	002 000 000	2	6 1
L. S. U.	000 201 00x	3	7 1

NO TIME LIMIT FOR SCIENTIFIC BOUT THIS WEEK

Popular Young Wrestlers Matched Again By Request Of Fans

Ernest Kelly, the expert Tennesseean, and Don McIntyre, clever Pennsylvanian, have been matched for a return bout at Roosevelt stadium for next Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night.

Kelly and McIntyre, both "clean" wrestlers, staged the best mat bout ever presented at the stadium a couple of weeks ago and Bruscato has been deluged with requests for another dose. There wasn't a foul committed during their long struggle and the action had the audience applauding throughout.

Kelly won their first meeting but the Tennesseean didn't have any wide edge. The match went almost two hours and it was an even battle most of the way. Each showed plenty of scientific wrestling, with McIntyre having the advantage as far as variety of holds was concerned, but Kelly showing an ability to break the grips that McIntyre wasn't able to match.

McIntyre wasn't satisfied after it was all over and he asked Bruscato to match him again with the Tennessee beauty. The Pennsylvanian said he felt confident he could beat Kelly in a return match. The fans also asked for another version of the Kelly-McIntyre feud, so Bruscato is going to give it to them.

"It seems every wrestling fan in town wants to see McIntyre and Kelly tie up again," Bruscato said yesterday. "If indications mean anything, there won't be standing room at the stadium Wednesday night."

Bruscato said he would lay away tickets for those who call him early this week. There are no reserved seats at the stadium but the capacity is limited and there will be no crowding, the promoter said.

When the two scientific youngsters met before, it was thought for awhile that they might wrestle their allotted two hours without either being able to win that third and deciding fall. They finally came in under the wire, with Kelly the victor, but Bruscato isn't taking any chances this week. There won't be any time limit. Usually the main event is limited to two hours, but the boys may wrestle all night Wednesday if it takes that to gain a decision.

Bruscato said he would line up a top-notch semi-final in an effort to make Wednesday's card an all-star show. There will be no advance in admission price.

MICKAL'S INJURY REPORTED HEALED

Operation On Louisiana State Star's Knee Is Successful

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—(AP)—Louisiana State university rooters may have the opportunity to cheer "Yay, Abe" again this fall for their football star, Abe Mickal, has a chance to favort once again in the brilliant fashion that has stamped him as one of the nation's most adept halfbacks.

Mickal injured his knee toward midseason last year, in the Mississippi State game, and saw little action the rest of the season.

Abe is recovering from an operation in a hospital here which physicians say was "highly successful," and promises to see the bullet-passing Abe again in a Tiger uniform next season.

Dr. H. T. Simon performed the operation, to remove a "semi-lunar cartilage," and stated he was satisfied the operation had been successful. Dr. Simon has operated on 15 other L. S. U. football players successfully.

Mickal himself, the boy whom Senator Huey P. Long admired in football so much he considered naming him a state senator, is jubilant that he'll be able to play again.

It was Abe who flung two touchdown passes and booted a pair of extra points against Southern Methodist early last year to tie the Mustangs, 14-14. The Tiger star was at his best against Vanderbilt when his rifle passes and thrilling running gains brought L. S. U. a 29 to 0 conquest with nearly the entire student body, and and military corps looking on.

At one time Mickal kicked 19 consecutive points after touchdown. He is considered one of the finest passers and kickers the south ever produced.

After his injury Mickal was groomed for several games late in the season, against Tulane, Tennessee and Oregon, but a few moments of playing would bring out the old injury again and Mickal would be out of the game.

BOLTON NETTERS WIN FROM LIONS

Bolton high school's tennis team won a hard fought match from Ouachita parish high school here yesterday, the Alexandrians winning, 10 to 5. The matches were played at the Barkdull Faulk courts.

The feature match of the program was a bitter duel between Dawson Kennedy, Ouachita's No. 1 player, and Johnny Cantrell, ace of the Bolton squad, with Cantrell winning two overtime sets, 9-7, 15-13. It was a spectacular battle, with Kennedy finally dropping his first match of the season. The Ouachita star has swept through all opposition this season, having defeated Cantrell in a previous match at Alexandria.

Six of the matches went three sets, with Bolton netters taking four of the long battles.

Ouachita will enter the north Louisiana tennis tourney at Ruston next Friday and Saturday.

The summary:

Boys singles:

Johnny Cantrell, Bolton, beat Dawson Kennedy, 9-7, 15-13.

James Crotwell, Ouachita, beat John Soden, 6-3, 6-3.

John B. Fudickar, Ouachita, beat Joe Cagle, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Luckett Yawn, Bolton, beat Billy Gannaway, 6-1, 6-4.

Bert Welch, Bolton, beat Jack Hackley, 5-7, 8-6, 6-1.

Girls singles:

Ruth Bunn, Bolton, beat Jean Sholars, 6-4, 6-3.

June Moffett, Ouachita, beat Jeanette Edgar, 2-6, 6-0, 6-1.

Ilo Jane Boyd, Ouachita, beat Ruth Robert, 6-2, 6-3.

Girls doubles:

Edgar and Bunn, Bolton, beat Moffett and Sholars, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Boys doubles:

Kennedy and Patton, Ouachita, beat Cantrell and Fowler, 6-2, 6-1.

Cagle and Yawn, Bolton, beat Gannaway and Crotwell, 6-3, 6-2.

Welch and Soden, Bolton, beat Fudickar and Hackley, 0-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Mixed doubles:

Bunn and Fowler, Bolton, beat Boyd and Patton, 7-5, 6-2.

Edgar and Cagle, Bolton, beat Moffett and Crotwell, 6-8, 6-3, 6-1.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB TO HOLD GOLF TOURNEY

The Y's Men's club will hold its second golf tournament of the spring season today, with a handicap meet to be played over the Municipal course this afternoon. The tourney will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Following are the players who have registered for today's tourney:

Joe Westmoreland, Doc Bennett, Ralph Corn, Red Washburn, Louis Turner, Mark Ringheim, Art Woodruff, Lelas Hale, Dr. Prentiss Gray and George Hemphill.

Other members of the club who wish to compete may report to Louis Turner, chairman of the athletic committee of the club, before starting time today. All players are urged to be at the Muny club not later than 1:30 o'clock.

The club recently staged a flag tournament.

Davis Cup Star Beats Hall And Tackles Atlantan At Houston

HOUSTON, April 6.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison, Davis cup star and number one tennis player of the United States, won his way into the finals of the River Oaks Country club invitational tourney this afternoon, defeating Gilbert Hall of New Jersey, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Allison will meet the diminutive star, "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta, in the finals Sunday afternoon.

The Texas netter got away to a ragged start in his match with the veteran Hall this afternoon. He broke a string in his favorite racquet and it seemed to upset him.

Hall took advantage of every break, breaking Allison's service five times and serving three aces. He continued his attack by taking the first game of the second set, but Allison regained his control and fought his way through three straight games.

From here he went on to win the second set. Hall again led in the third set, 4 and 3, only to have his lead wiped away. He also led in the fourth, 4 and 2, but couldn't stand up under Allison's rally.

The final point in the match game was close to the back line, was called in by the referee, and the victory went to Allison. The Texan asked permission to play the point over, however, claiming his return was outside. Hall insisted that it was inside, refused to play it over and the match was over.

Tech Defeats Chocs Again To Win Series

CLINTON, Miss., April 6.—(AP)—Louisiana Tech of Ruston defeated the Mississippi college Choctaws this afternoon, bunching its hits to win 4 to 1. The win gave the Louisianians the series with the Clinton nine, three games out of four.

Ole Miss Golf Team Wins Easily From Wave Squad

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 6.—(AP)—Behind the spectacular subpar golf of Walter Welty, the Ole Miss Wolf team trounced the Tulane aggregation by a 7 1-2 to 1 1-2 count here this afternoon before a large gallery.

Heavy rain last night slowed up the play quite a bit but the match was featured by spectacular recoveries. Welty won both his matches over Doray of Tulane by a 30 to 37 margin in the outgoing nine and a 33 to 34 margin in the incoming round. Layden lost his first nine by a one-point margin to Monsted of Tulane but won the incoming round by the same count. Ineligibility robbed Tulane of two players and the matches were played with two-man teams.

	Out	In	Total
Welty M	30	33	63
Layden M	37	33	70
Doray T	37	34	71
Monsted T	36	34	70

LIONS WIN FROM SIMSBORO, 4 TO 1

Sherrard Holds Opponents To Four Hits To Give Ouachita Victory

Ouachita parish high school's baseball team added another victory yesterday when the Lions trimmed Simsboro, 4 to 1, in a well-played game. The contest was played at Simsboro.

Wright Sherrard, Ouachita ace, held the Simsboro club to four scattered hits, two of them coming in the ninth, while the Lions were piling up 10 off Rogers. Pate led the Lion attack with two hits, while Sherrard helped his own cause along with a double. Rasbury, Simsboro catcher, also hit a double for the only other extra base blow of the game.

The Lions got two hits in the first inning but were unable to score. However, Ouachita pushed over three runs in the second on three hits and added their fourth run in the sixth on a walk and Sherrard's double. The Lions went hitless only in the third, seventh and ninth innings.

Simsboro scored its only run in the fourth on a walk, a stolen base and a single.

Eddie Bowles, Ouachita outfielder who has been out of the lineup on account of illness, returned to uniform yesterday and played part of the game. He got a single.

Ouachita	030	001	000—4 10 0

NEUGASS BREAKS PAIR OF RECORDS

Tulane Sprint Star Cracks 100, 220 Marks But Alabama Wins

UNIVERSITY, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—Herman Neugass, Tulane sprint star, cracked two Southeastern conference records at Denny field this afternoon, but his efforts failed to keep Alabama from running up a lop-sided 86 1-2 to 25 1-2 victory.

Neugass, after a slow start, was clocked at 9.5 seconds in the 100-yard dash, and then ran the 220 in 20.9 seconds.

The track was exceptionally fast, but the Tulane star did not get away well in either event.

Sterling Dupree, Auburn sprint star, held the former conference record of 9.6 in the 100, and Perrin Walker, Georgia Tech, held the 220 mark with 21 flat.

Tulane won only one first outside of the two dash events, Mintz taking the broad jump.

The summaries:

100-yard dash—Neugass, Tulane, first; Krauss, Alabama, second. Time 9.5 (new conference record).

220-yard dash—Neugass, Tulane, first; Krauss, Alabama, second. Time 20.9 (new conference record).

440-yard dash—Godfrey, Alabama, first; Fischer, Alabama, second. Time 51.8.

880-yard run—Kitchens, Alabama, first; Doughty, Alabama, second. Time 2:03.6.

Mile run—Culbertson, Alabama, first; Marx, Tulane, second. Time 4:56.2.

Two mile run—Greenleaf, Alabama, first; Davis, Tulane, second. Time 11:28.4.

120-yard high hurdles—Edwards, Alabama, first; Maumanee, Alabama, second. Time 15.1 (new campus record).

Broad jump—Mintz, first; Best, Alabama, second. Distance 21 feet 11 1-2 inches.

High jump—Beck, Alabama, first; Nicholas, Alabama, and Davies, Alabama, tied for second. Height, 5 feet, 11 inches.

Pole vault—Reigel Alabama, first; Sheridian, Alabama, second. Height, 12 feet, 6 inches.

Javelin—Nogi, Alabama, first; Young, Alabama, second. Distance 181 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

Discus—Smith, of Alabama, first; Sneed, Alabama, second. Distance, 128 feet, 6 inches.

Shot put—Lyons, Alabama, first; Frees, Tulane, second. Distance 45 feet 7 3-4 inches.

Senior And Junior Boys First In Meet; Block Girls Winners

WISNER, La., April 6.—(Special.)—The Wisner senior boys and junior boys each carried off a trophy in a regional track meet held here Friday afternoon in which eight schools took part. The girls of Block high won the trophy in their division with a score of 28 points, while Rayville trailed with 27 points. The score in the junior boys' division was as follows: Wisner, 41 points; Block, 30, and Rayville, 13. Senior boys: Wisner, 35 points; Block, 21, and Crowville, 19.

Summary—Senior boys:

LOUISIANA COLLEGE TO HOLD S. I. A. A. MEET

BATON ROUGE, La., April 6.—(AP)—Louisiana State university's baseball team improved in performance today to beat Alabama 3 to 2 and split a local series with the Tidesmen.

The game was closely played, with neither team being able to get to the opposing pitchers consistently. Anderson handled the hurling job ably for the visitors and Fatherree and Lockbaum for the Tigers.

Score by innings:

Alabama	002	000	000	2	6	1
L. S. U.	000	201	00x	3	7	1

The Greatest Value We've Ever Had in
Made-to-Measure Hand-Tailored SUITS
$21.50 and $23.50 $25.50

A bulls-eye value! And no wonder! We started planning this event months ago. We set as our objective the GREATEST VALUE POSSIBLE in men's made-to-measure hand-tailored suits at a price in the low twenties. And through an unusually lucky purchase of spring materials from an overstocked mill the values are greater than our own expectation. They'll stand the test of your inspection. Come in, judge whether we succeeded.

MEN RECOGNIZED BY SAFETY CLUB

Merit Cards Are Issued By Illinois Central Railroad

J. M. Chandler, trainmaster in charge of that portion of the Illinois Central railroad extending from Meridian, Miss. to Shreveport, states that in recognition of their interest in the prevention of personal injuries to themselves and employes under their supervision, he is issuing to conductors, yard foremen and engineers, the following Safety club merit cards, which are issued to the supervisory members of crew only.

Veteran cards, which cover six years or better safety record, 50; 5-year cards, 2; 4-year cards, 5; 3-year cards, 12; 2-year cards, 6; 1-year cards, 12; total 87.

"The issuance of Safety club merit cards each year to employes having 100 per cent safety record during the year, is to create interest, and from the number of veteran cards listed, it is evident that the men take pride in their card, in the interest of safety, and are constantly on the alert to prevent injury to themselves as well as other employes under their jurisdiction, in order not to mar their record. Safety has always been and is a primary consideration in connection with every phase of Illinois Central operation, and they are constantly devising new rules and methods in the education of their employes in the prevention of accidents," Mr. Chandler stated.

Mr. Chandler states that up to the present time this year, with approximately 425 employes under his jurisdiction, there has not occurred a single personal injury to an employe.

The following is a list of employes working in Monroe or its immediate area who are recipients of safety club merit badges; conductors (veteran cards) T. Sullivan, J. G. Wilson, R. A. DeLee, R. L. Clement, J. J. Cuthbert G. Jennings, H. B. Newman; five-year cards, F. A. Wright; three-year cards, J. W. Kennon, J. S. Danley, E. H. Holmes; one-year cards, W. Q. Bell; engine foreman, two-year cards, Dundas; one-year cards, J. A. Petty, T. H. McCrea, E. M. Henderson; engineers (veteran cards), William Soureal, F. J. Watts, T. E. Crofton, G. O. Kundert, S. B. Graham, W. L. Hammond, H. F. Baird, S. B. DeLee, I. F. Shaw, W. C. Johnson, J. E. Holmes, W. W. Loftin, H. L. Clark, H. Hale, J. A. Gaffney, Dan Walker, L. J. DeLee, J. K. Fisher, A. P. Richardson, T. H. Easterling, Tom McClain, J. W. Perkins, J. T. Mason; one-year card, A. A. Cornett; agent and warehouse foreman, one-year card, W. E. Regan, agent; two-year cards E. L. Morgan, warehouse foreman.

Jonesboro

Rev. G. A. Morgin, at one time pastor of the Jonesboro Methodist church, but now located in Santa Anna, Texas, has been appointed pastor of the Methodist church here to fill the position left vacant by the late Rev. J. S. Henley. He arrived in Jonesboro Friday.

Mrs. Walter Braswell was hostess to the Jonesboro Art club in her lovely home in Ruston on Wednesday of last week. A delightful social hour was enjoyed by Mrs. H. W. Ayers, Mrs. George T. Littlefield, Mrs. Carmen Thomas, Mrs. Tom Cox and Mrs. Dupree from Jonesboro. The hostess served delicious refreshments during the social hour.

The Y. W. C. A. of the Baptist church met at the church for the regular monthly business meeting. Miss Jessie B. McLaurin presided and gave the devotional. Each member responded to roll call by giving her favorite scripture passage. After the order of business the society adjourned to meet in the church next Monday. Those attending this meeting were: Misses Jessie B. McLaurin, Christine Sutton, Pauline May, Mildred Farmer, Lorenza Hayes, Ruby Key and Mildred Nettles.

Mrs. P. H. Key, O. E. Corbett, Mrs. C. Cleghorn, Mrs. Ansley Colvin, Mrs. Charles Billiot and Mrs. L. B. Brashier left Tuesday for New Orleans to attend the Baptist annual conference of W. M. S. of Louisiana.

Natchez pilgrimage week found many from Jonesboro looking toward this mecca of the old south. Leaving Tuesday for the day were Mrs. C. T. Littlefield, Mr. Paul Stinson, Mrs. Joe Watts, Mrs. Ida Blankenship and Mr. and Mrs. David Jeffress.

W. L. Brumfield, who is connected with the conservation department, made a business trip to Baton Rouge and Bogalusa last week.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church held its regular monthly business meeting at the church with a good attendance.

Mrs. A. A. Meredith presided and gave the devotional. Reports from the officers of the society were given and also reports from the different circles. The Ruth Brown circle, having more members present than any other, won the pennies for the month.

Mrs. Sylvester Kirkland entertained her Thursday evening auction bridge club in her home east of Jonesboro. Wild honeysuckle, yellow jasmine and dogwood blossoms were artistically arranged in the party rooms where the tables were placed for bridge. Mrs. Leon Mitchell was the high scorer for the evening and received a beautiful pair of silk hose. The consolation prize went to M. H. M. Gatlin, a lovely smoking set.

Mrs. Kirkland served a salad course to Mrs. W. C. McDonald, Mrs. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mrs. A. C. Cleghorn and Mr. Neil Kirkland and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible].

GAY DECEIVERS BOTH! CONSPIRE TO SLENDERIZE

Patterns 2119 and 2211

By Anne Adams

There's a conspiracy afoot among designers to give the stout a smart "trimming down" this spring! Anne Adams contributes two gay deceivers that will make your friends swear you've been on a secret diet! The slim, trim dress of pattern 2119 is in happy alliance with the jacket to equalize imperfect proportions and the smart bow adds a flattering feminine note. Pattern 2211 has a method all its own for accomplishing the desired results! There's subtle flattery to the heavy figure in the long sweep of the surplice closing. The easy graceful flare the short sleeve takes makes any arm look surprisingly slim! Either pattern in a small spaced print makes a perfect afternoon frock and for pattern 2211 do choose colored lace to match the print, or some dainty bit of ruffling for trim!

Pattern 2119 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 5 3-8 yards 39-inch fabric. Price 15 cents.

Pattern 2211 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 4 1-8 yards 39-inch fabric and 3 3-8 yards ruffling. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Anne Adams pattern, thirty cents (30c) for both. Write name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Get the Anne Adams spring pattern book! Make for yourself the clothes that are smart, practical and becoming. Choose them from the forty pages of this beautifully illustrated book which includes also exclusive fashions for tots and children, especially designed dresses for the mature figure, lingerie, and hosts of other interesting features. Each garment illustrated is easy to make with an Anne Adam's pattern. Send for your copy today! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Address orders to News-Star—World Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York City.

Bastrop

Among the many social courtesies planned for Mrs. William Trippe, a recent bride, was the lovely bridge party and shower given at the country club Wednesday evening with Mrs. R. H. Williams and Mrs. E. L. Gladney, Jr., as co-hostesses.

Magnificient floor baskets filled with white flowers were grouped at vantage points throughout the lounge and an immense plaque of beautiful white blossoms with waxen foliage decorated the long table placed in the center of the room. The color scheme of greeen and white introduced in the floral decorations, was carried out in the card table covers, score cards and delicious ice course consisting of molded wedding slipper filled with mint sherbert, daintily embossed mints and petit fours, served following the games. Beautiful Fostoria vases were awarded to Miss Irma Jones and Mrs. Arthur Ross for high scores, which they in turn graciously presented to the honoree.

A miscellany of attractively wrapped packages, was placed before Mrs. Trippe and when opened were found to contain innumerable lovely and useful gifts. Those sharing the pleasures of the evening with the honor guest, were her mother, Mrs. C. F. McBride, Mesdames J. D. McBride, Sr., H. F. Madison, Sr., J. P. Madison, C. J. Goodwin, Rupert McBride, John Penninger, James R. Fuller, Arthur Ross, L. E. Pagan, F. W. Hawthorne, J. C. Young, George Goodwin, J. V. Jones, W. P. Douglass, Dan Files, V. H. Reitzell, J. B. Bennett, E. S. Trippe, T. H. McCreight, G. H. Beekman, Hugo Spier, George T. Madison, Net Syres, James Madison, W. V. Garnier, Clifton Ingram, Lawrence Spier, J. W. Gillen, W. B. Gladney, R. E. Webb Madison, George Ludlum, Misses Bess Cash, Christine Campbell, Dell Humphrey, Ruth Spier, Ida Spier, Tina Collins, Irma Jones, Helen Marr Love, Ruth Simmons, Helen Sullivan, Irene Lord, Bernice O'Neal, Eugenia Files, Edith Hobbs and Fannie Hobbs.

Election of officers featured the regular meeting of the Pot Pourri Book club held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. D. L. O'Neal as hostess. Mrs. Estelle B. Harris was re-elected president of the club, and other officers elected included Mrs. S. A. Leopold, vice-president, Mrs. James Tisdale, secretary and Mrs. Jake Kern treasurer.

The program Thursday was in charge of Mrs. R. E. Fullenwider, who took the members of the club on an imaginary tour through the states of Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas, pointing out the most interesting points in each state.

Choudrant

Miss Mary O'Neal entertained with a "wishing well' party Saturday afternoon in her home in honor of Mrs. Doyle Brown, the former Miss Ellie Mae Donald of Choudrant.

The diversion of the afternoon was the delightful game called "Progressive Wishes."

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Vining are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a daughter on March 26.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. O'Neal were hosts at dinner last Sunday in their home complimenting Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Madden, who celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Madden, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Coleman, of Homer, Miss Martha Coleman of Athens, and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal.

Mrs. Harrold Willis and Miss Sheila Nuttal entertained the Methodist Missionary society in Mrs. Willis' home.

After a social [illegible] the hostess served an ice course to Mrs. C. L. Madden, Mrs. Homer Downs, Mrs. Gosten, Mrs. J. F. Holstead, Mrs. C. L. Mondart, Mrs. Levi Harris, Miss Yada Harris, Mrs. D. E. Ford, Mrs. Osmon Futrel, Mrs. W. G. Kelly.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

BOYCE-KENDALL URGES SAFETY

Inspection Of Vital Parts Of Cars Will Prevent Accidents

Traffic accidents were more numerous and more severe in 1934 than any previous year.

Eight of the worst driving mistakes responsible for last year's tragic record are listed by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters as follows:

(1) Driving too fast for conditions, a cause named specifically in 22 per cent of all accidents resulting in fatalities charged to drivers alone, and a distinct and sometimes controlling factor in accidents attributed to many other causes. (2) Driving on the wrong side of the road. (3) Violating right-of-way rules. (4) Cutting in. (5) Passing on curve or hill. (6) Failing to signal or signalling improperly. (7) Driving off roadway. (8) Reckless driving.

Pedestrians made fatal errors too. Four of the worst were:

(1) Crossing between intersections, a mistake that accounted for more than 25 per cent of all pedestrian fatalities. (2) Crossing against the signal light at intersections. (3) Playing in the street, an error made chiefly by children, resulting in 16 per cent of all pedestrian deaths. (4) Coming from behind parked cars.

Those are driving mistakes. There are errors of carelessness, also. The Boyce-Kendall garage points out that many accidents may be prevented by the simple procedure of driving by their North Third street plant and having the brakes of your car tested, the steering apparatus gone over and the lights checked. The proper care and precaution concerning these important parts of your automobile costs little, yet mean so much to you in case of a driving emergency.

Boyce-Kendall has an efficeint machine for checking and correcting front end troubles. They have brake experts who can immediately detect faulty braking apparatus and who know how to repair it. Their mechanics are thoroughly trained and the quality of work turned out at Boyce-Kendall is recognized throughout this section. And their charge is most reasonable.

SILVER USED IN PONTIAC ENGINES

Precious Metals Used In Construction Of Fine Motor Cars

Eighteen thousand, nine hundred ounces of pure silver is a lot of silver, hoarded or any way you look at it. It conjures up thoughts of bank vaults, buying and selling, or of speculation as to how many dimes, quarters or half-dollars that many ounces would make. It might even start the imagination visualizing the number of knives, forks and spoons that could be made from that much silver.

But all speculation of that nature would be wrong in this case.

This 18,900 is the number of avoirdupois ounces of pure silver that will go into the silver alloy bearings of 150,000 Pontiac cars this year.

Precious and semi-precious metals like platinum and tungsten have been used extensively in small ignition parts. In fact silver has been used as a plating or a wash for door handles, hardware, vases, etc., of some of the most expensive cars. But this is the first time that one of the principal ingredients of the coin of the realm has gotten mixed up with iron and steel, oil and grease, or come into direct contact with sweaty hands and bodies in a noisy, high speed factory.

Silver always has meant the jingle of money of a beautiful dinner table, with laughter, bright lights, glamorous women in filmy gowns and a sumptuous meal served on silver in the grand manner, not 18,900 ounces of the precious white metal taking the beating of more than a million connecting rods in a film of oil at the bottom of a crankcase of 150,000 churning Pontiac engines.

If all of this silver went into Uncle Sam's ten cent pieces it would mean 238,372 of the little coins, or a dime apiece for every man, woman and child in the city of San Antonio, Texas. Or there would be a dime for every Jap and Chinaman in the United States with 25,000 to spare.

It would take a man giving away dimes at the rate of ten a day, more than 65 years to hand out all the thin pieces that would be made from the silver in Pontiac motor bearings in 1935.

Then there is another way to look at this great use of silver as expressed in the well known dime. If all of these coins were to be stacked up in one pile it would tower 635.66 feet into the air . . . 80 feet higher than the Washington monument, and higher by many feet than any office building in the United States outside of New York City.

If laid out end to end the Pontiac dimes would reach clear around the inner side of the famous Indianapolis Speedway where the 500 mile race is run.

But no worry. None of these stacks are going to be made and no one is going to stand on street corners handing out ten dimes a day, 'cause that particular 18,900 ounces of silver is going into the cadmium alloy bearings of the 1935 Pontiac engines to do the best job of resisting wear and withstanding heat that has been discovered to date.

FACTORY WORKERS INCREASE

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—About a million more people had factory jobs in the average week of 1934 than in the average week of 1933, says the U. S. bureau of labor statistics.

The diet of the mourning dove is almost entirely made up of weed seeds. The stomach of one bird was found to contain 7,500 of these seeds.

Scientists Use Human Hair To Explain Close Precision of Ford V-8 Engine

Ford Motor Company's machine-tool engineers have built new and wonderful instruments for the precision measurement of the interchangeable parts of the Ford V-8 engine. These instruments allow the parts of the Ford V-8 engine to be manufactured and fitted to within one-thirtieth the thickness of a human hair. This close precision to which the Ford V-8 engine is built makes it one of the greatest engines of all times. It has an exceedingly long and economical life.

A difference in size of one-thirtieth the thickness of a human hair is too small to be seen by the human eye without the use of a powerful magnifying glass and special measuring instruments. The great Swedish scientist, C. E. Johansson of Eskilstuna, Sweden, is the man who built the precision instruments now in use by the Ford Motor Company. He is at the head of C. E. Johansson, Inc., a division of the Ford Motor Co.

NASH OFFERS BIG VALUES THIS YEAR

Prices On Models Of Nash And LaFayette Include Accessories

Prices on the 1935 Nash lines of the Nash Motors company range from $895 to $1290 f.o.b. Kenosha, as compared with $775 to $2055 of the 1934 models.

No comparison of prices by models can be made, however, because of material changes made in the lines.

For 1935 the company offers only two body styles in each of its three lines—a 6-passenger Victoria and a 6-passenger sedan. In 1934 the company had six body styles in the Advanced Eight and Big Six lines and five in the Ambassador Eight.

On its latest line the Nash company has made a change in the basic pricing policy by including in the f.o.b. costs many of the charges formerly applied to the price of the cars by dealers. Thus in the 1935 Nash line, trunks, air wheel tires and some accessory costs are included in the factory price. All Nash lines have built-in luggage compartments. The wheelbase on the Advanced Six has been lengthened four inches to 120 inches, and on the Advanced Eight four inches to 125 inches. The wheelbase on the Ambassador Eight has been shortened to 125 inches from 133 inches, and on this line the company is using the same motor as on the Advanced Eight.

The prices on the LaFayette range from $585 to $750 f. o. b. Racine, as compared with $595 to $745 in 1934. Three models are offered in the Special line and five in the Standard line—the same as last year.

The lowest price on the new line is quoted on the 2-passenger business coupe, which is $40 lower than last year, while the 5-passenger, 2-door sedan, which was the lowest priced LaFayette in 1934, is quoted at $620, up $25.

Buick Has Another Big Advance In Deliveries

FLINT, Mich., April 6.—(Special)—Domestic retail of Buick cars during the second 10 days of March showed a sharp advance over the previous 10-day period and were the best for any like period since the first of the year, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, announced today.

Sales, amounting to 1,783 units were an increase of 19.4 per cent over the first reporting period of the month and 21.1 per cent over the second 10 days of March a year ago. They were double those of the corresponding period of 1933.

With the upturn in volume, Mr. Hufstader said, it is anticipated March sales totals will not only exceed the projected goal of 5,500 cars but will also show a substantial increase over March of last year.

BALES DISPLAYS LEATHER PURSES

Leather Manufacturing Concern Invites Inspection Of New Goods

The Bales Manufacturing company, located in the rear of the Joseph Airoldi Electric Shoe shop, at 119 DeSiard street, announces that they are showing a line of fine ladies' leather purses.

The Bales concern, of which J. J. Bales is the owner, manufactures anything in the leather goods line and only expert craftmen are employed. The quality of the work turned out there is readily seen in the line of purses.

These purses are expertly finished and sturdily constructed. Made out of only the highest grade of leather, they are offered at exceptionally reasonable prices. Mr. Bales invites the women of Monroe and vicinity to drop by his place and inspect his new line.

The Bales Manufacturing company was opened for business only a little more than a year ago, yet it already numbers hundreds of persons among its satisfied customers. There has long been a need in Monroe for just such a concern and the Bales company capably fills that need.

The new leather manufacturing company is under the personal supervision of J. J. Bales who is thoroughly experienced in that line. He is well known here, having formerly operated a similar concern in Monroe. Only first class, expert work will be turned out by the Bales company, which is equipped to handle any leather manufacturing job, no matter how large or how small.

The Bales company manfactures leather belts, straps, dog collars, scabbards and many other articles of leather. They do expert repair work and specialize on harness, saddles and luggage.

The company has installed modern equipment and is anxious to serve the public. Residents of this section who are seeking leather goods or who have some repair work to be done will find it advantageous to consult Mr. Bales. You will find his charges reasonable and the quality of work turned out by his company is the highest possible to be found any place.

As stated above, the Bales Manufacturing company has its shop conveniently located in the rear of the Joseph Airoldi Shoe shop, at 119 DeSiard street. Mr. Bales may be reached by telephone through number 705. He will be pleased to quote you on your leather goods needs. You may consult him freely, as there is no obligation.

MEN RECOGNIZED BY SAFETY CLUB

Merit Cards Are Issued By Illinois Central Railroad

J. M. Chandler, trainmaster, in charge of that portion of the Illinois Central railroad extending from Meridian, Miss., to Shreveport, states that in recognition of their interest in the prevention of personal injuries to themselves and employes under their supervision, he is issuing to conductors, yard foremen and engineers, the following Safety club merit cards, which are issued to the supervisory members of crew only.

Veteran cards, which cover six years or better safety record, 50; 5-year cards, 2; 4-year cards, 5; 3-year cards, 12; 2-year cards, 6; 1-year cards, 12; total 87.

"The issuance of Safety club merit cards each year to employes having 100 per cent safety record during the year, is to create interest, and from the number of veteran cards listed, it is evident that the men take pride in their card, in the interest of safety, and are constantly on the alert to prevent injury to themselves as well as other employes under their jurisdiction, in order not to mar their record. Safety has always been and is a primary consideration in connection with every phase of Illinois Central operation, and they are constantly devising new rules and methods in the education of their employes in the prevention of accidents," Mr. Chandler stated.

Mr. Chandler states that up to the present time this year, with approximately 425 employes under his jurisdiction, there has not occurred a single personal injury to an employe.

The following is a list of employes working in Monroe or its immediate area who are recipients of safety club merit badges; conductors (veteran cards) T. Sullivan, J. G. Wilson, R. A. DeLee, R. L. Clement, J. J. Cuthbert, G. Jennings, H. B. Newman; five-year cards, F. A. Wright; three-year cards, J. W. Kennon, J. S. Daniels, E. H. Holmes; one-year cards, W. Q. Bell; engine foreman, two-year cards, Dundas; one-year cards, J. A. Petty, T. H. McCrea, E. M. Henderson; engineers (veteran cards), William Soureal, F. J. Watts, T. E. Crofton, G. O. Kundert, S. B. Graham, W. L. Hammond, H. F. Baird, S. B. DeLee, I. F. Shaw, W. C. Johnson, J. E. Holmes, W. W. Loftin, H. L. Clark, H. Hale, J. A. Gaffney, Dan Walker, L. J. DeLee, J. K. Fisher, A. P. Richardson, T. H. Easterling, Tom McClain, J. W. Perkins, J. T. Mason; one-year card, A. A. Cornett; agent and warehouse foreman, one-year card, W. E. Regan, agent; two-year cards, E. L. Morgan, warehouse foreman.

Mrs. Walter Braswell was hostess to the Jonesboro Art club in her lovely home in Ruston on Wednesday of last week. A delightful social hour was enjoyed by Mrs. H. W. Ayers, Mrs. George T. Littlefield, Mrs. Carmen Thomas, Mrs. Tom Cox and Mrs. Dupree from Jonesboro. The hostess served delicious refreshments during the social hour.

The Y. W. C. A. of the Baptist church met at the church for the regular monthly business meeting. Miss Jessie B. McLaurin presided and gave the devotional. Each member responded to roll call by giving her favorite scripture passage. After the order of business the society adjourned to meet in the church next Monday. Those attending this meeting were: Misses Jessie B. McLaurin, Christine Sutton, Pauline May, Mildred Farmer, Lorenza Hayes, Ruby Key and Mildred Nettles.

Mrs. W. W. McDonald, Jr., Mrs. Robert Jeffress and Mrs. W. S. McDonald left Wednesday for DeRidder to attend the annual conference of the Women's Missionary societies of Louisiana.

Natchez pilgrimage week found many from Jonesboro looking toward this mecca of the old south. Leaving Tuesday for the day were Mrs. G. T. Littlefield, Mr. Paul Stinson, Mrs. Joe Watts, Mrs. Ida Blankenship and Mr. and Mrs. David Jeffress.

V. L. Brumfield, who is connected with the conservation department, made a business trip to Baton Rouge and Bogalusa last week.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church held its regular monthly business meeting at the church with a good attendance.

Mrs. A. A. Meredith presided and gave the devotional. Reports from the officers of the society were given and also reports from the different circles. The Ruth Brown circle, having more members present than any other, won the pennies for the month.

Mrs. Sylvester Kirkland entertained her Thursday evening auction bridge club in her home east of Jonesboro. Wild honeysuckle, yellow jasmine and dogwood blossoms were artistically arranged in the party rooms where the tables were placed for bridge. Mrs. Leon Michell was the high scorer for the evening and received a beautiful pair of silk hose. The gentleman's prize went to M. H. M. Gatlin, a lovely smoking set.

Mrs. Kirkland served a salad course to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mrs. A. O. Gaar and Mr. Neil Kirkland and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson.

GAY DECEIVERS BOTH! CONSPIRE TO SLENDERIZE
Patterns 2119 and 2211
By Anne Adams

There's a conspiracy afoot among designers to give the stout a smart "trimming down" this spring! Anne Adams contributes two gay deceivers that will make your friends swear you've been on a secret diet! The slim, trim dress of pattern 2119 is in happy alliance with the jacket to equalize imperfect proportions and the smart bow adds a flattering feminine note. Pattern 2211 has a method all its own for accomplishing the desired results! There's subtle flattery to the heavy figure in the long sweep of the surplice closing. The easy graceful flare the short sleeve takes makes any arm look surprisingly slim! Either pattern in a small spaced print makes a perfect afternoon frock and for pattern 2211 do choose colored lace to match the print, or some dainty bit of ruffling for trim!

Pattern 2119 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 5 3-8 yards 39-inch fabric. Price 15 cents.

Pattern 2211 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 4 1-8 yards 39-inch fabric and 3 3-8 yards ruffling. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Anne Adams pattern, thirty cents (30c) for both. Write name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Get the Anne Adams spring pattern book! Make for yourself the clothes that are smart, practical and becoming. Choose them from the forty pages of this beautifully illustrated book which includes also exclusive fashions for tots and children, especially designed dresses for the mature figure, lingerie, and hosts of other interesting features. Each garment illustrated is easy to make with an Anne Adam's pattern. Send for your copy today! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Bastrop

Among the many social courtesies planned for Mrs. William Trippe, a recent bride, was the lovely bridge party and shower given at the country club Wednesday evening with Mrs. R. H. Williams and Mrs. E. L. Gladney, Jr., as co-hostesses.

Magnificient floor baskets filled with white flowers were grouped at vantage points throughout the lounge and an immense plaque of beautiful white blossoms with waxen foliage decorated the long table placed in the center of the room. The color scheme of greeen and white introduced in the floral decorations, was carried out in the card table covers, score cards and delicious ice course consisting of molded wedding slipper filled with mint sherbert, daintily embossed mints and petit fours, served following the games. Beautiful Fostoria vases were awarded to Miss Irma Jones and Mrs. Arthur Ross for high scores, which they in turn graciously presented to the honoree.

A miscellany of attractively wrapped packages, was placed before Mrs. Trippe and when opened were found to contain innumerable lovely and useful gifts. Those sharing the pleasures of the evening with the honor guest, were her mother, Mrs. C. F. McBride, Mesdames J. D. McBride, Sr., H. F. Madison, Sr., J. P. Madison, C. J. Goodwin, Rupert McBride, John Penninger, James R. Fuller, Arthur Ross, L. E. Pagan, F. W. Hawthorne, J. C. Young, George Goodwin, J. V. Jones, W. P. Douglass, Dan Files, V. H. Reitzell, J. B. Bennett, E. S. Trippe, T. H. McCreight, G. H. Beekman, Hugo Spier, George T. Madison, Net Syres, James Madison, W. V. Garnier, Clifton Ingram, Lawrence Spier, J. W. Gillen, W. B. Gladney, R. E. Holladay, Jr., J. D. McBride, Jr., H. Webb Madison, George Ludlum, Misses Bess Cash, Christine Campbell, Dell Humphrey, Ruth Spier, Ida Spier, Tina Collins, Irma Jones, Helen Marr Love, Ruth Simmons, Helen Sullivan, Irene Lord, Bernice O'Neal, Eugenia Files, Edith Hobbs and Fannie Hobbs.

Election of officers featured the regular meeting of the Pot Pourri Book club held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. D. L. O'Neal as hostess. Mrs. Estelle B. Harris was re-elected president of the club, and other officers elected included Mrs. S. A. Leopold, vice-president, Mrs. James Tisdale, secretary and Mrs. Jake Kern treasurer.

The program Thursday was in charge of Mrs. R. E. Fullenwider, who took the members of the club on an imaginary tour through the states of Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas, pointing out the most interesting points in each state.

Choudrant

Miss Mary O'Neal entertained with a "wishing well' party Saturday afternoon in her home in honor of Mrs. Doyle Brown, the former Miss Ellie Mae Donald of Choudrant.

The guests were welcomed in a spacious living room, beautifully decorated with red and white flowers.

The diversion of the afternoon was the delightful game called "Progressive Wishes."

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Vining are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a daughter on March 26.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. O'Neal were hosts at dinner last Sunday in their home complimenting Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Madden, who celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Madden, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Coleman, of Homer, Miss Martha Coleman of Athens, and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal.

Mrs. Harrold Willis and Miss Shelia Nuttal entertained the Methodist Missionary society in Mrs. Willis' home.

After a social hour the hostess served an ice course to Mrs. C. L. Madden, Mrs. Homer Downs, Mrs. Gosten, Mrs. J. F. Holstead, Mrs. C. L. Mondart, Mrs. Levi Harris, Miss Vada Harris, Mrs. D. E. Ford, Mrs. Osmon Futrel, Mrs. W. G. Kelly.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

Inspection Of Vital Parts Of Cars Will Prevent Accidents

Traffic accidents were more numerous and more severe in 1934 than any previous year.

Eight of the worst driving mistakes responsible for last year's tragic record are listed by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters as follows:

(1) Driving too fast for conditions, a cause named specifically in 22 per cent of all accidents resulting in fatalities charged to drivers alone, and a distinct and sometimes controlling factor in accidents attributed to many other causes. (2) Driving on the wrong side of the road. (3) Violating right-of-way rules. (4) Cutting in. (5) Passing on curve or hill. (6) Failing to signal or signalling improperly. (7) Driving off roadway. (8) Reckless driving.

Pedestrians made fatal errors too. Four of the worst were:

(1) Crossing between intersections, a mistake that accounted for more than 25 per cent of all pedestrian fatalities. (2) Crossing against the signal light at intersections. (3) Playing in the street, an error made chiefly by children, resulting in 16 per cent of all pedestrian deaths. (4) Coming from behind parked cars.

Those are driving mistakes. There are errors of carelessness, also. The Boyce-Kendall garage points out that many accidents may be prevented by the simple procedure of driving by their North Third street plant and having the brakes of your car tested, the steering apparatus gone over and the lights checked. The proper care and precaution concerning these important parts of your automobile costs little, yet mean so much to you in case of a driving emergency.

Boyce-Kendall has an efficeint machine for checking and correcting front end troubles. They have brake experts who can immediately detect faulty braking apparatus and who know how to repair it. Their mechanics are thoroughly trained and the quality of work turned out at Boyce-Kendall is recognized throughout this section. And their charge is most reasonable.

SILVER USED IN PONTIAC ENGINES

Precious Metals Used In Construction Of Fine Motor Cars

Eighteen thousand, nine hundred ounces of pure silver is a lot of silver, hoarded or any way you look at it. It conjures up thoughts of bank vaults, buying and selling, or of speculation as to how many dimes, quarters or half-dollars that many ounces would make. It might even start the imagination visualizing the number of knives, forks and spoons that could be made from that much silver.

But all speculation of that nature would be wrong in this case.

This 18,900 is the number of avoirdupois ounces of pure silver that will go into the silver alloy bearings of 150,000 Pontiac cars this year.

Precious and semi-precious metals like platinum and tungsten have been used extensively in small ignition parts. In fact silver has been used as a plating or a wash for door handles, hardware, vases, etc., of some of the most expensive cars. But this is the first time that one of the principal ingredients of the coin of the realm has gotten mixed up with iron and steel, oil and grease, or come into direct contact with sweaty hands and bodies in a noisy, high speed factory.

Silver always has meant the jingle of money of a beautiful dinner table, with laughter, bright lights, glamorous women in filmy gowns and a sumptuous meal served on silver in the grand manner, not 18,900 ounces of the precious white metal taking the beating of more than a million connecting rods in a film of oil at the bottom of a crankcase of 150,000 churning Pontiac engines.

If all of this silver went into Uncle Sam's ten cent pieces it would mean 238,372 of the little coins, or a dime apiece for every man, woman and child in the city of San Antonio, Texas. Or there would be a dime for every Jap and Chinaman in the United States with 25,000 to spare.

It would take a man giving away dimes at the rate of ten a day, more than 65 years to hand out all the thin pieces that would be made from the silver in Pontiac motor bearings in 1935.

Then there is another way to look at this great use of silver as expressed in the well known dime. If all of these coins were to be stacked up in one pile it would tower 635.66 feet into the air . . . 80 feet higher than the Washington monument, and higher by many feet than any office building in the United States outside of New York City.

If laid out end to end the Pontiac dimes would reach clear around the inner side of the famous Indianapolis Speedway where the 500 mile race is run.

But no worry. None of these stacks are going to be made and no one is going to stand on street corners handing out ten dimes a day, 'cause that particular 18,900 ounces of silver is going into the cadmium alloy bearings of the 1935 Pontiac engines to do the best job of resisting wear and withstanding heat that has been discovered to date.

FACTORY WORKERS INCREASE

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—About a million more people had factory jobs in the average week of 1934 than in the average week of 1933, says the U. S. bureau of labor statistics.

The diet of the mourning dove is almost entirely made up of weed seeds. The stomach of one bird was found to contain 7,500 of these seeds.

Ford Motor Company's machine-tool engineers have built new and wonderful instruments for the precision measurement of the interchangeable parts of the Ford V-8 engine. These instruments allow the parts of the Ford V-8 engine to be manufactured and fitted to within one-thirtieth the thickness of a human hair. This close precision to which the Ford V-8 engine is built makes it one of the greatest engines of all times. It has an exceedingly long and economical life.

A difference in size of one-thirtieth the thickness of a human hair is too small to be seen by the human eye without the use of a powerful magnifying glass and special measuring instruments. The great Swedish scientist, C. E. Johansson of Eskilstuna, Sweden, is the man who built the precision instruments now in use by the Ford Motor Company. He is at the head of C. E. Johansson, Inc., a division of the Ford Motor Co.

NASH OFFERS BIG VALUES THIS YEAR

Prices On Models Of Nash And LaFayette Include Accessories

Prices on the 1935 Nash lines of the Nash Motors company range from $895 to $1290 f.o.b. Kenosha, as compared with $775 to $2055 of the 1934 models.

No comparison of prices by models can be made, however, because of material changes made in the lines. For 1935 the company offers only two body styles in each of its three lines—a 6-passenger Victoria and a 6-passenger sedan. In 1934 the company had six body styles in the Advanced Eight and Big Six lines and five in the Ambassador Eight.

On its latest line the Nash company has made a change in the basic pricing policy by including in the f.o.b. costs many of the charges formerly applied to the price of the cars by dealers. Thus in the 1935 Nash line, trunks, air wheel tires and some accessory costs are included in the factory price. All Nash lines have built-in luggage compartments. The wheelbase on the Advanced Six has been lengthened four inches to 120 inches, and on the Advanced Eight four inches to 125 inches. The wheelbase on the Ambassador Eight has been shortened to 125 inches from 133 inches, and on this line the company is using the same motor as on the Advanced Eight.

The prices on the LaFayette range from $585 to $750 f. o. b. Racine, as compared with $595 to $745 in 1934. Three models are offered in the Special line and five in the Standard line—the same as last year.

The lowest price on the new line is quoted on the 2-passenger business coupe, which is $40 lower than last year, while the 5-passenger, 2-door sedan, which was the lowest priced LaFayette in 1934, is quoted at $620, up $25.

The Benoit-Nash Motor company is the Monroe dealer for Nash and LaFayette cars.

Buick Has Another Big Advance In Deliveries

FLINT, Mich., April 6.—(Special)—Domestic retail of Buick cars during the second 10 days of March showed a sharp advance over the previous 10-day period and were the best for any like period since the first of the year, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, announced today.

Sales, amounting to 1,783 units were an increase of 19.4 per cent over the first reporting period of the month and 21.1 per cent over the second 10 days of March a year ago. They were double those of the corresponding period of 1933.

With the upturn in volume, Mr. Hufstader said, it is anticipated March sales totals will not only exceed the projected goal of 5,500 cars but will also show a substantial increase over March of last year.

BALES DISPLAYS LEATHER PURSES

Leather Manufacturing Concern Invites Inspection Of New Goods

The Bales Manufacturing company, located in the rear of the Joseph Airoldi Electric Shoe shop, at 119 DeSiard street, announces that they are showing a line of fine ladies' leather purses.

The Bales concern, of which J. J. Bales is the owner, manufactures anything in the leather goods line and only expert craftmen are employed. The quality of the work turned out there is readily seen in the line of purses.

These purses are expertly finished and sturdily constructed. Made out of only the highest grade of leather, they are offered at exceptionally reasonable prices. Mr. Bales invites the women of Monroe and vicinity to drop by his place and inspect his new line.

The Bales Manufacturing company was opened for business only a little more than a year ago, yet it already numbers hundreds of persons among its satisfied customers. There has long been a need in Monroe for just such a concern and the Bales company capably fills that need.

The new leather manufacturing company is under the personal supervision of J. J. Bales who is thoroughly experienced in that line. He is well known here, having formerly operated a similar concern in Monroe. Only first class, expert work will be turned out by the Bales company, which is equipped to handle any leather manufacturing job, no matter how large or how small.

The Bales company manfactures leather belts, straps, dog collars, scabbards and many other articles of leather. They do expert repair work and specialize on harness, saddles and luggage.

The company has installed modern equipment and is anxious to serve the public. Residents of this section who are seeking leather goods or who have some repair work to be done will find it advantageous to consult Mr. Bales. You will find his charges reasonable and the quality of work turned out by his company is the highest possible to be found any place.

As stated above, the Bales Manufacturing company has its shop conveniently located in the rear of the Joseph Airoldi Shoe shop, at 119 DeSiard street. Mr. Bales may be reached by telephone through number 705. He will be pleased to quote you on your leather goods needs. You may consult him freely, as there is no obligation.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—(AP)—Cotton concluded a week of dull and unimportant price movements today with futures from 5 to 9 points higher.

Trading was a good counterpart of other sessions this week and with dealings held at a minimum and the only business being done of a routine nature the market was an idle affair.

There are too many uncertainties overhanging the market at the present time, it is said, for any but the most intrepid trader to make commitments on either side. With both the processing tax and the future loan policy still up in the air, there are few who are willing to make commitments until something definite is known about these paramount issues.

The narrow range confined to less than 10 points was the limit of today's trading area. May opened at 10.88, up 2 points, and advanced to close at 10.91, while July closing at 10.99, October at 10.64 and December at 10.71 gave similar performances.

Reports permeating through the ring showed that light business is being done in the Worth Street market and prices are unchanged. Liverpool also is coming in for uncertain price movements and has joined the domestic exchanges in a policy of watchful waiting.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—The stock market caught its breath today after its sharp spurt of the previous session. Some traders showed a disposition to take profits and prices were only a little better than even during most of the proceedings. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 425,000 shares.

While bullish sentiment still seemed to predominate, there was little tendency to reach for equities, either by the public or so-called professionals. After a moderately active and somewhat higher opening, the trading volume dwindled. A few specialties were in demand.

A sharp rally in the guilder brought some confusion to bears on this currency. Other gold bloc monies also recovered sympathetically. Grains were quiet and narrow most of the time, as was cotton and other commodities. Rail bonds improved on the hope that the supreme court would hand down its decision on the carrier pension law Monday.

Shares of Eastman Kodak got up 2 points, and Air Reduction and Caterpillar Tractor advanced about 1 each. Those about unchanged to major fractions higher included American Telephone, Western Union, Public Service of New Jersey, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, U. S. Smelting, Kennecott, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, National Distillers, U. S. Steel, Chrysler and General Motors.

The speedy passage of the administration's work-relief bill, after the conference compromise, was seen as a constructive market factor, but it was pointed out that this congressional action had been largely discounted. Various analysts felt that new incentives were necessary to promote another pronounced upturn in the stock list.

Some trading caution was also engendered by the knowledge that congress has yet to pass on the new NRA, the bonus and social security. That all of these, including the work-relief program, have inflationary potentialities, was not ignored in the financial district. Out, at the same time, the thought was advanced that other developments can decisively change the course of the markets.

The quick come-back of the guilder, which rallied more than a cent at one time after the Netherlands government had denied any intention to suspend gold shipments, was the most interesting topic to banking circles.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 6.—(AP)—Setbacks of grain prices early today accompanied reports of improvement in soil and weather conditions both for domestic spring and winter wheat. Opening unchanged to 1-4 lower, May 94 1-2 to 5-8, Chicago wheat futures sagged all around afterward. Corn started unchanged to 1-2 off, May 84-84 1-4, and subsequently showed a general decline, but then rallied.

Corn closed firm, unchanged to 3-8 higher, May 84 3-8 to 1-2, wheat unchanged to 3-8 off, May 94 3-8, oats 1-4 down to 7-8 up, and provisions showing 5 to 15 cents gain.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—(AP)—Cotton concluded a week of dull and unimportant price movements today with futures from 5 to 9 points higher.

Trading was a good counterpart of other sessions this week and with dealings held at a minimum and the only business being done of a routine nature the market was an idle affair.

There are too many uncertainties overhanging the market at the present time, it is said, for any but the most intrepid trader to make commitments on either side. With both the processing tax and the future loan policy still up in the air, there are few who are willing to make commitments until something definite is known about these paramount issues.

The narrow range confined to less than 10 points was the limit of today's trading area. May opened at 10.88, up 2 points, and advanced to close at 10.91, while July closing at 10.99, October at 10.64 and December at 10.71 gave similar performances.

Reports permeating through the ring showed that light business is being done in the Worth Street market and prices are unchanged. Liverpool also is coming in for uncertain price movements and has joined the domestic exchanges in a policy of watchful waiting.

Exports today totaled 9,327 bales.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—The stock market caught its breath today after its sharp spurt of the previous session. Some traders showed a disposition to take profits and prices were only a little better than even during most of the proceedings. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 425,000 shares.

While bullish sentiment still seemed to predominate, there was little tendency to reach for equities, either by the public or so-called professionals. After a moderately active and somewhat higher opening, the trading volume dwindled. A few specialties were in demand.

A sharp rally in the guilder brought some confusion to bears on this currency. Other gold bloc monies also recovered sympathetically. Grains were quiet and narrow most of the time, as was cotton and other commodities. Rail bonds improved on the hope that the supreme court would hand down its decision on the carrier pension law Monday.

Shares of Eastman Kodak got up 2 points, and Air Reduction and Caterpillar Tractor advanced about 1 each. Those about unchanged to major fractions higher included American Telephone, Western Union, Public Service of New Jersey, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, U. S. Smelting, Kennecott, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, National Distillers, U. S. Steel, Chrysler and General Motors.

The speedy passage of the administration's work-relief bill, after the conference compromise, was seen as a constructive market factor, but it was pointed out that this congressional action had been largely discounted. Various analysts felt that new incentives were necessary to promote another pronounced upturn in the stock list.

Some trading caution was also engendered by the knowledge that congress has yet to pass on the new NRA, the bonus and social security. That all of these, including the work-relief program, have inflationary potentialities, was not ignored in the financial district. Out, at the same time, the thought was advanced that other developments can decisively change the course of the markets.

The quick come-back of the guilder, which rallied more than a cent at one time after the Netherlands government had denied any intention to suspend gold shipments, was the most interesting topic to banking circles.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 6.—(AP)—Setbacks of grain prices early today accompanied reports of improvement in soil and weather conditions both for domestic spring and winter wheat. Opening unchanged to 1-4 lower, May 94 1-2 to 5-8, Chicago wheat futures sagged all around afterward. Corn started unchanged to 1-2 off, May 84-84 1-4, and subsequently showed a general decline, but then rallied.

Corn closed firm, unchanged to 3-8 higher, May 84 3-8 to 1-2, wheat unchanged to 3-8 off, May 94 3-8, oats 1-4 down to 7-8 up, and provisions showing 5 to 15 cents gain.

2 CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS LET

Palace Department Store To Install Show-Windows At Rear

Two contracts for construction in Monroe were awarded Saturday, both going to West Monroe contractors. L. D. Davis was awarded a contract to install plate-glass display windows in the rear of the Palace department store facing on Harrison street, at a cost of $2,500 and C. A. Boyd was awarded a contract for building a sleeping porch on the T. O. Bancroft residence, 100 Morris street, at a cost of $1,062. Work on the Bancroft job will start at once and work on the Palace contract will start after Easter.

The Palace store contract will materially improve the appearance of this large department store, insofar as the part fronting on Harrison street is concerned. Heretofore no effort has been made to provide for an entrance for the public from this street and the doors at the rear were used principally for receiving merchandise.

Under the present plan the rear of the building will be made attractive and will serve as one of the entrances for patrons. Two large, plate-glass show windows will be installed, providing a considerable increase in show space.

Although the amount of traffic on Harrison street is far less than on DeSiard street, the Palace store management decided it would be worth while to construct an attractive front at the rear of the building. It was believed that some persons who might otherwise pass by would be attracted to enter the store and that the rear entrance would prove a convenience to others.

Good progress is being made in remodeling the Woodman of the World building at Harrison and Jackson streets. In addition to being remodeled inside, the building, which is of brick, is being stuccoed on the outside and display windows are being installed in the walls. All of the lower floor and half of the upper floor of this building will be occupied by the Natural Gas company and the remainder will be occupied by the Woodmen.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING PLANNED

Twelfth Annual Session Of Louisiana Group To Convene In Alexandria

The twelfth annual convention of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association will be held in the American Legion hall in Alexandria, April 15, 16 and 17, with "Health and Safety for Childhood" as the convention theme.

Prominent among the speakers scheduled to appear on the program will be Mrs. M. P. Summers of Sioux City, Iowa, national chairman of health and organization; Miss Marion Telford of New York City, national safety chairman, and Mrs. Robbins Gilman of Minneapolis, Minn., chairman of the national committee on motion pictures.

Eswald Pettet of Natchitoches, specialist in recreation and Judge Cecil Morgan of Shreveport, state chairman of legislation, will also be distinguished speakers during the three-day session.

Local Parent-Teacher members who will appear on the program are Mrs. H. A. McDonald, fifth district chairman, Mrs. Parker McComb, editor of the state bulletin, and Miss Myrtle Rodgers, who will preside during the session Tuesday afternoon April 16.

Featured on the program will be selections by the mother singers of New Orleans, Shreveport, Lake Charles, Lafayette and Monroe. An election of a successor to Mrs. L. A. Mailhes, whose term as state president expires with the 1935-36 convention, is the outstanding business to be conducted. Other state offices to be filled include second, fourth and sixth vice-presidents and secretary.

COOLING SYSTEM TO BE INSTALLED

Coffee Shop And Bar At Virginia To Have Air Conditioning

Announcement that the coffee shop and Cheerio bar of Hotel Virginia are to be air conditioned, as an added contribution to the comfort and satisfaction of patrons, was made Saturday by J. L. Keenan, president of the Virginia Hotel company. Contracts for the installation have already been awarded. Mr. Keenan stated, and it is expected the work will be completed during the present month.

"This innovation is made," Mr. Keenan said, "in line with our policy to keep fully abreast of the modern trend and to afford our guests every helpful facility which present-day ingenuity provides. This policy has found its expression in the establishment of the Virginia's roof garden, which has given this hotel fame all over the United States."

Mr. Keenan said that recent convention groups gathering in the hotel, with delegates from widely-separated sections of the country, have voiced unstinted enthusiasm over the facilities afforded by the hotel for such gatherings, especially the appointments of the great ballroom, the roof garden and the cameo room.

Introduction of air-conditioning in the coffee shop and bar, he said, was "just another service to add to the comfort and pleasure of the guests."

Air-conditioning is designed to maintain an even comfortable temperature at all times of the day and night, irrespective of climatic changes, and to keep the air pure, clean and sweet. Hitherto certain hotels in New Orleans are the only ones in Louisiana that have introduced the innovation.

Dean Colvert Will Talk At P.-T. A. Meet

Dean C. C. Colvert, of the Northeast Center of L. S. U., will speak Monday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. at the Neville high school during the regular meeting of the Neville Parent-Teacher association. "Character Training" is the subject on which he will speak.

Preceding the meeting the study group of the association will meet at 2:30 p.m. with Dr. C. E. Kenney, who has been conducting a series of study groups on character training.

The annual election of officers will be held at this meeting and delegates named to attend the state convention to be held in Alexandria April 15, 16 and 17.

Requisites For Woman President Are Listed

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, April 6.—The requisite qualities for a woman president of the United States were named today by Lillian D. Rock, an attorney and founder of a movement to elect a woman chief executive in this generation.

She also named several women whom she believes to be of presidential timber, but added: "Our woman president, perhaps, will come from the younger ranks."

Of presidential caliber, she said, are Judge Florence Allen, of the U. S. circuit court of appeals in Ohio; Pearl M. Hart, public defender of the morals court of chicago; Josephine Rache, assistant secretary of the treasury; Dean Virginia Gilbersleeve, of Barnard college; Dr. Mary Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, and Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark.

Age, beauty and whether or not the woman had a husband would be lesser considerations, said Miss Rock.

"She could be 40 to 70 years old. "She should be personable but not necessarily beautiful. A family or lack of one wouldn't matter. But if she had a husband, don't think he would have an inferiority complex—"He would boast for the rest of his life."

The essentials, she said, are: The woman would have to be (1) of proven ability; (2) of the broadest understanding; (3) with tremendous endurance; (4) with composure and ability to gain confidence.

"A woman who does things in a big way," Miss Rock summarized. "A super woman."

Did she think any man in the United States would vote for a woman for president?

"Many," Miss Rock replied. "God knows how many." She displayed a letter from a Georgia man who had written to her, "Man's domination of the affairs of the nation has been a complete failure."

The "movement" which Miss Rock calls the greatest woman's campaign since suffrage, has adopted the title, "League for a Woman President and Vice President."

State chairmen are now being appointed, and the league plans to offer a woman vice presidential candidate to the major political parties for the 1936 conventions.

(An astrologist has prophesied that a woman vice president will be elected in 1940.)

"After we elect a vice president, we'll look to the presidency," said Miss Rock. "Only a woman president would give ultimate meaning to the enfranchisement of women.

"It's inevitable. The first states to grant woman suffrage, and the states that have had women governors will be first to see it.

Forty-nine per cent of the voters are women. Some day they'll realize their power. They should vote for a woman—they will. I expect to see a woman president within twenty years."

FAIR GROUP MAY PURCHASE SITE

Twelve Acre Tract In West Monroe Is Under Consideration

Purchase of approximately 12 acres of land adjacent to McGuire park in West Monroe was discussed and tentatively approved by the Ouachita Valley Fair association in a special meeting held last week. The tract proposed will be ample to provide for buildings for years to come and for all concessions, it was said. Herman McGuire owns the tract, which is located on the west side of North Seventh street, north of the Dixie-Overland highway.

A road can be opened from the highway to the property and another from Splane place subdivision, it was pointed out.

Plans for the erection in McGuire park of one large exhibition building had been partially arranged but no definite steps will be taken for the next few days, during which time it is expected that action will be taken as to the purchase of the site.

Says Green Vegetables Are Not Germ Carriers

Numerous reports being current to the effect that green vegetables may be a possible carrier of typhoid germs, Leon F. Fontana, wholesale vegetable grower, announced Saturday that he had obtained medical opinion to the effect that any such situation was highly improbable in vegetables washed in clean water and that cooked vegetables could not possibly carry disease germs. The rumors have seriously affected the sale of vegetables, Mr. Fontana said.

REVIVAL BEGINS TODAY

FERRIDAY, April 6.—(Special)—A revival will begin Sunday at the Sevier Memorial Methodist church with the Rev. H. W. Cudd, of Monroe, conference evangelist of the Methodist church of the state in charge of the services. Rev. R. A. Bozeman, pastor of the church, is extending an invitation to all members and all others to attend the services.

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT STARTED

Health Association And Medical Society Group Launch Drive

The Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health association, with the cooperation of the women's auxiliary of the Ouachita Parish Medical society, has inaugurated the former organization's annual "Early Diagnosis Campaign" which emphasizes the need for prompt treatment of tuberculosis and which familiarizes the public with modern improvements in treatment that has greatly increased the chances for cure.

Mrs. J. Q. Graves is president of the auxiliary of the local medical society, and members of the committee actively engaged in the parish program are Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, chairman, Mrs. J. B. Vaughan and Mrs. D. M. Moore.

The committee will distribute to schools, clubs, and other organizations literature which tells of signs of the presence of tuberculosis, and will advise consultations with physicians.

According to the National Tuberculosis association, "the disease is the nation's greatest public health problem because it kills more persons between the ages of 15 years and 45 than any other disease. It causes 75,000 deaths and costs close to a billion dollars annually, all of which could be prevented if existing knowledge about the discovery, treatment, and prevention of infection were more widely observed by the public."

Life Insurance Firm Ends Convention Here

The annual spring convention of the Aetna Life Insurance company was closed at Hotel Virginia Saturday.

The Saturday morning session started at 8:30 when a resume of talks of the previous day was given and announcements made by Foster Vineyard. Veo Alexander discussed "The Family Income," and D. H. Powell made a brief talk, after which "Seeing the People" was the theme of an address by Tom Jones. Other talks were made by L. H. Derby on "Merchandising Life Insurance" and "So What" by Gordon Campbell.

In open forum concluded the final session.

The delegates, of whom there were more than 60, expressed themselves as well pleased with the convention and were loud in voicing appreciation of the hospitality of people of Monroe.

This is the second time in 25 years that this convention has been held outside the city of Little Rock.

This policy has found its expression in the establishment of the Virginia's roof garden, which has given this hotel fame all over the United States."

Mr. Keenan said that recent convention groups gathering in the hotel, with delegates from widely-separated sections of the country, have voiced unstinted enthusiasm over the facilities afforded by the hotel for such gatherings, especially the appointments of the great ballroom, the roof garden and the cameo room.

Introduction of air-conditioning in the coffee shop and bar, he said, was "just another service to add to the comfort and pleasure of the guests."

Air-conditioning is designed to maintain an even comfortable temperature at all times of the day and night, irrespective of climatic changes, and to keep the air pure, clean and sweet. Hitherto certain hotels in New Orleans are the only ones in Louisiana that have introduced the innovation.

Dean Colvert Will Talk At P.-T. A. Meet

Dean C. C. Colvert, of the Northeast Center of L. S. U., will speak Monday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. at the Neville high school during the regular meeting of the Neville Parent-Teacher association. "Character Training" is the subject on which he will speak.

Preceding the meeting the study group of the association will meet at 2:30 p.m. with Dr. C. E. Kenney, who has been conducting a series of study groups on character training.

The annual election of officers will be held at this meeting and delegates named to attend the state convention to be held in Alexandria April 15, 16 and 17.

Requisites For Woman President Are Listed

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, April 6.—The requisite qualities for a woman president of the United States were named today by Lillian D. Rock, an attorney and founder of a movement to elect a woman chief executive in this generation.

She also named several women whom she believes to be of presidential timber, but added: "Our woman president, perhaps, will come from the younger ranks."

Of presidential caliber, she said, are Judge Florence Allen, of the U. S. circuit court of appeals in Ohio; Pearl M. Hart, public defender of the morals court of chicago; Josephine Rache, assistant secretary of the treasury; Dean Virginia Gilbersleeve, of Barnard college; Dr. Mary Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, and Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark.

Age, beauty and whether or not the woman had a husband would be lesser considerations, said Miss Rock.

"She could be 40 to 70 years old. "She should be personable but not necessarily beautiful. A family or lack of one wouldn't matter. But if she had a husband, don't think he would have an inferiority complex—

"He would boast for the rest of his life."

The essentials, she said, are: The woman would have to be (1) of proven ability; (2) of the broadest understanding; (3) with tremendous endurance; (4) with composure and ability to gain confidence.

"A woman who does things in a big way," Miss Rock summarized. "A super woman."

Did she think any man in the United States would vote for a woman for president?

"Many," Miss Rock replied. "God knows how many." She displayed a letter from a Georgia man who had written to her, "Man's domination of the affairs of the nation has been a complete failure."

The "movement" which Miss Rock calls the greatest woman's campaign since suffrage, has adopted the title, "League for a Woman President and Vice President."

State chairmen are now being appointed, and the league plans to offer a woman vice presidential candidate to the major political parties for the 1936 conventions.

(An astrologist has prophesied that a woman vice president will be elected in 1940.)

"After we elect a vice president, we'll look to the presidency," said Miss Rock. "Only a woman president would give ultimate meaning to the enfranchisement of women.

"It's inevitable. The first states to grant woman suffrage, and the states that have had women governors will be first to see it.

Forty-nine per cent of the voters are women. Some day they'll realize their power. They should vote for a woman—they will. I expect to see a woman president within twenty years."

FAIR GROUP MAY PURCHASE SITE

Twelve Acre Tract In West Monroe Is Under Consideration

Purchase of approximately 12 acres of land adjacent to McGuire park in West Monroe was discussed and tentatively approved by the Ouachita Valley Fair association in a special meeting held last week. The tract proposed will be ample to provide for buildings for years to come and for all concessions, it was said. Herman McGuire owns the tract, which is located on the west side of North Seventh street, north of the Dixie-Overland highway.

A road can be opened from the highway to the property and another from Splane place subdivision, it was pointed out.

Plans for the erection in McGuire park of one large exhibition building had been partially arranged but no definite steps will be taken for the next few days, during which time it is expected that action will be taken as to the purchase of the site.

Says Green Vegetables Are Not Germ Carriers

Numerous reports being current to the effect that green vegetables may be a possible carrier of typhoid germs, Leon F. Fontana, wholesale vegetable grower, announced Saturday that he had obtained medical opinion to the effect that any such situation was highly improbable in vegetables washed in clean water and that cooked vegetables could not possibly carry disease germs. The rumors have seriously affected the sale of vegetable,s Mr. Fontana said.

REVIVAL BEGINS TODAY

FERRIDAY, April 6.—(Special)—A revival will begin Sunday at the Sevier Memorial Methodist church with the Rev. H. W. Cudd, of Monroe, conference evangelist of the Methodist church of the state in charge of the services. Rev. R. A. Bozeman, pastor of the church, is extending an invitation to all members and all others to attend the services.

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT STARTED

Health Association And Medical Society Group Launch Drive

The Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health association, with the cooperation of the women's auxiliary of the Ouachita Parish Medical society, has inaugurated the former organization's annual "Early Diagnosis Campaign" which emphasizes the need for prompt treatment of tuberculosis and which familiarizes the public with modern improvements in treatment that has greatly increased the chances for cure.

The diagnosis program in Ouachita parish is part of the annual nation-wide diagnosis sponsored by the National Tuberculosis association, with headquarters at New York.

Mrs. J. Q. Graves is president of the auxiliary of the local medical society, and members of the committee actively engaged in the parish program are Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, chairman, Mrs. J. B. Vaughan and Mrs. D. M. Moore.

The committee will distribute to schools, clubs, and other organizations literature which tells of signs of the presence of tuberculosis, and will advise consultations with physicians.

According to the National Tuberculosis association, "the disease is the nation's greatest public health problem because it kills more persons between the ages of 15 years and 45 than any other disease. It causes 75,000 deaths and costs close to a billion dollars annually, all of which could be prevented if existing knowledge about the discovery, treatment, and prevention of infection were more widely observed by the public."

Life Insurance Firm Ends Convention Here

The annual spring convention of the Aetna Life Insurance company was closed at Hotel Virginia Saturday.

The Saturday morning session started at 8:30 when a resume of talks of the previous day was given and announcements made by Foster Vineyard. Veo Alexander discussed "The Family Income," and D. H. Powell made a brief talk, after which "Seeing the People" was the theme of an address by Tom Jones. Other talks were made by L. H. Derby on "Merchandising Life Insurance" and "So What" by Gordon Campbell.

In open forum concluded the final session.

The delegates, of whom there were more than 60, expressed themselves as well pleased with the convention and were loud in voicing appreciation of the hospitality of people of Monroe.

This is the second time in 25 years that this convention has been held outside the city of Little Rock.

FISHER'S HISTORY OF BOXING 4-7.

WILLIE GREEN SEVERAL YEARS OLDER THAN GENE, AND VETERAN OF OVER A HUNDRED PRO FIGHTS OFFERED TO BOX WITH THE SIXTEEN YEAR OLD AMATEUR. THEY BOXED THREE ROUNDS, BUT GREEN WAS UNABLE TO K.O. THE YOUNGSTER. GENE HOWEVER WAS BADLY BANGED UP.

GOSH I GUESS I'M NOT SO GOOD. I'LL NEVER BOX ANOTHER PROFESSIONAL.

WITH HIS PITTANCE OF SPENDING MONEY HE BOUGHT A SET OF CHEAP SPRING EXERCISERS, AND WITH THE DETERMINATION WHICH CHARACTER—IZES HIM, WENT TO WORK TO BUILD MUSCLES.

SAY SON, WE'RE HAVIN' A SMOKER AT THE K. OF C. HOW'D YOU LIKE TO BOX WILLIE GREEN?

I-I-UH-WELL ALL RIGHT.

THIS TIME GENE FOUGHT A PRETTY EVEN BATTLE WITH WILLIE AND REGAINED PLENTY OF CONFIDENCE. SOON HE WAS A HERO TO THE VILLAGE LADS.

GEE MOM, THEY WANT ME TO BOX AT THE SMOKER IN BROOKLYN. ISN'T THAT SWELL?

NO LAD. I WISH YOU'D FORGET THIS ROUGH BUSINESS.

CONTINUED--JOE AND KNOBBY ARE SPENDING A WEEK END AT TWITTERINGLY HALL IN ENGLAND. THEY HAVE BEEN TOLD THE LEGEND OF SIR GROOPLE-TWITTERINGLY AT DINNER. KNOBBY WENT TO BED AND HERE'S HIS DREAM-----

THEY MUSTA THOUGHT I WAS A YOKEL AN' THAT I'D FALL FER THAT GHOST STUFF-HAW-HAW!

Zzzz

AWK!

WELL!

SPEAK VARLET! WHAT ARE YOU DOING IN MY DEN?

GULP! T-THEY GIMME THIS B-BATH-ROOM---A-ARE YOU SIR G-GROOPLE??

AW I'M JIST SEEIN' THINGS. I DRUNK TOO MUCH PORT. YOU AINT THERE, AT ALL!

LOOK AGAIN!

MARTHA COME HERE-

DO YOU PLAY THREE HANDED WHIST?

I-I-UH-Y-YES.

I SENT HIM INTO THE OTHER ROOM FOR CARDS. NOW, LET'S GO OVER OUR SIGNALS.

REMEMBER GROOPLE, WHEN I SCRATCH MY EAR, THAT MEANS DIAMONDS.

HOW WILL A SHILLIN' A POINT STRIKE YOU?

G-GOSH, I AINT WON A SINGLE H-HAND. THERE'S SOMETHIN' FISHY I THINK. YA GOT ALL MY DOUGH.

DO YOU DARE TO INSINUATE SIR THAT WE CHEAT? GET OUT SIR! WE REFUSE TO PLAY WITH YOU!

I GUESS KNOBBY WON'T MIND IF I TAKE SOME MONEY FER CADDIES AN' STUFF. GEE HE'S SLEEPIN' LATE.

GOSH WHAT A DREAM I HAD LAST NIGHT. I'D ALMOST B'LIEVE IT WAS REAL!

IT WAS!! HOLY SMOKE-ALL MY CASH IS GONE!

HEY! HEY FOLKS H-HOLY SMOKE!!

B-BUT I'M TELLIN' YA WHEN I PUT MY HAND IN MY POCKET, ALL MY DOUGH WAS G-GONE! I D-DON'T WANTA SLEEP THERE NO M-MORE!

I-UH WENT IN AN' GOT MONEY FROM HIS PANTS WHILE HE WAS SLEEPIN'.

IT was a tree that convicted Bruno Hauptmann! Justice, badgered and hoodwinked in these days where the chief efficacy of the law, to most, lies in its loopholes, so found a new ally. To the scientist, this circumstance of tree-ring proof is one capable of coldly logical analysis and verification. Other surprising revelations made by the tree-rings are known to science and are described on this page.

SUN-SPOTS and crime! Here are subjects seemingly as far apart as the poles—or, precisely, as their habitats, the sun and the earth. To associate them is preposterous—to all but the scientists.

To these men of super-sapience, almost any positive attitude on any subject on the part of the layman mind represents just another more or less primitive and prejudicial premise. A premise to be either dismantled or radically revised in the sweeping reconstruction of Man's temple of knowledge now under way. This is due to more enlightened methods of analyses, to discoveries that have put a new face on many problems around and beyond us and, generally, to a changing philosophy of life. The latter in the course of the generations—say these savants—ought to strip the machinery of civilization of its two foremost frictional factors—the social unrests that end in war and the economic upsets that follow crop failures and industrial collapse.

However, to assert that sun spots have a bearing on crime-detection and eradication seems far-fetched and irrational. And when the abstract and profound professors further tell us that "tree rings" form the link between homicide on this terrestrial globe and a gaseous eruption upon the surface of the sun, multiplied milliards of miles away, which we designate as "sun spots"—well, we're more confused than ever and inclined to regard the men of science with a sort of tolerant pity verging on a well-defined suspicion that their deep mental labors have been a bit too much for their cranial equipment.

It is the same sort of incredulity that first greeted the Dutch experimenter who claimed he could bottle lightning in a tube with one end plugged. And when he tried to make his tale sound more reasonable by explaining that, of course, the tube—the Leyden jar—had to be coated on the inside with tinfoil, his altogether too glib technical exposition sounded like "kidding" to his layman friends. They laughed, shook their heads negaitvely and said, knowingly, in one breath: "Can't fool us!" And they probably wiggled a kindly critical finger at the harmless professor.

Well, the "tinfoil" that connects crime and the sun-spots are these same "tree rings," according to no less an authority than Prof. A. E. Douglass. Being both an astronomer—in charge of the Steward Observatory of the University of Arizona—and the father of tree-ring chronology, which he developed during a quarter-century of research, Dr. Douglass ought to know.

And crime in this, its first connection with sun-spots and its intermediary agency, tree rings, is represented specifically by that cause celebre of modern annals of outlawry, the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for murdering the Lindbergh baby. In fact, so important are Dr. Douglass's discoveries and deductions that this courtroom classic is likely to take rank in history, not so much as a sensational criminal action than as a case which gave legal recognition for the first time to the findings of science in wood lore and placed a timber expert on a par with handwriting, fingerprint and ballistics authorities.

To trace the analogy, then, of sun-spots, trees and an atrocious case of baby-snatching, it might be advisable to consider, first of all, the link of these apparently irreconcilable elements—tree rings.

A growing tree produces a layer of wood which, because of the difference in seasoning involved in the time lapse, produces a circle in the cross grain. This is the basis of tree-ring chronology, which has brought fame to Dr. Douglass and which also has attracted widespread attention to the research of S. Beirer Show, California district forester of the United States Forestry Service, and Edward J. Kotok, of the School of Forestry, University of California.

TELL-TALE TREE RINGS

For the First Time in a Criminal Action—the Lindbergh Baby Murder Trial—a Wood Expert, Arthur Koehler, Qualified as a Witness. He Clinched the State's Case Against Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

It is a method which enables one to tell definitely the age of trees or of any structure in which lumber is used—our only actual measuring-stick of the past. And it has been developed to a point where it is possible for the trained observer not only to identify the source of fractional parts of wood, tracing them back to the very trees and regions from which they emanated, but also to determine the actual years in which the trees grew.

This remarkable imprinting of Father Time's flight is possible because the variation of the width of the rings is the same in all normal growth of trees; and this mathematical accuracy on the part of nature has resulted in the "dating" by Dr. Douglass of the construction of the ancient pueblos of the Southwest through visual inspection of timbers used as beams and supports, and the still greater achievement of compiling an unbroken chronology of forestry reaching back to 1300 B. C.

Dr. Douglass in the course of further investigation discovered that rings in trees were especially broad during certain periods. Apparently this was due to greater growth during years of heavy precipitation. Soon he noticed, after a long continued sequence of these periods, that they occurred at regular intervals—in fact, approximately every eleven years. As weather affects trees, so does the sun affect weather, and this simple hypothesis caused the scientist to turn expectantly to his astronomical records. Once more the archeologist and forestician became the astronomer!

SUN-SPOT IN ODD ROLE

Like a Spectral Nemesis, a Solar Volcano Traps a Murder-Trial Defendant Through the Grain of Timber Which Grew Under Its Magnetic Influence.

What Dr. Douglass discovered started him on another exciting adventure in astro-cosmic computation. He found, through perusal and careful analysis of solar records, that so-called sun-spots, first discovered on the surface of the fiery sphere in 1860, recurred in periods ranging from seven to fifteen years. And that, too, was an average of eleven years, or 11.5 years, to be exact, almost exactly paralleling the cycles of emphasized tree-rings he had previously established!

Dr. Douglass's elation only can be imagined when one appreciates his long years of search—a lifetime devoted to the painstaking accumulation of data, conclusive sometimes, more often vague. It has been a career typical of the scientist as a class, more frequently than otherwise unmarked by any positive discovery of moment yet embracing those laboriously garnered bits of information, derived from long years of observation and experimentation, which form the necessary mosaics in the piecing together of a complete pattern. Each significant unto another in the light of the knowledge sought, yet to few is it given to bulk on the horizon of Science as a Newton, a Herschel or a Roentgen, a Millikan or a Marconi.

But was this mere coincidence—a freak of nature of no especial value in the compilation of a constructive sum total of tree knowledge?

For a while even Dr. Douglass was disheartened enough to give this last condition some thought, for, after laboriously rearing his fine theoretical structure, which co-related trees and a phase of solar activity into another manifestation of nature—and after making this strange interplanetary relationship entirely explicable—he discovered a flaw! It was a hiatus of these extra-energized periods of tree growth, as attested by the tree-rings dating from 1670 to 1720. They evidenced a distinct failure of the otherwise uninterrupted eleven-year sequence. They were uniform in every way, with the average ring width of the normal years of tree growth.

This discrepancy tempted Dr. Douglass to cast out all his tediously accumulated information—to quash the experiment, nullify his conclusions and start on a new tack, if future evidence should warrant further pursuit of the theory.

Three years of uncertainty took their toll in heart-breaking effort at rectification of his elaborate and revolutionary deductions. This was now made possible in no small measure by an interpretive device, the cyclograph, of his designing. But just as frustration seemed certain, unexpected vindication of his theory came in the publication of a historical study of sun-spots by Dr. E. Walter Maunder, noted astronomer, of the Royal Observatory of Greenwich, England. From charts and data in this work, Dr. Douglass was able to deduce a great scarcity of sun-spots from 1645 to 1715. This dearth so closely coincided with the failure of the tree-rings of the corresponding period to reflect sun-spot cycles that Dr. Douglass felt further evidence of the soundness of his findings was superfluous.

Nearing the point where the tie-up between crime and sun-spot might be clearly established, a momentary consideration of this odd surface abrasion of the sun—as it seems on photographs—is necessary. These seeming blemishes are in fact great whirling funnel-shaped vortices within which gases from the sun's interior swirl upward and outward. In each of these spiral "spots" are electrons, revolving in common with the gaseous mass and, in so doing, creating a magnetized area many times more powerful than the magnetic field on the earth.

It is quite conceivable, therefore, that, in an electrical and meteorological sense, these powerful disturbances on the sun's surface — sun-spots — react powerfully on this planet of ours—so powerfully, in fact, as to leave their indelible imprint upon trees.

And it was a tree that convicted Bruno Hauptmann! Justice, so badgered and hoodwinked in these days where the chief efficacy of the law, to most, lies in its loopholes, may find solid and soul-warming comfort in this. To the scientist, this circumstance is one capable of coldly logical analysis and proof. To the religiously inclined, it might seem strangely like the reckoning of God himself that a tree should point the way to retribution for the perpetrator of this most heinous of crimes. And to the poet it would seem a matter of divine judgment that the evidence which brought conviction to the electric chair for the man who desecrated the home and destroyed the son of the most universally honored and respected man in the world should come through the mysterious medium of sun-spots from those realms which so often he has skirted.

For the first time in a criminal action, a wood expert qualified as a witness in the Hauptmann trial. And this witness belied the testimony of the police that the ladder—that pivotal "exhibit" upon which the entire case, in its kidnaping angle, hinged—bore no incriminating fingerprints.

Arthur Koehler (the witness) proved, to the satisfaction of the jury and in the eyes of science, that this make-shift affair, crudely carpentered by guilty hands for that specific outrage, bore such fingerprints as no guilty conscience can erase.

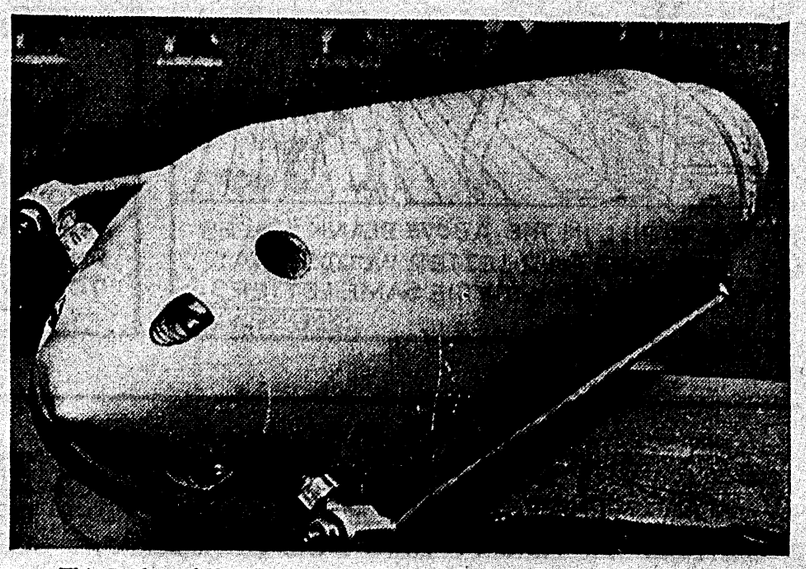
Deftly he traced the lumber used by those broad rings which pointed to the intervention of a higher intelligence. A Government wood analyst and head of the United States Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, Koehler had testified in many legal battles involving timber claims.

He has written fifty-two books and pamphlets on wood and examines close to 3,000 samples of wood annually for the Government. His testimony rang with authority; his elucidation was perfect. He gave the courtroom a simplified lesson in science. And the tree rings he cited were but the "ladder" to the real accuser. Sun-spots pointed out the sin-spots on the soul of Bruno Hauptmann!

Matching the grain in two boards, one used as an upright in the kidnap ladder and the other ripped from the floor of an attic in the Hauptmann home, the witness showed that both were parts of the same length of lumber. He indicated the curve of the annual growth rings, with the convex side up, and a streak of pitch which led from a part of a knot at the edge of the floor board to the edge of the board used as a ladder upright. There was no challenge of this evidence; there could be none.

Says Goethe, in one of his axiomatic moods: "Nothing is so finely spun, that it can flout the glowing sun"—a truism never more dramatically illustrated than in the Hauptmann case.

All Aboard! Next Stop—Mars



This Rocket of New Design and Material, Soon to Be Shot Into Space, Is Expected to Soar Just a Little Closer to Mars Than Has Any Other Projectile of Its Type.

FOLKS, take a grip on yourselves! Be prepared for the worst—sight you ever saw.

It won't be imagination when you see it—nor hallucination. Just something to get used to—like airplanes, Zeps and streamlined trains.

All none too beautiful to look at—but this one has 'em beat. It's an up-to-the-minute stream-lined, cast aluminum sky rocket—and when its blast chamber gets busy and snorts, emitting its highly explosive mixture of gasoline and liquid oxygen through its tail, and splits the ozone both by means of propulsion and pandemonium, don't get panicky.

You know now what to expect, and the American Rocket Society, designers of the new strato-piercing device and backers of the experiment, say it will happen any day now.

The immediate object of the flight is to shatter all existing records for similar excursions; the ultimate one to achieve that seeming chimera of human desires, intercommunication with inhabited neighbor planets. For it is reasonable to suppose that humans inhabit some of the worlds about us; the chemistry and the evolution of life on these planets is the same as on ours. So the members of the society tell us.

Hopes for a signally successful flight by the new craft are high among the members because of its efficient design, offering the minimum of air-resistance. It is practically entirely self-contained and the blast chamber is located in its nose. Two sidereal pipes feed the explosive mixture, made especially combustible because of super-powerful ingredients, to the motor in the head.

All these are innovations or refinements, and the reasons for anticipating perfect performance, higher penetration and new stratospheric data. For the rocket will carry gauges which will automatically lock at the highest point of registration.

When the rocket's force is spent, a parachute carried in a receptacle on the surface of the craft will open automatically and bring the projectile safely back to earth, the builders explain.

Well, then—All aboard! Next stop, Mars.

NOW WAIT- YELLOWPONY- LISTEN HERE!

NO-NO- FIRST YOU LISTEN TO YELLOWPONY!

YOU TELEPHONED CLEAR TO OKLAHOMA- TO TELL YELLOWPONY BRING 'UM DAUGHTER, SUNSET, UP HERE- YOU WANT TO MARRY HER. NOW BY GREAT FATHER, YOU GONNA MARRY HER.

YOU'RE RIGHT- I'M GOING TO MARRY SUNSET-

BUT I'D RATHER YOU DROVE US ALL BACK TO OKLAHOMA FIRST. I'D RATHER MARRY HER IN YOUR COUNTRY- AMONG YOUR PEOPLE-AND YOUR CUSTOMS. WOULDN'T THAT BE BETTER?

BESIDES- YOU DON'T LIKE THIS CITY-AND NEITHER DO WE.. LET'S GET OUT!

OKAY- IF THAT'S THE WAY YOU FEEL ABOUT IT! I'LL HAVE MY BROTHER GET THE PARSON AND WE'LL HAVE THE WEDDING RIGHT NOW. GET PARSON JACKSON, JIM.

OKAY.

MAKING AS IF TO LEAVE THE APARTMENT, ZORA ARSON STEPS INTO THE NEXT ROOM AND CLOSES THE DOOR...

THAT MUST BE JIM AND THE PARSON.

KNOCK KNOCK

COME IN, PARSON.

YOUR BROTHER TOLD ME TO COME HERE. HE SAID HE WOULD BE UP LATER- HE HAD TO STOP AT A STORE.

COME, SUNSET, MY DAUGHTER, BEFORE THE GREAT SPIRIT, I GIVE YOU AS WIFE TO WHITE HUSBAND-

MUCH HAPPY, MY FATHER.

TRACY KEY-APRIL 7

MEANWHILE, DICK TRACY, DOING DUTY WITH THE ROVING SQUAD, PASSES UP THE STREET WHERE CHIEF YELLOWPONY'S CAR IS PARKED....

WAIT A MINUTE, HAFFEY! ISN'T THAT AN OKLAHOMA LICENSE ON THAT BIG CAR?

YEAH- IT IS!

OKAY, GO AHEAD! I THOUGHT I RECOGNIZED THAT CAR. HMM! I GUESS MY INDIAN FRIEND REACHED HIS DESTINATION OKAY. GO AHEAD.
